Khrush Asks 'Honest' Talks

Titov's Flight Gives Man Ticket To Moon

Moscow Plans Hero's Welcome For Spaceman

MOSCOW (AP)—Maj. Gherman Stepanovich Titov, the newest Soviet space traveler, returned safely from a 25-hour flight around the earth, the Soviet Union announced, and this feat, in effect, gave man a flight ticket to the moon.

"I feel very well," the 26-year-old air force pilot told Premier Khrushchev by telephone. He covered roughly the distance of a trip to the moon and return in 17 orbits of the earth, the Soviets said.

Khrushchev promised Titov a hero's reception on his arrival in Moscow from somewhere in the interior.

"We shall give you a worthy welcome in Moscow, as a whole people, as a whole country," he said.

Titov returned 25 hours and 18 minutes after he blasted off on a journey of about 435,000 miles, the announcement said.

Ate, Slept Aboard Craft

He was reported to have eaten, slept, and manually operated the five-ton space craft Vostok II as he whizzed at about 300 miles a minute at an altitude ranging from 110.5 to 159.59 miles above the earth.

He was fired into orbit Sunday morning and a writer for the Soviet news agency Tass said his silver space ship looked like a "roaring fiery globe" as it shot upward.

Moscow radio said Titov came down near the landing site of the first Soviet spaceman, Maj. Yuri Gagarin. Gagarin is thought to have landed about 450 miles southeast of Moscow on his return from a single trip around the earth April 12.

There were no details and no indication whether the ship landed intact. The Russians said Gagarin's Vostok I landed without damage.

Titov told Khrushchev he had successfully completed his task, had been given a big reception on the ground, had a drink of water, and felt fine.

Party, Kremlin Hail Flight

The Soviet Communist party and government proclaimed that Titov's flight showed manned spaceships will soon "blaze space routes to the moon, Mars and Venus."

In a joint statement they praised "the new tremendous achievement of the Soviet Union, our science and technology, the entire national economy and the great advantages of the socialist social system which is the most progressive in the world."

In London, Kenneth Gatland, vice president of the British Interplanetary Society, said it was likely the Russians would put a man on the moon in 1966 or 1967, with a reconnaissance flight much sooner.

"What is so interesting about this latest Russian success," he said, "is that Vostok II had enough air and food provisions in it for a round-the-moon reconnaissance flight which would last for about five to eight days."

The flight kept much of the world on edge for a day and night. The pilot's series of radio messages—he called himself "the eagle"—were often spiced with a cool touch of bravado.

Latin America Offered U.S. Aid Program

Long-Term Loans Pledged By Dillon; Reforms Demanded

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—The United States offered Latin America Monday a half-century program of economic and social development "to demonstrate to the world that freedom and progress walk hand in hand."

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon urged the 20 nations of Latin America attending the historic Inter-American Economic and Social Conference here to dedicate themselves to "a bold and massive effort."

He made it clear the Latin Americans would have to undertake their own reform programs and organize effective plans so the money "can be put to work rapidly, wisely and well."

He also made it clear the United States would not shoulder all the financial burden. Dillon said international lending institutions as well as Japan and the countries of Europe would join in and eventually stability and organization would attract billions in the Latin Americans' own capital now invested outside their countries.

The delegates listened attentively to Dillon. At the end they rose and gave him a prolonged ovation —except for the Cuban delegation.

Almost before the applause ended, Cuba's economic czar, Ernesto Guevara, led his delegation from the room.

Alliance For Progress

Following President Kennedy's initial pledge of $1 billion a year in public assistance to the continent—three times last year's amount—Dillon launched Kennedy's Alliance for Progress to strengthen the continent against Communist penetration.

He pledged the United States to development loans on a long-term basis "running where appropriate up to 50 years."

"We also intend to make the bulk of these loans at very low or zero rates of interest," the chief U. S. delegate said. With the United States shouldering interest charges, such loans would amount in substance to 80 per cent grants and easily match or better the terms offered by the Soviet Union in its loans to backward countries.

Urgency Note Struck

The immediate U. S. objective here is to win cooperation for the 10-year multibillion-dollar Alliance for Progress to raise living and literacy standards for Latin-America's rapidly expanding population. The meeting is being held at this South Atlantic resort 120 miles from Montevideo, isolated from traditional Communist demonstration tactics aimed at breaking up inter-American meetings.

Dillon's speech aroused immediate enthusiasm among the government-level delegates acutely aware of heavy pressures from the extreme left at home.

A tone of urgency threaded through the speeches of Latin-American delegates preceeding Dillon on the flag-draped dais.

Eduardo Figueroa, Chile's finance minister, warned the hemisphere it is "fighting against time."

Finance Minister Juan Eduardo Azzini of Uruguay, chairman of the conference, opened the session with this statement: "Latin America is boiling . . . we seek the light which will illuminate our men, and we detest the fire which devours them."

Allies Embark On Buildup Job

Big 4 Ministers Achieve Berlin Strategy Unity

PARIS (AP) — The United States, Britain, France and West Germany, after three days of top level talks, set out Monday night on the difficult task of building Allied military strength in Europe while searching out means of avoiding its use in the tension-packed Berlin crisis.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk polished up a report he will make to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council Tuesday, recommending that NATO forces be brought up to full strength by addition of 75,000 to 80,000 men, weapons, equipment and transport.

Experts of the four powers went to work on ways to further impress the Soviet Union that the West is determined to preserve West Berlin, refusing to back down in the face of Communist threats, but willing to negotiate the entire Berlin and German problem if given a reasonable basis.

Asian Problems Aired

The ministers spent two days on the Berlin issue and then the three Western diplomats concluded in emergency conference at noon Monday after a discussion on South Viet Nam, Laos and other Southeast Asian problems.

Rusk told British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and France's Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville American economic and military efforts are starting to bring about an improvement in South Viet Nam's battle against Communist infiltration from the north.

The ministers went on to other global problems only after they were satisifed they had achieved unity with West Germany's Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano on how to proceed on the Berlin and Germany questions.

The Western camp was visibly elated at Von Brentano's reaffirmed declaration in the name of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer: West Germany has complete faith in her Western allies and prefers to remain outside any approach to the Soviet Union in order to avoid muddying the water. Von Brentano told the ministers the Bonn government is confident its interests will be best served by American, British and French negotiators.

Rusk To Visit Adenauer

By way of returning the compliment, Rusk decided to visit Adenauer at his vacation place on Lake Como before returning to the United States.

Conference sources said the Paris talks served two purposes on the Berlin problem:

1. All previous plans and positions were brought together for another look, a search for a hole in the Soviet armor through which the West may still drive home its main point of preserving West Berlin's 2½ million people from being gobbled up by the surrounding East German Communist regime.

2. A new round of diplomatic activity is spurred, first by assigning the standing four-power working group on Germany to new efforts, next by another Western foreign ministers meeting during the U.N. General Assembly meeting in New York in September, and perhaps after that by some recommendations for arriving at talks with the Soviet Union.

Charges West Pushes World To War Brink

Nik Says He Wants Peace But May Have To Call Up Reserves

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev accused the Western powers Monday of "pushing the world to a dangerous brink" in the quarrel over Berlin and said he may have to mobilize reserves and move more Soviet divisions to the western front in Germany.

But he insisted the Soviet Union is not seeking trouble and in these words urged negotiations:

"Let's sit down around a table and negotiate in an honest way.

"Let's not create hysteria.

"Let's clear the atmosphere, let's rely on sense and not on the strength of thermonuclear weapons."

The 85-minute speech — transmitted by radio and TV over the Soviet Union and parts of Europe including Germany—was delivered in comparatively calm tones.

Khrushchev had praise for the newest Soviet conquest in space but he did not brandish it — as had been expected in some Western quarters—as an overriding power factor.

The speech was aimed mainly at President Kennedy, whose address 10 days ago to the American people on Berlin and the world situation is reported to have angered the Soviet leader.

"Dangerous Course"

Kennedy, Khrushchev said, was replying to the Khrushchev proposals for a peace treaty with Germany with threatening measures to increase war strength.

Khrushchev gave little emphasis to his plan announced nearly three years ago to change the status of Berlin by his own hand unless the West agrees to all his terms.

Appealing to the Soviet people to understand if he has to call up more men for the Soviet army, and making no reference to the American plea to let the German question rest for awhile, Khrushchev said:

"The United States is in effect carrying out measures in the nature of a mobilization, and is threatening to start a war. Its allies in the Western bloc support this dangerous course.

"When a situation like this arises, it would be impermissible for us to sit with folded hands."

But the Soviet government has examined the situation and has decided that no increased expenditure would be needed now, he went on. He said the rocket strength, other arms in being and already being manufactured, would secure the country's safety.

Troop Buildup In West Hinted

"The Western powers are now pushing the world to a dangerous brink," Khrushchev continued, "and the threat of a military attack by the imperialists on the Socialist states is not to be ruled out.

"We shall watch the developments and act according to how the situation shapes up.

"It may be that we shall have to increase in the future the numerical strength of the army of the western frontier by moving divisions from other parts of the Soviet Union. In connection with this, we may have to call up a part of the reservists so that our divisions have a full complement and are ready for any actuality."

President Kennedy showed common sense in wishing to avoid war, he said, but he added that expressions of common sense are not enough.

The Soviet Union will "strike a crushing blow at the territory of the United States" and at overseas bases and America's Allies, if war breaks out, he warned.

Western statesmen should not "play with the destinies of the world," he advised, saying "the flames of world war are threatening to ignite."

The tenor of his remarks was

Some Officials See Ray Of Hope In Khrush Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nikita Khrushchev's latest speech made it clear he still intends trying to force the West to deal with the East Germans by dividing Germany permanently, American officials said Monday night.

Some members of Congress saw a note of hope in the Soviet premier's address, particularly his promise not to blockade Communist - surrounded West Berlin. But other officials warned against placing too much dependence on the no-blockade pledge.

The White House, meanwhile, said President Kennedy would have no comment on the speech until he could read a U.S. translation.

Press officer Lincoln White said the State Department would not "shoot from the hip" in assessing Khrushchev's remarks.

Other officials said after a preliminary reading of the speech that it still was not clear how close to the brink of war the premier will go in trying to isolate West Berlin from the West.

These officials said privately that Khrushchev's words indicated no softening of Soviet demands and no fresh hopes for a negotiated settlement of the Berlin crisis.

The only new elements in the Khrushchev speech, according to their preliminary study, were his appeal to the neutral nations for support and his use of the new Soviet space triumph to underline his tough military talk.

Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said the Soviet leader's remarks on Berlin "are all very reassuring if he means it and if those words mean the same thing to him that they mean to me."

Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey said "it is all well for Nikita Khrushchev to tell us of his plans for war, but it is time for the West to demand that he tell of his plans for peace."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., a foreign relations member, said Khrushchev's no - blockade assurance "is a long step" for Russia. "It's about time for both sides to stop shaking missiles and start talking," he added.

Rev. Niemoeller Hurt, Wife Killed As Car Hits Tree

AABENRAA, Denmark (AP) — The wife of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller was killed and the German Evangelical leader was critically injured Monday.

His automobile spun across a road and hit a tree. Another German woman, Dorothea Schultz, died later in a hospital.

Mrs. Niemoeller was 71. Her husband was imprisoned by the Nazis for eight years. Police said the pastor, 69, may have become ill and lost control of the car.

Niemoeller and his family were reported en route to a vacation in Scandinavia.

Father And Son Indicted In Jet Plane Hijacking

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—A U.S. grand jury indicted ex-convict Leon Bearden and his 16-year-old son Cody Monday on six counts of violating the federal laws last Thursday when they hijacked a $5 million jet airliner and tried to make the pilot fly it to Cuba.

The Beardens were routed from the Continental Airlines Boeing 707 jet airliner after a seige of more than nine hours. They are in jail in lieu of bond totaling $100,000 each.

The counts the grand jury indicted them on include:

—Kidnaping and transporting in interstate commerce Byron D. Rickards, Ralph Louis Wagner and Norman Lindley Simmons. Rickards, Wagner and Lindley were pilot, first officer and second officer, respectively of the plane.

—Conspiring, beginning about July 15 in Chandler, Coolidge and Phoenix, Ariz., to kidnap the crew and transport it in interstate commerce.

—Transporting the plane in interstate commerce, knowing it was stolen.

—That Leon Bearden, 38, the father, previously convicted of a crime of violence (robbery) transported in interstate commerce a 38-caliber revolver and a 45-caliber automatic pistol.

—Obstructing commerce by robbery and the use of force in seizing control of the plane, directing Rickards to fly it to Cuba and holding the pilot, crew and passengers under armed guard from the point of seizure to El Paso.

—Obstructing commerce by extorting their transportation and seizing the plane.

Acting Atty. Gen. Bryon R. White said in Washington that maximum penalties on the charges are life imprisonment for both Bearden and his son; $27,000 in fines for the father, and $25,000 in fines for the son.

U.S., Russ Agree On Air Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Soviet Union have reached basic agreement for the start of direct passenger plane service between New York and Moscow.

A formal agreement should be signed shortly, the State Department announced Monday.

The matter of the direct air route has been under discussion here by U.S. and Soviet representatives since July 18 and only some technical details remain to be ironed out.

The agreement will provide for direct commercial flights by Soviet government-operated Aeroflot planes and by aircraft of Pan American World Airways, which has been awarded the New York-Moscow run.

U.S. officials view the agreement as a purely technical one and attach no political significance to it.

The first direct flights on the 5,000-mile run are not expected to start until next spring because of certain technical problems that must be worked out first.

Cop-Killer, Rapist Executed In Florida

RAIFORD, Fla. (UPI) — Convicted cop-killer Norman J. Mackiewicz, a World War II hero, and rapist Robert W. Davis, were electrocuted Monday.

The double execution, Florida's 30th, ended years of legal maneuvering by the two men to escape execution. Their deaths were the 186th and 187th since Florida began using the electric chair in 1924.

Ribicoff Moves For Auto Blowby Control Devices

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff served notice Monday the automobile industry must pledge by January to provide blowby control devices as standard equipment on 1964 cars or he will ask for legislation to require them.

Such devices reduce air pollution from exhaust fumes.

Ribicoff said he prefers that the effort to help solve the air pollution problem be carried out voluntarily by the manufacturers but that he will move in January to seek legislation if the industry has not announced a voluntary agreement.

The secretary, representatives of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, Inc., Detroit, and engineering representatives of the major auto manufacturers met with newsmen following a discussion of the problem.

Ribicoff explained he had been told the industry is in the process of testing blowby control devices, and that it will take until next April to finish this testing.

He said he was told the devices present engineering problems in that they would be used in diverse climates, at diverse altitudes, and under diverse conditions.

Blowby gas is just what the name implies—unburned or partially burned hydrocarbons which blow by the cylinders of an internal combustion engine—the kind in automobiles.

Such engines have a draft tube through which these gases escape into the atmosphere. The device under study captures the vapors and returns them through the combustion chamber.

Powerful Solid-Fuel Rocket Engine Tested

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A rocket engine with the potential to lift into an orbit a vehicle three times the weight of the latest Russian manned space craft was announced Monday.

Whether it will be developed to full potential still is a question.

Barnet R. Adelman, executive vice president of United Technology Corp. (UTC) said his firm on Saturday successfully test-fired a new solid-fuel rocket engine that weighed 75,000 pounds and developed 220,000 pounds of total thrust.

It is technically possible, Adelman said, to construct within a year a cluster of seven, each twice as large as the one fired, to develop approximately 3,000,000 pounds of thrust.

This, he said, would be enough to put into orbit a 30,000-pound payload—three times the weight of Soviet astronaut Gherman S. Titov's space vehicle.

Red Spy's Plea Fails, Gets Life Term, Collapses

NEW YORK (UPI)—Leukemia-doomed Dr. Robert Soblen was sentenced Monday to life in prison for wartime spying for Russia.

He collapsed when he heard his fate.

The Lituhuanian-born psychiatrist, stricken with lymphatic leukemia, is expected to live less than a year. He was convicted July 13 on one count of conspiracy to commit espionage and another count of actually transmitting to Russia wartime secrets, including information about the development of the atomic bomb.

Judge William B. Herlands imposed the life sentence on the espionage charge and added a concurrent 10-year sentence on the conspiracy count. The 60-year-old defendant, a naturalized citizen, could have been sentenced to death.

Before sentence was passed, the ailing Dr. Soblen made an impassioned plea for leniency in which he denied actually being a spy and asked that his age and his physical condition be taken into consideration.

Herlands, who previously had told Soblen that he considered espionage analogous to mass murder, rejected the plea. The judge said this country opened its doors and gave the defendant the chance to earn a living, to enjoy the blessings of freedom and liberty.

"In return," Herlands said, "the defendant betrayed his benefactor."

Soblen will be taken to the federal prison at Springfield, Mo., to serve his term.

East Germany's 1961 Farm Outlook Poor

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U. S. study predicts a poor 1961 farm year for East Germany and failure of the Communist regime's drive to match West Germany's agriculture by 1965.

Amid continuing reports of a mass exodus of refugees from East Germany, the State Department circulated Monday a 24-page study which was drawn up by U. S. Agriculture Department experts.

The document noted that East Germany is the only Eastern European country outside the Soviet Union to have announced complete socialization of its farm system.

Saying prospects for 1961 farm output in East Germany appear unfavorable, the study cited manpower shortages, inefficiency and too-late planting of spring grains, potatoes and sugar beets. These combined with natural handicaps including flood damage.

Met, Blaming Musicians' Demand, Cancels Season

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera, blaming "exorbitant demands" of its 90 orchestra musicians, canceled Monday its 1961-62 season and along with it the annual spring tour of America.

There have been two cancelations in recent years that never went into effect, when labor differences were patched up.

The American Federation of Musicians, Local 802, had sought a $78 a week boost for the 90 members of the Met orchestra, for 6 performances a week. The present minimum scale is $170 for seven performances.

The Met's 77th season was scheduled to open in New York Oct. 23 with Puccini's "La Fanciulla del West," starring Leontyne Price, Richard Tucker and Anselmo Colzani.

Last year the Met operated with a deficit of $840,000.

Anthony A. Bliss, president of the Metropolitan Opera Association Inc., said the musicians' demands would add more than $750,000 to the deficit in the forthcoming season, boosting it over $1.5 million.

Most of the Met's stars currently are scattered around Europe, South America and the United States. They were released a week ago from all obligations for the coming season, to enable them to contract elsewhere for their services.

The Met's repertory for the coming season was planned to include 26 operas.

Bliss announced the cancellation of the coming season and added:

"The Metropolitan delayed abandonment of the season until cancellation of principal artists' contracts made it impossible to proceed."

Bus Plunge Report Described As Hoax

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol and sheriff's officers from two counties Monday described as a hoax a telephone tip that a busload of 50 Boy Scouts Monday tumbled into Jackson Lake near the Big Pines recreation area.

"It's apparently somebody's idea of a joke," a San Dimas sheriff's station deputy said.

Emergency vehicles from San Bernardino and Los Angeles counties, as well as divers from Hermosa Beach, were dispatched to Jackson Lake when a telephone call was received by the Highway Patrol. The man, claiming he was at Big Pines, declared that a bus with 50 aboard had plunged into the lake.

Woman Killed, 7 Injured In Three-Vehicle Crash

By The Associated Press

A Hagerstown woman was killed and seven other persons were injured Monday night in an Eastern Shore collision involving two cars and a truck.

State Police identified the victim as Mrs. Rosa Ann Shanks, 61. She was pronounced dead of a fractured skull at the scene, on U.S. 50 near Salem in Dorchester County.

Admitted to Cambridge - Maryland Memorial Hospital were four others injured in the same car. Police identified them as Egbert Smith, the driver; Mrs. Frances Butts, daughter of the dead woman, and two children, Debra Moore, 10, and Gregory Hoover, 11, all of Hagerstown.

A man and woman in the other car were also admitted to the hospital. They were identified by police as Ray Douglas Thomas, 42, of Takoma Park, Md., the driver, and Elizabeth McCoy, 39, of Washington, D. C.

The truck driver, L. C. Horace, 28, of Olney, Va., was treated at the hospital for a leg injury.

State Police said Horace told them he was driving north when the southbound Thomas car veered across the road, struck his truck and then slammed into the Hagerstown car, traveling behind the truck. The truck, loaded with 450 baskets of tomatoes, overturned.

Earlier Monday, two workers died in separate accidents in Maryland, making a total of nine persons killed in the state since last Saturday.

An accident on U.S. 50 a mile north of Hebron, Md., killed Reginald Clarence Davis, 42, of Selbyville, Del., who died when the dump truck he was operating went off the highway and overturned. State Police at the Salisbury barracks said Davis apparently fell asleep at the wheel and lost control of the vehicle.

In Dorchester County, Floyd Collins, 21, of Painter, Va., an employe of the Williamsburg Canning Co., fell into a pit filled with tomato juice and apparently drowned. His body was found by a fellow worker.

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A motorcycle policeman crashed his vehicle into Pope John's limousine Monday as the Pontiff was being driven into the Vatican. The limousine was damaged slightly but the Pope escaped injury.

The motorcyclist suffered only a foot injury. The Pope had his chauffeur stop to make sure the policeman was not hurt seriously.

Congress Votes Moon Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress Monday gave President Kennedy the money he requested for starting an urgent program to beat Russia in landing men on the moon.

Kennedy had said the project, expected to reach its objective by 1970, was the one remaining area in which the United States could jump ahead of the Russians in the space race.

The moon funds were included in $1.7 billion given the National Aeronautics and Space Agency (NASA) to step up American space efforts.

The NASA appropriation, in turn, was part of a compromise $8,862,350,000 independent offices money bill which passed both the House and Senate by voice vote. The total was $208 million below the budget request.

House and Senate conferees trimmed $77,250,000 from the extra $594 million requested by Kennedy to accelerate the space program. Officials said the cut would not hurt the moon shot.

Expressway Aids Planned

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two state agencies Monday announced plans for a study to determine ways of improving services to motorists using Maryland's new expressways.

A special committee composed of State Police and State Roads Commission representatives will be appointed to explore, among other things:

1. Numbering of expressway exits, which is done extensively on toll roads and turnpikes in New Jersey, New York and New England states.

2. Providing police patrols on expressways with equipment that will enable patrolmen to aid motorists whose cars break down.

3. Locating police and maintenance facilities at places other than interchanges along expressways.

John B. Funk, chairman of the State Roads Commission, and Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of State Police, announced the study plans in a joint statement.

The special committee, they said, would be directed to report its findings not later than Oct. 31.

Sen. Randolph 'Resents' Rep. Moore's Implication

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., Monday replied to criticism by Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr., R-W.Va., of the senator's support of a nuclear power bill.

Randolph and Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., backed an amendment to authorize $5 million for coal research. The amendment was offered by Randolph.

Randolph in a speech prepared for the Senate said Moore had been quoted as saying he was amazed that the best interest of coal miners and the coal industry were traded for peanuts on the floor of the Senate.

The senator said that if Moore was quoted correctly, West Virginia's lone Republican congressman was charging, in effect, "that I uttered a falsehood in the Senate on July 24 when I stated "that there was no barter arrangement in supporting the $95 million project at Hanford, Wash."

"Of course I resent Rep. Moore's implication that I spoke untruthfully," Randolph said. "But I believe he went beyond being accurate and unfair in charging that the best interests of coal miners and the coal industry were traded for peanuts on the floor of the U.S. Senate."

"Inasmuch as the $5 million coal research amendment was adopted by the Senate without a dissenting voice . . . , Rep. Moore's unfortunate use of the word 'trade' is equivalent to charging all senators with complicity in a conspiracy — which I am sure is a figment of the gentleman's imagination—against the coal miners and coal producers of the United States. I regret that a fellow West Virginian has instigated such a false charge."

Charges West

similar to his speech of July 8, when he spoke of negotiation but warned the Soviet Union is building up its military might.

The feat of Soviet spaceman Gherman Titov in orbiting the earth for 25 hours had been expected to be used by Khrushchev for a tougher stand. He had praise at the outset for the young air force major, but his words in the main were like those of last month.

Khrushchev said Kennedy had interpreted Soviet proposals "not as a plan to liquidate the past war but to start a new one" and had replied to them with "a resort to threats."

He mentioned Kennedy's call for a 217,000-man increase in the armed forces, said U.S. senators "were shouting for even higher appropriations" than the $3.5 billion Kennedy asked for, and "military hysteria is increasing in the United States."

As he has said before, Khrushchev insisted "we do not intend to infringe upon any lawful interests of the Western powers—any barring of access to Berlin, any blockade of West Berlin, is entirely out of the question."

But Khrushchev said access rights would have to be settled with the East German Communist regime, which the West does not recognize.

Man Held In Robbery Waives Extradition

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A man captured in Houston Saturday will be returned to West Virginia to face charges of being an accomplice in a robbery and of murder.

Patrick L. Muldrew Jr., 27, waived extradition charges Monday in a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Ralph Fowler, who sent his bond at $5,000.

Muldrew will be returned to Wheeling, W. Va., where he is wanted in connection with a grocery store robbery there. He was arrested here when a policeman recognized his car.

Financier Faces Charges In Dog's Locked Car Death

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — John Fox, former Boston publisher and financier, was charged with cruelty to animals Monday after one of two great Danes he had locked in his parked automobile died of suffocation.

Robert Malik, a Fayette County humane officer, brought the charges against Fox. Malik said the dogs were found locked in Fox's car last Saturday while it was parked in a lot here.

One of the dogs had died and the other was suffering from lack of oxygen, Malik said, even though the windows in the car had been lowered about two inches. Malik said it was a hot day and the interior of the car became very hot.

Tawes Intervenes In Electrical Strike

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes met with union officials and electrical contractors Monday night in an effort to settle a 51-day-old strike which has hampered construction work in the Baltimore metropolitan area.

Called to the governor's office for the meeting were representatives of the Maryland chapter of the National Electrical Contractors Association, which includes 26 employers, and officials of striking Local 28 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The governor asked them to get together "for the public good." He said millions of dollars of construction work is being tied up and numerous people are unemployed as well as the 1,400 members of the striking local.

Telephone saves Myers family
$19.40... helps keep Little League team on the ball

The Myers' son, Hudson, calls a Little League teammate to let him know the time to meet for practice.

We recently asked Mrs. H. Hudson Myers, Jr., of Lutherville, to keep a two-week "telephone diary" of her family's telephone calls. Our reason: to find out how much time, money and travel the telephone saves them.

At the end of two weeks, the totals in Mrs. Myers' diary showed their telephone saved 20 valuable hours, 210 miles of travel and $19.40.

The Myers' ten-year-old son, Hudson, found the phone pretty handy, too. He arranges the practice sessions for his Little League baseball team—a roundup job that would take hours without the telephone. He's a big telephone fan.

What would a telephone diary show in your home? You'd probably find, too, that your telephone does far more for you . . . than the small amount it costs.

GAS AIR CONDITIONING

People discover complete Gas air conditioning—and they want it. They're usually surprised to find it costs less than they imagined to install and to operate, too.

Gas provides year-round, total comfort using one thermostat, one central heating and cooling system. In the summer, you sleep better, cook and bake in a cool kitchen, enjoy your home more than ever. Then in winter, with the flick of a dial, your home is kept warm and snug with fresh air, Gas heat. And both from the same Gas heating-cooling system. Why settle for less?

Discover Gas air conditioning for yourself. The installation costs of a central Gas heating-cooling system in a new home can be financed with the mortgage for a very modest increase in payments. Are you planning to remodel? Consider having a Gas add-on air conditioning unit installed in your present Gas forced air heating system. You can probably use the existing heating ductwork to get added installation economies.

If you are planning to build or buy a new home, or to remodel your present home, find out about Gas air conditioning. You'll want it!

State Police Capture Labor Camp Escapees

HOOPER ISLAND, Md. (AP) — State Police Monday captured three escapees from the Poplar Hill labor camp who were hiding in an unoccupied house here.

Arrested were Joel D. Lewis, 46, of Hooper Island; Walter Shipley Jr., 41, of Westminster, Md.; and Jack R. Sproiles of Baltimore. Lewis was serving an 18-year sentence on murder charges. The other two were serving terms for robbery.

Police said the trio had walked away from the minimum security camp near Salisbury early Sunday morning. Their escape brought to seven the number of inmates who walked away from the Eastern Shore camp in the past week. All have been recaptured.

In Baltimore, the superintendent of Maryland's Department of Correction, James Curran, said there were no security measures, as such, at the camp. He said prisoners were thoroughly screened before being assigned there.

Shipley was in the State Penitentiary for 10 months before transfer to the labor camp, Curran said, and had spent more than two years at the camp on a previous confinement. Shipley had been at the camp for 3½ years under a current sentence before his escape, Curran reported.

Lewis had been at Poplar Hill only eight months, Curran said. Previously, he had served nearly 11 years of his 18-year sentence in the House of Correction.

Members of the Wicomico County legislative delegation expressed concern over the series of escapes.

Dels. James E. Caldwell, Robert P. Cannon and E. Homer White Jr. indicated they wanted to know more about how the camp was operated and whether security measures and selection of prisoners were strict enough.

"Obviously, some corrective measure is needed somewhere along the line. I'd want to look into all facets of it before commenting further," White said.

Maryland Briefs

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — A $20 fine has been imposed on last of five men charged with violating the Howard County blue laws.

Circuit Court Judge James Macgill imposed the fine on Harvey Morganstern, 32, of Baltimore, identified as president of the Boulevard Market near Waterloo. He had pleaded innocent.

Morganstern's case had been under advisement. The four other defendents, all accused of operating businesses on Sunday, April 26, received similar fines after the trial.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore Health Department official disclosed Monday that X-ray equipment of all private dentists in the city is under examination for possible radiation danger.

Dr. Huntington Williams, health commissioner, said the executive council of the city dental society invited the investigation "in the interest of the health and protection of the people."

He said the purpose was to "prevent unnecessary radiation scatter which could give trouble." There are 570 private dentists in Baltimore whose X-ray equipment will be tested, Dr. Williams said.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland restaurant owners were urged by letter Monday to drop racial discrimination policies.

The letter, mailed by the Civic Interest Group, a Baltimore organization supporting integration, urged restaurants to serve well-dressed and well-behaved Negroes.

BALTIMORE (AP) — At least 11 per cent of Baltimore's public school population will have to attend school on a half-day basis this year because of overcrowded classrooms.

The Department of Education said Monday 12,248 children will attend classes four hours each day. The total compares with 12,784 part-time pupils during the last school year.

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — A one million dollar family center for performance and teaching of the arts is being planned by the Montgomery County Arts Center, members said Monday.

The plan was outlined as the group acquired its first permanent offices at 7927 Wisconsin Ave. in Bethesda.

A site for the new facility, which members hope to have in operation by 1964, has not been chosen.

Throughout the history of the United States, the proportion of church membership in the total population has risen.

Three Negroes Fined $100 Each For Disorder

FERNDALE, Md. (AP)—Three Negro members of a Philadelphia social club each were fined $100 and costs Monday after conviction on charges of disorderly conduct and assaulting a policeman.

The incident was touched off Sunday when a restaurant operator on Ritchie Highway, in Anne Arundel County south of Baltimore, refused service to more than 50 Negroes who had stopped on their way from Philadelphia to a nearby beach.

Testimony at the hearing before Magistrate Ralph C. Boyd was that two buses containing the 50 club members stopped at the restuarant around noon and that a dispute arose when the counter man, George Geshen, refused them service.

Anne Arundel County police were summoned and the three defendants were arrested for disorderly conduct. During the course of the arrest, officers testified, the three became violent and were charged with striking an offfcer.

Those fined in Ferndale Police Court were Louis Williams, 40, a guard at Holmesburg Prison in Philadelphia; his wife, Adell, 42; and his stepson, Ernest J. Frederick, 28.

In imposing the sentences, which he termed lenient, Boyd said the restaurant proprietor was within his rights in refusing service.

Williams described the charges as "trumped up." He said he was trying to get the bus riders from the restaurant to avoid trouble when the police arrived and the dispute began.

Pa. Film Censor Appeal Planned

HARRISBURG (AP) — Atty. Gen. Anne X. Alpern says the state asked the U. S. Supreme Court to review a Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruling that declared the state's movie censorship law unconstitutional.

Miss Alpern said the petition for a review was made at the request of Gov. Lawrence.

The State Supreme Court issued its 4-3 decision two weeks ago. It upset the motion picture control act of 1959 which was designed to overcome previous high court objections to the state's original 1915 censorship act.

Miss Alpern said in a statement that the decision of the State Supreme Court "is in direct conflict with a recent United States Supreme Court decision" upholding a similar law in Chicago.

The 1959 law would require films to be approved by a State Board of Censors. Administrative costs of the board would be financed through licensing fees imposed on film handlers.

Members Back Union's Battle

BALTIMORE (AP) — Members of a striking Baltimore electrical union have given almost-unanimous support to their local to continue its battle with the parent group, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW).

The electricians, members of Local 28, voted to continue a 50-day old strike in defiance of orders from the IBEW to either go back to work or lose their national affiliation.

The local obtained a temporary court injunction restraining the IBEW from disenfranchising it. The parent organization had charged that the local went on strike without its permission. IBEW lawyers, in reply briefs, asked that the suit and injunction be dismissed on grounds the court had no jurisdiction in the case.

Local 28 also has charged the National Electrical Contractors Association, representing 26 contractors in the Baltimore area, with failing to bargain in good faith.

The strike against the contractors has impaired electrical contracting work on a number of industrial projects in the metropolitan area.

Volunteer firemen from Prescott and Augusta fought the blaze for some 10 hours before bringing it under control. The 60-year-old three-story, 26-room hotel was completely gutted.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined. Unofficial estimates put the damage at $125,000.

Pemco-Glidden Merger Okayed

BALTIMORE (AP) — The boards of directors of the Pemco Corp. of Baltimore and the Glidden Paint Co. of Cleveland Monday approved a merger of the two firms.

The joining will be accomplished by an exchange of stock valued by the companies at about $10 million.

Plans for the merger were announced jointly by Dwight P. Joyce, Glidden chairman and president, and Richard Turk, Pemco chairman. The transaction is subject to approval by shareholders of both companies.

Glidden is to exchange 200,000 shares of a new 4¼ per cent convertible preferred stock for 100,000 outstanding shares of Pemco common. The new Glidden issue would be convertible at any time into a total of 225,000 shares of Glidden common, at an approximate conversion price of $45 a share, Joyce reported.

Turk is to become a Glidden director and a vice president. Pemco, which produces porcelain enamel and ceramic frits and inorganic colors, would be operated as a separate unit in Glidden's chemicals group.

Pemco, which employs 260 at its Baltimore facilities, had sales last year of $8.4 million and net profit of $501,000.

Tobacco Allotment Bill Clears House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a bill Monday to permit tobacco growers to lease and transfer tobacco acreage allotments in the same county for 1962 and 1963.

The leases would be limited to one year but could be renewed for the 1963 crop. The bill also would restrict to five acres the amount of an allotment that could be leased and transferred to any farm.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

Residents Of Arch Street Say Repaving Unnecessary

Property owners of Arch Street told the Mayor and Council yesterday that the street does not need resurfacing and that money the city would spend for paving could be applied to install storm sewers which are of primary importance.

Appearing before council were Carl Amtower, Glenn Watson and George H. Tederick, agent for four properties on Arch.

Amtower made the storm sewers suggestion. He submitted a supplemental petition signed by 14 additional property owners which with another petitions submitted three weeks ago makes a total of 65. The group represents 107 housing units of 142 available or 75 per cent of property owners. He also pointed out that 54 per cent of the property owners are widows or retired persons.

Watson pointed out that under present plans for urban renewal, it is not known if streets as they are today will be here when a comprehensive plan is adopted and put into effect. He suggested the city move with caution in expending money for paving other streets.

Tederick asked consideration for the taxpayer in the Arch Street matter. He said it is a fact that some streets do need resurfacing. In this case, however, he said property owners do not want it and requested definite action yesterday by council.

Amtower later also demanded a decision when told that money is not yet available and council must wait until a budget is set up for this fiscal year. Amtower said then the city should defer action on Arch Street indefinitely.

"We want a commitment," he said. "We want to see council act in our presence."

But the discussion was ended without action, council holding off to discuss the storm sewer situation and to await budget talks.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said he felt council should give consideration to the storm sewers. He said there are two on Arch but 12 on Grand Avenue. He said he would object to resurfacing if water accumulating from lack of sufficient storm sewers would damage the paving. However, if it could be shown that other streets had similar circumstances and worked out all right, he would have to go along.

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder said there are still some questions which have not been answered in connection with the street's condition.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech agreed with both. He said he is not against paving the street but does fear accumulation of ice from insufficient water drainage in winter would ruin the surface. He said he wants the water condition solved.

Amtower reissued a challenge to Street Commissioner John J. Long and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum concerning the care given Arch Street and its street crossings, and the challenge was accepted by Long on behalf of himself and Nuzum. The commissioner said when council desides on what course of action it will take on Arch, he would have Amtower advised so he could be present when the proposal is considered.

Long said no recommendation would be made until the budget is set, a date of August 25 is required by law.

Amtower earlier had said four storm sewers are needed on Arch Street. A contract bid cost for the street submitted yesterday was $9,287 and Amtower said the city's share of this would pay for the sewers.

City Delays Action On Port Work

The Mayor and Council delayed action yesterday on a suggestion that the Flood Control Maintence Department take over maintenance of Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Questions were raised by Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder and Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming whether the flood crew, foremaned by Roy Maphis and with City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum as head of it, could handle the work.

It was pointed out that the flood control crew has a fulltime job in maintaining the flood protection project and that Nuzum is already supervising and consultant on water, sewage, streets, and working the Municipal Planning Commission and on the Cumberland Thruway project.

Nuzum said he had no question in his mind that mowing of grass, cleaning of ditches and similar work could be done by the flood crew and its equipment. One man would be at the airport fulltime to care for hangars and maintenance. He said there was no question of neglect of any duties and that flood work and orders are carried out by the fore-man.

The city has always received good reports when the flood project was inspected by the U. S. Corps of Engineers and that he expects to receive another during the next annual inspection.

In defense of his stand, Nuzum also paid a compliment to Charles F. Heller, who retired last week as airport maintenance superintendent. He said the "city will look a long way" to get a foreman like Heller who as a brick and block man and in construction work, showed exceptional skill. He said he had checked other supervisor's records and they are mostly in supervisory capacities. As for Heller, Nuzum said he was "a rather unique man" in the field of maintenance.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming said it was his understanding flood crew was behind in its work at present and he could not see the reason for tying flood control and the airport together. He said the city has talked about the needs for more manpower for years and he could not understand how it can be pushed aside in this matter and the maintenance staff reduced to one man instead of three at the airport.

Nuzum replied that in talks with Maphis, it had been decided the city could reduce costs in this matter, that the department felt it could do the work and is willing to give it a try.

Fleming said he agreed with cutting expenses but, he said, the weeds grow just as high today as they did three years ago. Then he added: "I do not see how you can do it."

Fleming also said he could not accept the fact that both are giant city installations and that manpower is being taken away from one, making it a "parttime job."

Mrs. Roeder pointed out there will be an increase in "ground work" at the airport in the next few years and Street Commissioner John J. Long said that he, in pointing out Nuzum's various other duties, was trying to remind him he is responsible and none of the duties should be neglected.

Nuzum replied "I have no intention of neglecting any."

Vandals Damage New Rectory

City Police are still investigating acts of vandalism that caused an estimated $1,500 damage to the new rectory of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Oldtown Road.

The damage, which was reported to have been inflicted between 4 and 10 p. m. Saturday, July 29, was called to the attention of police the following Monday.

A large electrical control box in the basement of the rectory, still under construction, was the object of the vandalism.

Plumbers dope was poured over the large switch box, according to City Police Capt. James E. Van and Det. Thomas J. See, who said they were told that the equipment had to be replaced.

Also, the basement wall of the rectory was defaced with roof tar, they added.

City Requests Grant

Mayor J. Edwin Keech will enter into an agreement with the Maryland State Planning Department where the state agency will request an Urban Planning Assistance Grant from the Urban Renewal Administration.

The grant would be used for a project in the City of Cumberland.

Lonaconing Man Among Leaders For U.S. Air Force Man Of The Year

LONACONING — A native of Lonaconing, Senior Master Sgt. Winfield S. Savage, is one of the top candidates for "Airman of the Year" of the U. S. Air Force.

Sgt. Savage is a son of Mrs. P. R. Savage, 18 Allegany Street, and the late Mr. Savage. His mother is the former Miss Mae Atkinson. He is a graduate of Central High School and entered service about 20 years ago.

Currently stationed at Salem, Oregon, he is in charge of the Reserve Squadron Center there. For his work with the squadron and service record Sgt. Savage was recently named "Airman of the Year" for Oregon, Washington, Montana and Idaho. He has also been nominated to compete for the same title for entire West Coast.

If Sgt. Savage wins the West Coast title, he will be eligible for the Continental Air Command award. In the event he wins that title he could vie with other commands for "Airman of the Year." The awards are based on leadership, management, accomplishments and civic activities.

Sgt. W. S. SAVAGE

Sgt. Savage, 40, is a member of the choir of Calvary Baptist Church in Salem and has been active for years in youth programs. He has six children ranging from a 19-year-old son, a junior at Oregon State University, to a six-year-old son.

In 1958 in Germany, Sgt. Savage was selected "Father of the Year" by his Wing. Last year the Salem squadron, to which he was assigned after overseas duty, won top honors as the most outstanding unit in Oregon. For the past two years the squadron has won the title of "Air Reservist of the Year" for that sector.

"If I win the Command title," Sgt. Savage told a reporter, "my wife and I will get an all-expense trip to the Air Force Association convention in Philadelphia in September. I'd like that."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a practical nurse for a widower about 55. I do the light housework, the cooking, and I give him his medicine. He was in an industrial accident three months ago.

At first my patient was very pleasant but now that his health is improving he's getting too frisky. I'm 28 and happily married to a nice fellow. If he knew how this old gaffer limped after me he'd make me quit. The company my patient works for pays him full salary all the time he is recuperating. They also pay me, and I might add, they pay me well.

I love my work and this assignment is ideal because the man lives close to our apartment. I'd hate to quit, but now that he's getting stronger I don't know how much longer I can manage him. —S. L.

DEAR S. L.: Tell the old gaffer that a guy who is well enough to chase the nurse is well enough to go back to work, and if he doesn't behave himself you'll phone his boss and tell him so.

When you make your position clear he'll simmer down.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going with this fellow for two years. We get along well together. Our only problem is interference from his family. Please tell me if you think I'm being silly about this one thing:

We plan to be engaged on my birthday. Clyde wants to give me a large diamond that belongs to his mother. I don't want it. I've told him I'd prefer a small stone, or none at all. I would feel foolish wearing such a big rock, especially when it's obvious that he couldn't afford to buy such a ring. (He's 23 and still in school.)

He says his mother insists because the family has a reputation to uphold and everyone will be watching to see what kind of ring I get. All this makes me sick to my stomach. How do you feel?—F. E.

DEAR F. E.: Sick to MY stomach. By all means stick by your principles. If you cave in on this one you'll lose them all from now on.

DEAR ANN: Two weeks ago a family with two teen-age girls moved into the apartment directly above us. The radio goes on at 7:30 a. m. in one room and the record player starts in another room — about 15 minutes later. Somebody up there plays the piano, too.

The other night I was sure they must be pounding carpet tacks into the floor but my husband said they were dancing.

I hate to be a complainer but I don't know how much longer we can take it. Would it be best to go to the landlord or shall I speak to the mother of the girls? My sister had the same problem and she went to the landlord. From then on the noise was twice as bad. I'd appreciate your advice. —ASPIRIN HAPPY

DEAR ASPIRIN HAPPY: If you haven't welcomed the new family to the building by all means do so. Bring a cake. Make sure they know you are the lady DOWNSTAIRS. After a friendly visit you'll find them far more amenable to suggestion. The adage is old but it still works. . . "You can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar."

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Opening lead: Three of ♥

A subtle bit of false carding was employed by West to steal a game contract from his vulnerable adversary today. Our impulse is to sympathize with the poor victim, but here are the facts for the reader to judge himself.

It will be seen that on the combined holding four spades was the superior contract. Ordinarily with a holding of a four card major suit and a singleton, the responder will use the two club convention asking the opening no trumper to show a major suit. Altho this particular North-South pair were not employing the convention, a response of three diamonds by North might still have induced his partner to show the spades.

West opened the three of hearts and East's queen was permitted to hold. South won the continuation and the five diamond tricks were then run. East followed twice and then discarded the eight, two, and three of clubs, to announce possession of the ace, so that partner would not discard any hearts in an attempt to guard some club honor. On the third diamond West let go the five of clubs. He then shed the nine, followed by the queen.

Declarer was now apparently left to a spade finesse, but to him it appeared that there was a safer way to bring in the ninth trick. West appeared to be out of clubs. He is known to have had just two diamonds and evidently started with five hearts, that would leave him with three spades, one of which very likely was the queen. At any rate if he is permitted to cash his remaining four hearts he will presumably have nothing to return but a spade, so declarer exited with a heart. West ran his heart tricks at the end of which declarer triumphantly spread his hand, but to his chagrin West produced a club to return to his partner for the setting trick.

Will We Get Any Help From NATO?

Under military provisions of the North Atlantic Treaty of 1949, the Atlantic powers agreed to "maintain and develop their individual and collective capacity to resist armed attack." How to develop that capacity in this hour of maximum peril will be the subject of a meeting in Paris today of the NATO powers' permanent representatives. Secretary of State Dean Rusk asked for the session, the State Department said, so that he may "acquaint them with United States thinking and exchange views with them on Berlin."

U.S. thinking is believed to be that the 14 NATO powers had better get about the job of beefing up their military posture before the expected showdown on Berlin. Whether the allies will follow the United States lead in increasing defense efforts remains to be seen.

Britain, at least, wants to go slow on any military buildup which might contribute to a prolonged period of tension, although it is understood that extra forces would be made available quickly if a crisis develops. The go-slow rationale, as reported by the London Economist (July 29), seems to be that "if the army were to be given a massive influx of rusty soldiery (from the reserves), its energies this autumn would have to be directed to training them, not facing up to the Russians."

One report has it that Washington will ask the West Germans to rush additional divisions into being in the shortest possible time, no later than Christmas in any event. West Germany can scarcely refuse to go along, but cannot by itself be expected to fulfill the long-unmet NATO goal of 30 divisions. NATO's present strength is 23 divisions. Secretary Rusk also has a formidable task awaiting him in trying to get France to look toward Berlin rather than toward Tunisia and Algeria.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Tip Off

As early as the Potsdam Conference (July 17, 1945) Stalin made it clear that Soviet Russia would oppose the participation of China in European and world affairs, despite the fact that China had been at war with Japan since September 1931. Had China not kept Japan occupied, it is likely that the Japanese, using Manchuria as a base, would have conquered Mongolia and parts of Siberia as far east as Lake Baikal.

As a matter of fact, Japan had been active in that region since 1917 and it was only American intervention that saved both Russian and Chinese territory. Nevertheless, Soviet Russia never went into the Far Eastern War until it was over and then came in for the spoils.

So on July 17, 1945, when Stalin, Churchill and Truman were meeting at Potsdam to discuss matters, the following colloquy occurred:

"Stalin: . . . I would like an explanation of the reason for China's participation in European affairs.

"Truman: China is one of the five members of the Security Council.

"Stalin: The decision taken at Crimea provided for quarterly conferences of the foreign secretaries. Does President Truman's suggestion supersede the Crimea proposal?

"Truman: The Crimea proposal was temporary . . .

"Churchill: . . . I think it a needless complication to bring China in. When it comes to drawing up the peace, all countries must come in. The preliminary work cannot be done by telegram. I am content that China should be admitted to drawing up the general provisions for peace but not for the day to day work. China is far from Europe and has not contributed to the European war. Do you really wish to discuss the administration of Germany with the Chinese delegation?"

So, China was pushed out of the meetings where it would have been possible for China to protect herself and her interests. In fact, Winston Churchill aided the Russians in this matter. He said:

"Until the Japanese war is over I see great difficulty in China's having a voice in the trying problems of Europe. I see no advantage in introducing China with the European settlement. They have not fought in Europe. It is possible that while the Council is sitting, the war with Japan will end. Then China can and should come into the World Peace Conference. I do not see that China could help us in settling the question of the Reich."

The next day, July 18, 1945, the China question was again raised by Russia.

"Mr. Molotov again raised the question of China but said that if the Council was to deal with other than exclusively European affairs the objections to China's participation would drop."

"Mr. Byrnes suggested that the Council be composed of five powers but that participation of China be limited to problems concerning the Far East or problems of world wide significance. . . . The other reason for including China was that China is one of the permanent members of the Security Council."

This attitude of the Russians persisted throughout the Conference, despite the fact that Soviet Russia did not participate in the Far Eastern War until it was practically over. The Russians took the same position as regards France, namely, that France should have no voice in the settlement of European affairs, because France had not participated in the armistice.

It was clearly the Russian program first to reduce the discussion to among Three Powers, the United States, Soviet Russia, and Great Britain. Undoubtedly it was the Russian plan to squeeze out Great Britain as well.

Truman was told at the July 18 luncheon that Japan had been ready to make peace. The following is significant:

"I (Churchill) imparted to the President the disclosure about the offer from the Mikado, made to me by Marshal Stalin the night before; and I told him he was quite free to talk it over with the Marshal, as I had informed him at the Marshal's expressed desire . . .

"Here I explained that Marshal Stalin had not wished to transmit this information direct to him for fear he might think the Russians were trying to influence him towards peace . . . I dwelt upon the tremendous cost in American life and, to a smaller extent, in British life which would be involved in forcing 'unconditional surrender' upon the Japanese."

It is startling to read today that American blood was spilled profusely after Japan had sought peace and that the atom bomb was hurled at Hiroshima after that.

Backbone

Impatient East Germans Pressing Khrushchev For Berlin Settlement

By Drew Pearson

BERLIN—When President Kennedy conferred with Premier Khrushchev in Vienna, the latter told him that the East Germans were raising hob with him for a settlement of Berlin. Khrushchev discussed this almost as if he were explaining a political problem such as Kennedy's task of winning the Italian vote in Massachusetts. He was very clear and very firm, however, about the fact that the East Germans were pressing him, that the status of Berlin had been delayed long enough, that he had been quite patient.

The President got the definite impression that Khrushchev was being pushed and could delay no longer.

If you go to East Berlin, or if you interview some of the refugees fleeing from East Germany, you can understand exactly why Khrushchev is being pushed.

For Berlin is the one place in the world where Capitalism and Communism come cheek and jowl together; where the people of the two political systems can compare the boasts, the claims, the defeats, the accomplishments of each.

If you believe in coexistence, comparison between West German Capitalism and East Berlin Communism should not be odious. It should not cause the danger of war. But it doesn't operate that way.

For West Berlin has become Capitalism's No. 1 showplace—a thriving exhibit of commercial progress, set off with neon lights against a drab and dreary Communist city a few yards away.

And as long as West Berlin is there, flashing its neon signs, showing off its windows full of the latest styles, the latest electric gadgets, the lushest foods, East Germans are going to flock from their Communist state over to the Capitalistic state.

That's why President Ulbricht and Herr Gottwald, and Gerhard Eisler, the little Communist who escaped from the United States and is now propaganda minister for East Germany, are pressing Khrushchev. What they want is not coexistence, but the throttling of West Berlin Capitalism.

They can't afford the daily humiliation of seeing the cream of East German manhood cross the border in a steady stream of 200,000 a year. Nor have they got over the humiliation of having the blonde and beautiful Marlene Schmidt cross over to West Berlin, then to Miami to become Miss Universe. This was not the king of thing for a Communist-governed girl to do, and Allen Dulles's CIA is getting the blame for it.

To see firsthand how East German youth is being siphoned into West Germany, I went out to the big Marienfelde refugee center. In 1953 I saw the refugees housed in empty factories and sleeping on straw sacks. There are no empty factories in West Berlin today. They're all producing. But the West Berlin government has built a special housing project which can be turned into low-cost housing when and if the refugee problem passes.

Inside one of these rooms I talked to a couple, just arrived from Dresden. About 30 years old, they had children five and six. The husband was a tailor, the wife an accountant in a lumber yard. They had left home, she explained, because she got tired working overtime for the Red Chinese and the Hungarians. She didn't mind working overtime for a good cause, but not for them.

Voting With Their Feet

They were leaving that same night for Augsburg in Bavaria to take jobs already promised. This, incidentally, is one reason for the steady trek of refuees into West Berlin. West German industrialists need more labor. In some cases they are in touch with the East German refugees even before they leave home.

There's no unemployment in East Germany. Jobs are plentiful. It too has a labor shortage. But jobs are better in West Germany. So the exodus continues.

Another couple I talked to had just arrived from Leipzig. The husband, not more than 24, had worked with his father on their family farm of about 30 acres. But the farm was collectivized and the boy didn't like working under the state. Futhermore, there was talk that he might become manager. He and his wife left.

"We took are life savings with us," he told me, "and we were afraid we would be arrested at the border for having so much money. So we planned to say that we were going to West Berlin to buy a cow. We rehearsed what we were going to say very carefully.

"When we got to East Berlin, we got on the elevated train during the rush hour when the police would be busy. But out of all the crowd on the train they picked us. We thought the end had come. They examined us separately. However, my wife and I told exactly the same story and they let us go. They never did find the money."

This couple was going to the Ruhr and expected to get jobs in a textile mill.

So goes the march of East Germans from Communism to Capitalism. The East Germans have been deprived the right to vote, but they're voting with their feet. A total of 107,000 has marched into West Berlin since January 1, and the total will be around a quarter of a million before the year is over. The total since the end of the war has been over 2,000,000.

And that's one of the big reasons why Nikita Khruchchev is being pushed.

Foreign Aid Bill Passage Intact Foreseen

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

In a few days, the Senate will vote on the Kennedy administration's $4 billion-plus foreign aid bill; and unless the most reliable prophets are very wrong indeed, the bill will pass without hamstringing amendments.

The same prophets were predicting precisely the opposite outcome until only a few days ago. Long after the Berlin crisis had aroused the Congress to the dangers of the world situation, the prophets were still saying that "foreign aid would be a cliff-hanger;" and they were adding mournfully that the heroine would probably fall off the cliff.

The reversal of the prophetic trend is an important event. At this crucial moment, a Congressional repudiation of the President on the foreign aid issue would be a very grave matter. Yet students of the singular American government process will be even more interested in knowing how on earth the reversal was brought about.

The answer seems to be that even if President Kennedy has not yet found the right way to deal with Cuba, he has at least shown himself a master at the art of dealing with Congress. Foreign aid was the prime test of this mastery, because of the bold decision to include in the bill a provision long demanded by every expert and never before included for fear of Congressional hostility—the provision permitting the Executive to make five-year financing commitments for long-term foreign aid projects, instead of depending on the hazard of annual Congressional appropriations.

This provision was opposed, until quite recently, by seemingly rock-solid majorities of both the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Yet both committees have now favorably reported an intact foreign aid bill, after approving the provision for long-term aid commitments by majorities of 10-to-7 and 17-to-10 respectively.

Those votes have little connection with Berlin. They were much more closely connected with the personal meetings with all members of the two committees, which the President somehow found time for. And these White House meetings, in turn, were directly connected with—in fact resulted from—the smooth Congressional liaison system organized by the Kennedy staff.

The boss of the liaison organization is the able Lawrence O'Brien, a veteran of the Massachusetts political wars, and a longtime Kennedy staff member. On foreign aid, O'Brien was not only assisted by the President in person. He was also much helped by Vice-President Lyndon Johnson, who returned from his Asian journey imbued with downright evangelical fervor for the aid program.

But getting the foreign aid bill off the cliff where it was so desperately dangling, also required judgeships and public works and much other pork and patronage. It has been a tough operation, in fact, toughly and efficiently managed. If one could only know all the details, the result would be a small, exceedingly useful handbook of American backstairs politics, of a type that might rather shock the academic idealists.

For just this reason, this particular handbook is never likely to see print. Even so, one can also be sure that the change of trend on foreign aid has a significance extending beyond the field of foreign affairs.

By much the same methods that produced this change in trend, the largest part of the Kennedy program for this session has already been unobtrusively placed upon the statute books. Education and medical care for the aged have been the only conspicuous failures.

The bill giving Federal aid to education was imprudently drafted without due consideration for the feelings of the large bloc of Catholic voters. Hence it fell by the wayside. Another kind of bill, which may even be a much better bill, is now being prepared for the next session, with precautions which seem to be sufficient to avert sectarian controversy.

The lever needed to pass the new education bill is Federal aid to "impacted areas," meaning areas where education costs have gone up because of military bases or other Federal activities. Some 319 Congressmen are howling for "impacted area" aid. If the Administration can only keep them howling, by denying this aid at this session, as is now hoped, a major education bill will have a good chance next year.

As for medical care for the aged, the President's private poller, Louis Harris, is currently reporting to the White House that this issue everywhere generates the approximate political heat of a high-class blow-torch. The White House has not pressed for medical care this year, because it looks like such good politics to ask for the vote just before the 1962 Congressional election.

Altogether, whether or not you approve of the results, this part of the Administration's business is being carried on in a highly professional manner.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASTE IN INDUSTRY—Assistant Air Force Secretary Joseph Imirie was testifying before a House Armed Services Investigating Committee when the discussion got around to waste in government compared with waste in private industry.

Imirie, with long experience as an executive in private business, expressed the view that there was a lot of waste there, and that government had no monopoly.

Congressmen have long complained about the waste in government and the comparative efficiency in private business. One of them asked, therefore, how executives managed to avoid criticism. Imirie replied: "We in industry hide our sins. We in government can't."

MAIL HEAVY — Maybe it's the international situation or the personal attractiveness of the President, but the White House reports that Kennedy is receiving much more mail from overseas than previous Presidents.

About 5,000 letters a month to the White House are now being processed by State Department foreign language divisions. And the flow shows no signs of abating.

Topics range all over the lot, from ways of achieving peace to pleas for money or other assistance. Some are crackpot, many sincere. Recently, a prime subject was back ailments. President Kennedy got advice and suggested remedies from literally all parts of the globe on how to cure his painful affliction. He was sent prescriptions, home remedies, charms and even a "magic rope" to be worn around the waist until cured.

The White House would not say whether he utilized the rope or any of the suggestions. However, fortunately, he's over his trouble.

Hands Off!

By Theodore Flicker

John Crosby is on vacation. While he is away, his column will be conducted by guest contributors. Today's writer is the owner of the Greenwich Village coffee shop, "The Premise."

I am getting sick and tired of all these attacks on our duly elected or appointed officials by a lot of blue-nosed, un-American Know Nothings! Why, suddenly, all this outcry against bribery and pay-offs? By these irresponsible attacks on bribery we are striking at the very foundations of good government, and it must be stopped!

The time is at hand to come out in the open, and make bribery legal. The payoff is at the last bastion of rugged American individualism. It is here, in demanding and being able to get preferential treatment, that the ultimate status symbol is achieved, and unless we defend its practice with proper protective laws, it, like the great American bison, will be driven from the American scene. We must re-examine our laws against corruption. An unenforceable law is a bad law, as it leads to a disrespect for all law. We must legalize bribery!

Americans love to payoff. It is part of our nature. It can be seen from the cradle where "Eat your spinach and Mommy'll buy you a nice new ray gun" can be heard, to the latest announcement of the public school scandals in New York City. Americans fix traffic tickets, bribe headwaiters, make political contributions, and "slip 'em a sawbuck, Gus," at every opportunity. Yet it is these same people that are hounding the few hardworking city officials in New York, Boston, and other great American cities, who have dared to do these things in an outward and forthright manner. Shame on the fickle public!

Legalized bribery will eliminate the present hypocritical situation, restore efficiency to public endeavor, provide new funds for the cold war, and eliminate the unemployment problem.

Take, for instance, the police department: underpaid, shorthanded, and held in small esteem by the public. Once the bribe is legal, they can publish a price list. The burden will fall on those who actually avail themselves of the services of the department. The income per policeman will rise (the more service he renders, the more he is paid). The public will be safer. More and more ambitious and intelligent young men will seek their fortunes in police work. And, so, up, up, the spiral will continue, until, at least, crime will have been eliminated, and the police will have regained public respect.

Like drinking, bribery can get out of hand, so a federal agency must be created to regulate it. This would be the Federal Bureau of Bribery, or, FBB. Thus would public interest be served, say, in the case of school construction. The bribe from the contractor to the Board of Education would be registered with the FBB who would see to it that, while the contractor had the advantage of getting the contract, he would nevertheless be compelled by the FBB to make the school in question safe for children. The very creation of these new advantages in public service, not to mention the vast size of the FBB, should be just enough to absorb the mass of the unemployed.

The greatest advantage of the legal bribe will be in securing funds to fight the cold war and eliminate the national debt. The taxes on all of the legal bribes, which of course now will have to be reported income, and on the salaries of all the now employed persons, should swell the national coffers. But, there is even a greater saving: the huge increase in the personal income of the higher officials, such as Commissioners, Mayors, Senators, and the like, will enable the government to eliminate their regular salaries. Why, I can envision the day when politicians will have to submit sealed bids for the candidacies for public office. All of this additional income will swell the Treasury, which will allow the government to spend the money on vast public works, such as parks, sports stadiums, free movies, beaches, and free vacation resorts, in a vast effort to bribe the "little man" who is too poor to bribe his way to fame and fortune, from caring about it.

And you know what? It will work, too.

Cleanliness, Care Prevent Food Poisoning

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Cleanliness and refrigeration lessen the chances of food poisoning. The longer food stands and the more hands it goes through, the greater the possibility for contamination. Micro-organisms multiply in a warm environment and some varieties produce poisonous toxins.

Ordinary refrigeration does not kill these germs; they hibernate like bears when chilled and come to life on removal from the refrigerator. Heat kills them but temperatures near the boiling point are needed to inactivate their toxins.

Certain foods are preferred by bacteria, consequently special care must be used in handling cream or custard-filled pastries, meat and potato salads, leftover poultry, dressings, dairy products, cold egg mixtures, creamed dishes, and cold meats.

These simple facts are the crux of the food poisoning problems at picnics, restaurants, and camps. When the disease occurs, someone goofed in handling or processing the foods responsible.

We do not live in a germless world. They are on our hands, in the respiratory passageways, and in the surrounding air. This means that all food, milk, and water contain a few bacteria but this is not serious because the body can contend with a reasonable number. We get into trouble when a few colonies of micro-organisms are allowed to multiply or form toxins because the meal stood too long in a warm kitchen or picnic basket.

When the food handler has a cold or an infected finger or works with dirty hands, contamination steps up considerably. The food is polluted with a million times more bacteria than might occur in nature. Furthermore, if the handler is a carrier of amebic dysentery or typhoid, the consumers are likely to get a super food poisoning.

TOMORROW: Barbiturate poisoning.

SMALL MEALS

B. R. writes: Is it better to eat a small breakfast or a small lunch when there is a weight problem?

REPLY

Both. Some of my reducing friends drink a glass of Metrecal for breakfast and lunch and eat a well balanced dinner.

HYPERTENSION

G. S. writes: What is the cause of high blood pressure?

REPLY

In the most common form of hypertension, the larger arteries go into spasm and the heart must pump harder to force blood through the narrowed passageways. Tension may be responsible for arterial spasm but the basic cause is not known. Many physicians believe a hormone produced in the kidneys is responsible. Our leaflet on high blood pressure goes into the subject more thoroughly. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this leaflet.

TENDER NODULES

S. B. writes: For several years I have had lumps on both legs. After a recent biopsy I was told I have erythema nodosa. Please tell me something about this disease.

REPLY

These red, tender, tumor-like swellings develop in persons afflicted with certain infections such as tuberculosis, rheumatic fever, or coccidioidomycosis. They disappear when the causative disorder goes away.

BREAST CANCER

L. N. writes: Has the cause of cancer of the breast been discovered as yet?

REPLY

No, but disturbances in the glandular system may play a role because the growth of breast cancer cells is speeded up by administering female sex hormones and retarded by male sex hormones.

NOT THE ANSWER

H. P. writes: If a woman with a severe emotional disorder is getting better, would having a baby help?

REPLY

Pregnancy and caring for a baby usually increase responsibility. Hence motherhood is not recommended as a solution to any emotional disturbance.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Ed Wynn can never top the inspired bit that introduced him as an intrepid huntsman, rifle in hand, horn slung over his shoulder, ready to go out and bag his prey. Just before he sallied forth, he took a look at himself in a pocket mirror, recoiled, and gasped, "Thank God, I'm not in season!"

In the same show, Wynn was operating a pretzel stand when a cop told him, "Hey, mister, you can't sell those pretzels here without a license." Wynn answered, "I knew there must be some reason I couldn't sell them. Thanks for telling me what it was."

Concrete Walk To Valley High Is Requested

Residents Oppose Crushed Rock Plan

Mayor Virgil Alexander of Lonaconing, at a meeting of the town council last night, outlined a series of letters and complaints he has received regarding the sidewalk and improvement being made by the State Roads Commission between Valley High School and Lonaconing.

Mayor Alexander explained that the state has a project designated as "widening and draining" the section of Route 36 between the town and the school, and that the project includes a sidewalk made of crushed gravel or stone, over which the children are to walk en route to and from school.

Residents have complained about the walk of crushed stone and are insisting, the mayor said, that a concrete walk be placed along this thoroughfare. The state agreed to the walk, after it was cited over a period of several years, that it is dangerous for pedestrians, especially school children to travel along the route.

Mayor Alexander told the council he has been in communication with John Funk, chairman of the SRC, and that a meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday, at which time this proposal will be considered. He said he agrees, and council concurred, that the new sidewalk should be of a hard surface.

The town attorney, James S. Getty, was instructed by the town council to prepare for immediate pasage, an ordinance which will require all residents and property owners in the future, to repair and replace sidewalks, using concrete and no other material. It was decided that uniformity should be the goal. Some sidewalks have been blacktopped, some have been patched, some are made of brick, and the result is no uniformity.

Everett Spiker was granted a permit to install gasoline tanks and gasoline pumps at a place of business at East Main Street. Council voted permission over the objection of one resident, on condition that the installation conform completely with an existing ordinance on the subject.

A lengthy discussion resulted on a problem of financial liability for a section of worn out curbing at Main and Church streets. With the mayor dissenting, council voted to pay to have this curbing replaced or repaired. The Mayor argued that the property owner should pay for new curbing.

An ice cream vendor who has been peddling his wares several times a week from a truck in the community, was the subject of another discussion. Council decided that he will be notified to obtain a hucksters license at $25 per year, if he expects to continue to market his wares in the community.

Several sewerage problems were discussed and council adopted a policy pertaining to line extensions and taps. It was agreed that the town will pay for 150 feet of sewer line between a residence tap and the nearest trunk or main line. Under no circumstances, it was explained, can the town pay for more than 150 feet of extended lines.

The next meeting of the Lonaconing council will be held August 21 at 7:30 p. m.

from the State Planning Department which would streamline and reorganize functions of agencies under the Board of Natural Resources if Gov. Tawes and the Legislature approve.

The Water Pollution Control Commission would be renamed the Department of Water Resources and be given additional control over inland water resources, including supervision of well drilling, now vested in the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources.

The commission discussed the recommendations, submitted to the governor earlier this year, but decided to take no action on them until legislation is proposed and the views of departments are sought.

Generally, members appeared receptive to taking on the added responsibility.

Safeguard your hands and nails with a set of tools!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Every Woman Deserves A "Hand" — With A Tool Kit

Those "pale hands" men love seem to be things of the past in these days of super-skilled, do-it-yourself damsels. Today's busy hands are trademarked by what I call "camper's cuticle" — and an unsightly condition it is! A woman doesn't have to be a camper to catch it, either. It's her hands that are "roughing it," even in the most comfortable and convenient homes.

Care is the ONLY cure for "camper's cuticle." It's time to give those nimble fingers and nice nails some protection . . . and a parole from all the tasks they've taken on that were never intended for them.

Hands, fingers and fingernails were never meant to be heavy work tools. Prying, pulling, pushing, pounding, squeezing, tweezing, digging, scratching and poking can be accomplished far more easily—and safely—by hands that hold the proper tools to do these jobs. And I mean gloved hands, too . . . whenever the work involves sharp objects, grease or oil, chemicals, garden dirt, or long immersion in water and detergent.

On real camping trips, there may be unexpected emergencies that will turn your hands into tools. But there's no excuse for this at home. Not with all the inexpensive tools and kitchen gadgets on the market to give a helping hand to a housewife's hands.

I believe that every woman, married or single, deserves a tool kit all her own, for housekeeping, gardening and simple paint-and-fix-it projects. She shouldn't have to borrow what she needs from a landlord, a neighbor . . . or her husband, either. (In fact, dipping into a husband's tool collection can be downright dangerous to family peace.)

Most women are glad to use the right tool . . . if it's handy. After all, they're just like everybody else; they can't always afford the time and effort to go hunting in garages and basements—their own or other people's. Rather than waste time or to put off a job (perhaps permanently), they'll improvise with the tools at hand. Usually their hands. Or perhaps with their kitchen cutlery.

A kitchen tool kit, with implements weighted and scaled to the size a woman can handle most efficiently—is a good investment in beautiful hands and nails, and in jobs well done and done immediately.

And, especially for the sake of those split and ragged nails, make sure the kit contains plenty of the tiny tools good housekeeping cries for—small pliers, slender screwdrivers, long tweezers and little wrenches.

Regular beauty care for hard-working hands can be coupled right along with complexion routines. Every facial gives a woman an opportunity to give her hands a special treatment. Send today for my booklet called, "Secrets of Skin Care," available by request from this newspaper. Address: John Robert Powers, and be sure to enclose 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Delivery should be made within two weeks.

Yankees Cop 5th In Row; Baltimore And Pittsburgh Win

Berra Hits 332nd Homer As Yankees Take 3-Game Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — A surprise bunt by slugger Roger Maris and a tie-breaking home run by Yogi Berra backed the six-hit pitching of Bud Daley Monday night as the New York Yankees came from behind for a 4-1 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

It was the Yanks' fifth straight success and produced a three-game bulge — their largest lead of the season — over idle Detroit in the American League race. It also marked the return to action of Yankee Manager Ralph Houk, who had been serving out a five-day suspension for a run-in with Umpire Ed Hurley.

Berra's homer, a belt into the lower right field seats on a 3-2 pitch, led off the sixth inning and beat the Angels' top winner, Ken McBride (9-8). It was Yogi's 14th home run of the season and No. 332 for his career, breaking a tie with Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg for 14th place on the all-time list.

The Yankees had tied it 1-all in the third when Bobby Richardson scored on Maris' two-out bunt down the third base line. Richardson had doubled and then moved to third on an infield out.

Daley, (9-15), a southpaw who had lost five in a row, lost a shutout in the second inning. The Angels, now 0-6 at Yankee Stadium, scored on a walk, a single by Joe Koppe and an infield hit by Rocky Bridges.

Braves And Phillies Bag Series Openers In Dapper Dan Loop

The Braves edged the Cardinals, 3-2, at Penn Avenue Field, and the Phillies downed the Indians, 9-8, at Constitution Park yesterday as the playoffs got under way in the Dapper Dan Little League.

Jim Brannon decisioned "Butch" Fuller to give Manager Bert Lawler's Braves the opener of their best-of-three series with the Cardinals.

Brannon pitched shutout ball until the final frame when Dave Coffman's single and Kenny Green's homes averted a shutout for the Cardinals. Brannon struck out eight while Fuller fanned seven.

Pat McClean's sacrifice fly scored what proved to be the deciding run in the third inning after Jim Brannon walked and advanced to third on Tom Beyer's two-base belt.

Green of the Cardinals and Steven Friend of the Braves had two hits each.

The second game of the series is set for Wednesday at 6 p. m., at Constitution Park.

Trailing 8-7 as the result of a 5-run explosion in the top of the final inning, the Phillies pulled the game out of the fire in the bottom of the 6th when Jim Bennett's double sent Terry Deremer and Steve Walters home with the tying and winning runs.

Four bases on balls by Terry Deremer, coupled with Leasure's two-run single and a double by Weisenmiller featured the Indians' 5-run rally in the final stanza.

Ralph Leasure batted in three of the Indians' runs with a two-bagger and two singles. Jim Hillebrecht, losing pitcher, and Jerry Weisenmiller had two hits each. Terry Deremer, winning hurler, belted a triple and two singles while Jim Bennett and Gary Knowlton rapped two doubles each for the Phillies.

Bosox Beat Twins, 5-4

Fornieles Stars On Mound, At Bat

BOSTON (UPI) — Mike Fornieles pitched and batted the Boston Red Sox to a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader Monday night at Fenway Park.

Fornieles pitched five innings of shutout ball as he relieved Ike Delock to receive credit for his sixth win of the season. The veteran Cuba-born righthander started Boston's game-winning rally in the ninth inning.

With one out and the score tied 4-4, Fornieles doubled off the left field wall. After Chuck Schilling popped out, Gary Geiger was handed an intentional walk. Carl Yastrzemski made this strategy look bad by singling to center to score Fornieles with the winning run.

Don Lee went all the way for Minnesota and was tagged with his third setback of the year against three wins.

Cincy Jolted By Cards, 5-1

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Stan Musial and Carl Sawatski smashed home runs to lead the St. Louis Cardinals and Larry Jackson to a 5-1 win over the Cincinnati Redlegs, who fell six percentage points behind first-place Los Angeles Monday night.

It was the veteran righthander's fifth consecutive win, as well as the Cardinals'. He gave up seven hits.

The Redbirds jumped off to a 4-0 margin on a three-run circuit clout by Musial in the sixth inning.

Jackson struck out seven Redlegs and did not allow a walk in bringing his record to 8-8. He pitched out of a jam in the sixth inning when he fanned Vada Pinson and got Frank Robinson to bounce back to the mound with runners on first and second and one out.

Sawatski's homer came in the second inning.

Hoeft Stops Kansas City, Birds Win, 5-4

Stars In Relief, Gentile Hits 31st, Sets Club Record

By GORDON BEARD

BALTIMORE (AP) — Relief pitcher Billy Hoeft squelched a budding Kansas City rally in the ninth inning Monday night to preserve a 5-4 victory for the Baltimore Orioles over the last-place Athletics.

Summoned to the mound with two on and one out, Hoeft struck out Norm Siebern and got pinch hitter Ossie Virgil to hit into a game-ending force play.

Trailing 5-1 after seven innings, the Athletics scored three runs in the eighth off Jack Fisher, the second Oriole pitcher. A walk, a bunt single by Jerry Lumpe and a double by Wayne Causey scored one. Two more came across on infield outs.

The winning pitcher was Chuck Estrada (9-6), who benefited from homers by Jackie Brandt and Jim Gentile before Fisher replaced him with the bases loaded and one out in the seventh.

Brandt knocked in three runs with a fifth inning single and a two-run homer, his ninth, in the seventh inning. Gentile hit his 31st homer, a club record, in the second.

The other Baltimore run scored in the fourth when pinch hitter Dave Philley hit into a force play with the bases loaded. It was Philley's 18th RBI as a pinch hitter this season.

Art Ditmar (2-7), the losing pitcher, gave up the first three Oriole runs. Ed Rakow yielded the homer to Brandt.

Tigers Will Pay $50,000 Bonus To Negro Sandlotter

DETROIT (AP)—Willie Horton, 18, a burly sandlot catching star, has agreed to sign a Detroit Tiger bonus contract for $50,000 — the largest ever offered a Negro prospect, the Detroit News reported Monday.

Horton is an Arnold, Va., native who slugged his way to stardom on the Detroit sandlots and drew the attention of at least seven other major league teams. He reportedly rejected a $50,000 contract from the Red Sox.

Rotary Wins, Ties For 2nd

Optimists Defeat Lions In 8th, 9-6

Rick Merrill outpitched Dave Price to give the Rotary Club an 8-3 decision over the B.P.O. Elks last night in a Hot Stove Baseball League game at Penn Avenue Field.

The win gave the Rotarians a 12-7 record and tied them with the Bedford Road Optimists for second place, five games behind the pace-setting Cumberland Optimists (18-3) who defeated the Lions Club in an eight-inning battle yesterday at Mason Road Field by the score of 9-6.

Merrill turned back the Elks with five hits, struck out an even dozen and aided his cause with three hits. Greg Skidmore smashed a three-run triple in the fourth inning and also had three singles to his credit.

Dave Price, Elks' ace, gave up nine hits, and fired the third strike past 14 batsmen.

Foley banged a pair of doubles and Bowers also had a two-base wallop for the Elks who suffered their ninth loss against 11 victories.

Howard Reynolds was the batting star in the Optimists' triumph. He belted a homer over the fence in left-center to knot the count at 6-6 in the 7th and in the extra inning he won the game with a two-run triple scored on Gene Zais' three-base clout.

Zais, Reynolds and Jimmy Twigg had two hits each for the Optimists and the latter starred at first base. Wagoner collected three doubles while Bill Van Ormer and Whiteman had two hits each for the Rotary Club. Whiteman and Wagner also excelled afield.

The win went to Bill Lueck (6-3) the last of three hurlers used by Manager Lou Marrale. Wagoner was the loser.

Buccos Hand Phils Tenth Loss In Row

Bob Friend Hurls 4-Hitter, Notches 11th Victory, 3-1

By RUSS GREEN
United Press International

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —Pittsburgh handed Philadelphia its 10th loss in a row Monday when Bob Friend allowed only four hits, pitching the Pirates to a 3-1 victory over the Phillies.

Friend (11-13) fanned five and gave up no walks, with the loser's only run coming in the sixth when Ruben Amaro sliced a drive over first base which rolled into the right field bullpen for a triple. The shortstop scored when Johnny Callison hit a sacrifice fly.

John Buzhardt, losing his 12th against three victories, gave up singles to Don Hoak, Bob Skinner and Roberto Clemente for one Pirate run in the first, and a single to Bill Mazeroski, a sacrifice by Friend, and a single by Bill Virdon for another in the second.

Doubles by Virdon and Skinner added the Pirates' final run in the seventh.

The loss marked the second time this year the Phils dropped 10 straight, and the game marked the first sales of beer in Connie Mack Stadium, the result of a recent law passed by the Pennsylvania State legislature.

The beverage is sold in paper cup containers. Fans are forbidden to bring bottled and canned drinks into the park, thus doing away with the beer-can showers of players and umpires which marked several Phillies' games in recent years.

Miss Supertest III Successfully Defends Harmsworth Trophy

PICTON, Ont. (AP) — Zooming Miss Supertest III successfully defended the Harmsworth trophy for Canada Monday and became the first power boat to win the race three times with a crushing victory over the United States' Miss Detroit.

Bob Hayward shot Miss Supertest ahead at the starting gun and quickly pulled into a commanding lead over the American challenger.

Supertest, for the second straight year on the 45-mile Bay of Quinte course, needed only two heats to win the best of three Harmsworth. The ancient trophy, first offered in 1903, was brought to Canada for the first time two years ago by Supertest in a three-heat victory on the Detroit River.

Engine trouble again bothered Chuck Thompson's Miss Detroit, which failed to finish Saturday's first race when an oil fitting split loose.

Miss Supertest's average speed for the 25th Harmsworth — in many years no challenge has been made—was about 98 miles an hour. Her clocking in the first heat Saturday was 100.334 m.p.h. and Monday she slowed down to 96.102. Miss Detroit, slowed by dirt filtering into the water intake, was clocked at 86.367.

Gurley's Wins Series Opener

Sloan Victor Over 40 & 8 Tossers, 2-1

Gurley's eked out a 2-1 decision over the Forty and Eight Club in the opening game of the Rec High School Baseball League final playoff series yesterday at Stitcher Field.

Successive singles by Jim Stratton, Jim Cox and Dave Merrill and a sacrifice fly to right field by John Balch produced two runs in the sixth inning and gave Gurley's a come-from-behind victory in the opener of the best-of-three set.

Lefty John Sloan went the route for Gurley's, kept eight hits well spaced, blanked the opposition after yielding a run in the third frame and whiffed seven. Roger Flanagan of the Forty & Eight Club, yielded five hits and fanned five.

Stratton accounted for two of the five blows credited to Manager Bill Garrett's team. Dela-Grange and Flanagan had two hits each for the losers.

Jesse York excelled in right field for Gurley's with several nice catches of long drives.

The second game is scheduled for Wednesday at Stitcher Field at 6:15 p. m. Score:

Forty & Eight	001	000	0—	1	8	0
Gurley's	000	002	x—	2	5	0

Green Bay Gives Vince Lombardi 5-Year Contract

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — A new five-year contract with an undisclosed pay increase for General Manager and Coach Vince Lombardi was announced Monday by the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League.

Club President Dominic Olejniczak said in making the announcement at a news conference that Lombardi's original five-year contract was torn up with three seasons remaining.

Lombardi was lured to the Packers from the New York Giants, where he served as backfield coach, in 1959. Taking over a team which finished with a 1-10-1 record in 1958, Lombardi directed the Packers to a 7-5 mark in his first season and was voted the NFL "coach of the year."

Wayne Bridges and Deffenbaugh had two hits each for Zihlman.

Barton won the season series from Zihlman, four games to two.

Ollie Smith went the route for Westernport, gave up five hits, fanned four and notched his sixth win in seven decisions. Klondyke loaded the bases on the second inning but Smith put on the brakes by faning two batsmen and forcing another to pop up to end the threat.

Market Closes Mixed As Volume Contracts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks closed mixed Monday as profit-taking in blue chips and other pivotals offset strength in defense, utility and miscellaneous issues.

Volume for the day contracted to 3,560,000 shares from 3,710,000 on Friday although tickers ran late at the closing bell when quality issues made a partial recovery.

The market broadened slightly with 1,285 issues traded—20 more than last Friday and three more than a week ago. Declines exceeded advances 551 to 523, but 60 stocks hit highs for the year against eight new lows.

Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Index dropped only 0.01 from the record high hit at last week's close while the Dow-Jones Industrial Average dipped 1.11 to 719.58, indicating the failure of key issues to match the performance of the general list.

Highlights within the Dow industrial group were a 2¾ point loss for Du Pont and a 2⅞ point rise in United Aircraft which announced major progress in the development of heavier rocket engines.

Dow-Jones rails closed at 139.72 off 0.65 while 15 utilities climbed to another post-1929 peak of 119.15, gaining 1.37 largely on a 4½ point jump in Houston Lighting which is considered within stock split range and a 3⅞ point advance for People's Gas which boosted its dividend and proposed a 2-for-1 split.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends, relatives and neighbors, the pallbearers, those who donated cars, Pastor Russell E. Fink, and all those who were so kind and generous to us during our recent bereavement at the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Dora Pittman.
Mrs. Virginia Scaturro
Mrs. Betty Harper
Mrs. Patricia Taschenberger
Mr. Henry Pittman

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Marshall C. Skidmore who passed away 6 years ago August 8, 1955.
Days of sadness are still with us
Tears in silence often flow
Memory keeps you ever near us
Though you left six years ago.
You are gone, but not forgotten
And our hearts ache for you still
Forgotten perhaps by others
But by us you never will.
Sadly missed by wife Catherine, daughter Edith, son Paul and grandchildren.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

Two choices remain open to the President to pay for next year's budget: raise taxes or cut non-essential expenditures. He must do one or the other for the deficit for fiscal year '62 (in the wake of the decision to begin an arms build-up) will be at least $5 billion and could go as high as $10 billion. The President pledged himself to such fiscal responsibility in his State of the Union message when he said:

"This administration will not distort the value of the dollar in any fashion, and this is a commitment. In short, whatever is required to be done will be done to back up all our efforts abroad, and to make certain that, in the future as in the past, the dollar is as sound as a dollar."

He could not have been any plainer nor could he have bound himself any more securely to a course of responsible spending. Perhaps it will be necessary at some future time to raise taxes, although I certainly hope not. Taxes today are at an all-time high and approach the level where they stifle initiative and enterprise. If the President does not see fit to raise taxes—and next year is an election year—then he must eliminate non-defense, non-essential programs from his budget. And there are certainly golden opportunities to do so in the '62 budget.

It has been estimated that nearly $4 billion of the deficit for '62 is derived from non-defense spending. Here is a challenge to the President to put aside some of the programs for which he has fought so hard but which should not be given priority in the current crisis.

The President will also have to exert the utmost pressure to keep the employe growth of the government to a minimum. During the first four months of this administration, net civilian employes added to the federal payroll amounted to over 33,000. And now the Defense Department has estimated that between 25,000 and 50,000 additional civilian employes will be hired following the announced arms build-up.

The President has promised to submit a balanced budget next January. But why wait? Why not work today to balance the budget by reducing non-essential spending? If the nation is to tighten its belt in the years ahead to meet the challenges of the Soviet thrust, then it seems only fair that the Administration go on a bureaucratic diet and eliminate from its menu expendable, non-defense programs and projects.

Craftsmen Back On Job

The approximately 210 craftsmen from the Cumberland area employed on the Mack Trucks, Inc., plant at Hagerstown where operations shut down Tuesday over a wage dispute went back to work yesterday.

A wage increase offer made by the contractor, Fridinger Contractors Company, was accepted Sunday by the members of Hagerstown Local 769, Plumbers and Steamfitters Union.

The plumbers and steamfitters walked off the job when their contract expired August 1. The local wanted a 25-cent raise this year and 25-cent hike the following year. Other unions did not cross the picket line this past week.

Saturday, the members voted to accept 25 cents an hour this year and 17 cents in 1962, upping the hourly scale from $3.50 an hour to $3.92.

Four members of Cumberland Local 489, Plumbers and Steamfitters, are at work on the job, but Cumberland Local 307, Electrical Workers Union, which has jurisdiction over the project, has 100 electricians working in Hagerstown.

Cumberland Local 568, Iron Workers Union, which also covers the Hagerstown area, has approximately 60 men on the project, and Local 37-B, Operating Engineers Union, of here, has about 15 members on the job. In addition there are 30 sheet metalsmiths from here working there.

NASA Scientist To Speak Here

A. M. Rothrock, staff scientist with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington, will be the speaker at a dinner meeting of the Allegheny Section of the American Rocket Society Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the Cumberland Country Club.

He will speak on the planning necessary for long range space programs at NASA. Rothrock is connected with the planning and evaluation program of the agency.

The meeting will be open to non-members of the society but reservations should be made with C.W. Dickinson at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, telephone RE 8-900.

Net income of more than five million dollars was reported by six individuals in 1960 income tax returns.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Nancy Kwan and the man in her life, Maxmillian Schell, who are seldom apart, will be separated very soon. Nancy goes to England to make a picture titled "Tamashine" for Associated British, on a loan-out from Ray Stark. Of course, it's an oriental role, but Nancy will be more British than oriental. She'll wear blue contact lenses and Sidney Guilaroff will design a different coiffure.

Anthony Asquith, one of Britain's better directors, will direct Nancy who plays the only girl brought up in a boys' school headed by her father. David Niven is the actor most wanted for the professor role, and of course, it's a comedy.

There's a trip to Europe for youthful actress Brigid Bazlen and her attractive mother, Chicago columnist Maggie Daly, after Brigid attends the opening of "Honeymoon Machine" in her native Chicago Aug. 16.

I had a letter from Maggie saying "Brigid and I will visit the Nicholas Rays in Rome, and Edouard Cournand has arranged for Brigid to meet young Bernard Lanvin in Paris. This is really the truth, writes Maggie, "when Christopher Sergal asked for Brigid for Maureen Daly's 'Seventeenth Summer,' neither he nor the Paramount brass knew that Maureen is her aunt."

One of America's foremost trial lawyers, and an old friend of mine Jake Ehrlich, will have his legal experiences as the subject of a new TV series.

The title "333 Montgomery" is taken from the address of Jake's business office in San Francisco, and will be based on the colorful attorney's experiences in and out of the courtroom during his 40 years of practice in the Bay City.

Robert Weitman, vice president in charge of TV production at MTM, will film the series with the advice and counsel of Ehrlich.

It was a three-way conversation among Ginger Rogers, Bill Marsha., and myself from Nyack, N.Y., where Ginger and Bill have been playing for a week with "Bell, Book and Candle." Ginger said the house had been sold out from the second day, and that now they were selling SRO tickets.

"In Laconia, New Jersey," interrupted Bill, "the manager of the theatre went home and got some chairs out of his house to take care of the overflow."

Ginger and Bill leave Sunday for Baltimore to open there and after a couple of other stops will head for home.

"I am not going to act in 'The Actor'," Bill told me. "I am only directing and producing with Niven Busch, who is re-writing the script so that the wife's role, which Ginger will play, will be more important."

I must say the two of them sounded very happy.

A few weeks ago Australian critics were blasted by Vivien Leigh for the cool reception they gave her and John Merivale when they opened in "Duel of Angels."

Vivien's mother, Gertrude Hartley, London beauty specialist, sails from England to join her in Hong Kong. This, of course, revives rumors that when Vivien and Merivale reach Hong Kong, that they will be married. But there's no confirmation of this, and when Vivien was here, she denied they had any marital plans.

Street Selected For Paving Test

Cumberland Contracting Company will pave School Street with a new-type smooth-seal as a test street so the city can observe what the material will do and give a definite picture of its texture.

The city, in asking bids recently for certain streets, had asked for contract prices on both asphalt and the smooth-seal. The contracting company submitted the only bids but only on blacktop.

The offer to use the test material at no cost to the city was submitted in a letter to Street Commissioner John J. Long by E. C. Robertson, secretary-treasurer of the company.

Council accepted the offer at yesterday's meeting.

Cumberland Contracting Company submitted the only bid for the blacktop surfacing of five streets yesterday, the total amount being $31,339. The streets include Arch Street, from Oldtown Road to Fifth Street, $9,287; Washington Street from Kiefer Avenue to Fayette Street, $4,863; Greenway Avenue from Williams Street to Brookfield Avenue, $8,817; Brookfield Avenue from Greenway to Kent Avenue, $1,258, and Camden Avenue from Fayette to Highland Avenue, $7,114.

Bids were referred to Commissioner Long.

Council also accepted the company's bid of $3,136 for resurfacing Sedgwick Street.

Church Poor Box Contents Stolen

The "poor box" at St. Patrick's Catholic Church was broken into and cash contents stolen sometime Saturday night, City Police reported yesterday.

Access to the box, used by parishioners for contributions to needy persons, was obtained by entering the church building through a basement window, according to Det. Thomas J. See and Officer Frank A Shober, who investigated.

Locks on the container were removed and haven't been located, they said.

The amount of money taken is not known.

Two Injured By Automobile Near Station

Brakes Defective On Vehicle

Two young men were injured, one being hospitalized yesterday evening when they were hit by a car near a service station on Henderson Avenue. Police said the car had faulty brakes.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital was James Brant, 18, of 346 Bedford Street, who was reported in "fair" condition last night.

Attaches said he sustained a puncture wound in his left side, a laceration of his scalp, multiple abrasions of his elbow, forearm, body, hip and knee.

A companion, William Hook, 21 of 103 Independence Street, complained of a pain in his ankle, was examined by a doctor and released from the hospital.

Another companion, Paul Brant, about 21, a brother of James, was uninjured in the accident about 7:45 p. m.

The driver of the car was John Vanetta, 805 Maryland Avenue, who was operating a car down Bedford Street toward the boulevard.

When he learned his brakes were not operating properly he turned onto the lot of the Sponaugle Service Station where the three young men were walking toward downtown.

Vanetta said he did not see the three young men as he turned onto the lot. His brakes were checked by a mechanic at the service station and were found defective.

No charges were placed against the driver. The young men were taken to the hospital in the police wagon. Officer Joseph Harvey investigated.

Handicraft Exhibit Opens Today

These articles are among the many featured at the annual Handicraft Exhibit which will open today at 65 North Centre Street, opposite City Hall. The three eggshell pictures—a fishing scene, ship and peacock—were made by children from Centre Street Playground and the doll house below was made and furnished to scale by youngsters at Virginia Avenue Playground. Exhibits prepared by all 14 city playgrounds will be on display today through Thursday from 1 to 5 p. m. The exhibit is sponsored by the City Recreation Department to show the scope of the program offered here.

301 Employes Donate Blood At ABL Plant

Two Persons Join Two-Gallon Club

Employes of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory yesterday gave 301 pints of blood when the Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit from Johnstown, Pa. visited the Hercules Powder Company-owned, Navy-operated facility at Rocket Center, W. Va.

Mrs. John Lohnas, blood recruitment chairman for Cumberland, said 449 persons were scheduled to give a pint of blood, 299 of whom kept their appointment.

She pointed out that 22 persons "walked in" and donated a pint of blood. There were 20 rejections which is considered a rather low percentage, she said.

Junior E. Yacenech, 629 Shade's Lane, and Wallace J. Sherman, of Moorefield, W. Va., joined the two-gallon club.

Dick Lewis, Frostburg, Robert C. Mattingly, 324 Cumberland Street, Shelden H. Harris Jr., LaVale, William A. Taylor, 214 Utah Avenue, Dewey D. Thompson, Bowling Green, John E. Mellin, LaVale, Gordon Sutherland, Bowling Green and Bernard R. Warren, 627 McMullen Highway.

Physicians on duty were Dr. Blaine Schindler and Dr. Harold Allen.

Mrs. Lohnas pointed out that earlier this year when the bloodmobile unit visited ABL, some 153 employes gave a pint of blood.

Yesterday's visit will be the only time the unit will be in the county this month according to Mrs. Lohnas who said it will be at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company on September 11 and in Piedmont, W. Va., the following day.

Stunt Night Planned By Playgrounds

Intra-City Event Slated Thursday

The Intra-City Stunt Night will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Constitution Park amphitheater under the sponsorship of the City Recreation Department.

Each of the city's 14 playgrounds will present a stunt, which may be original or otherwise, speaking or in pantomime, according to Mrs. Eva Hogan, general playground supervisor.

The purpose of the stunt night is to entertain parents and friends of the playground children. It is not a competitive event, since each playground has prepared only one stunt.

Judges will be Mrs. Francis Kenney, teacher of Parkside School in LaVale, and Mrs. Valletta Gross, special education teacher at Pennsylvania Avenue School here.

Awards will be in the form of games or equipment, which will be used on the winning playgrounds, Mrs. Hogan said.

Truck, Sweeper Bids Will Be Asked By City

The Mayor and Council yesterday authorized John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, to advertise for bids for four pieces of equipment for the Street Department.

Included was one heavy duty dump truck, a one-ton, four-wheel drive truck, a street sweeper and a salt spreader.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light was authorized to purchase equipment, at a cost of not more than $700, to use in controlling the water level of the Fort Hill reservoir and tank.

The equipment would allow crews at the Lake Gordon filter plant to keep track of the water level in the reservoir by telephone. At present, the maintenance man at the reservoir phones in reports to the dam at two-hour intervals from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Referred to the Recreation Department and Planning and Zoning Commission was a suggestion of Charles F. Heller that vacant lots at Cumberland and Chase streets be used for a small playground.

A resolution expressing thanks of the city for Mr. Heller's services was adopted.

The Police Department reported 1,203 arrests were made and $2,606 of fines collected during July. The Fire Department said it answered 35 calls which resulted in minor damage.

Parking meter revenues for the week ending July 30 totaled $792.47, a decrease of $7.33 from the previous week.

George E. Davis, city collector, reported collections of $61,764.77 during July.

Parking Expert Plans Visit Here Aug. 30

Arranges Session With Merchants

William G. Barr, executive director of the National Parking Association, will be here August 30 to meet with the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants Association.

Plans for his all-day visit here were related to members of the Retail Merchants unit yesterday by Harry Kauffman, Parking committee chairman.

Invitations to a dinner meeting planned that night will be sent to the Mayor and Council and operators of local parking lots.

Mr. Barr is expected to arrive here during the morning, when he will be taken on a tour of the downtown area and its parking facilities.

He is expected to present, during the meeting, comments on the downtown parking situation and to explain features of various pjarking plans which are in operation in cities the size of Cumberland.

Robert Little Ebert and Mr. Kauffman, co-chairmen of the Cumberland Taxpayers and Property Owners League, reported on the recent meeting in City Hall, when plans were made to start work on a comprehensive plan for the city.

They reminded members that the deadline for charter membership in the League will be next Tuesday.

Electronics School Gets Site Permit

Electronics Institute, Inc., obtained a permit from the City of Cumberland yesterday to use portions of a building at 38 North Mechanic Street as an electronics school.

The permit was issued to Bernard Portney, registrar, and allows the school to use the first floor and balcony of the building for instruction purposes.

The building was formerly used as an appliance store.

Mr. Portney announced recently that the school will be operated as a subsidiary of Radio Electronic Television School, Baltimore, and that plans call for the institute to open in September.

The company, he said, opened a similar school in Baltimore seven years ago.

Md. Pollution Unit May Curb Developers

Opinion Cites Silt Problem

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Water Pollution Control Commission was advised Monday it has authority to take steps against developers who cause pollution of streams with silt from denuded countryside.

The attorney general's office advised the commission it can draw up "reasonable" regulations against such practices and enforce them under the same powers it has for regulating industrial wastes.

The same authority apparently would apply to farmers who strip lands of wooded protection and cause erosion and stream pollution from storm water runoffs.

Asked For Authority

The commission had asked the attorney general whether it had authority to act in such cases. The request originated with commission member Royal H. Carlock.

The affirmative reply caused some immediate concern about the agency's abilities to cope with so vast a problem with its present limited facilities.

"I'm perturbed about this new added burden that is placed on our shoulders," said chairman Maurice Siegel. "It's going to tax us severely."

The department is now concerned primarily with industrial pollution.

Department director Paul W. McKee was instructed to gather any information he can as a basis for further commission action.

McKee said he is planning to review with the counties any ordinances they have to control silting and erosion. He has already surveyed other states which might have such programs and said the State of Washington appears to be the only one with a comprehensive program.

It was indicated the commission will not attempt to move positively into the field until after the next session of the legislature.

The legal opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert C. Murphy, said:

"Land developers who unreasonably, through lack of diligence in conducting their operations, or from other like inactivity, create and permit to exist conditions conducive to silt discharge into the waters of the state through storm water runoff, are subject to control by your commission."

He said the commission has authority to issue "special orders" to such developers to "compel compliance with the established standards" for water purity.

Reasonable Regulations

If special regulations are necessary to control the problem, said Murphy, the commission can make "reasonable regulations defining and establishing such requirements."

Also at its monthly meeting, the commission discussed a report

Continentals To Be Cited For Battle Participation

The Continentals, local reactivated Union Civil War Infantry Company, will be issued a citation for their performance and participation in the Fisher's Hill battle re-enactment held Saturday at Fisher's Hill, Va., according to word received here by Major Fritz Haselberger.

A contingent of the Continentals were supposed to have been a small part of the Union forces that were to attack and rout the Confederate forces as it happened approximately 100 years ago.

But the Continentals were the only Union force to appear on the field to face the Confederate Army, (approximately 80 men), composed of Company K, 5th Virginia Infantry, Winchester, Va.; Warren Rifles, Company B, 17th Virginia Infantry, Front Royal, Va.; Company E, 33rd Virginia Infantry, New Market, Va.; Company G, 17th Virginia Infantry, Staunton, Va., and one section (two 12 pound Napoleon cannons, each weighing approximately 2,300 pounds) of the Newtown Artillery.

Since wide publicity had been given the event and about 8,000 people were on hand to see the re-enactment, the troop commanders decided to carry on with the planned skirmish, modified to meet the existing conditions.

Volunteers were called for from the Confederate regiments to form the 7th Regiment, New York Infantry, a famous gray-clad Union infantry regiment to help bolster the small Union force. Approximately 30 reluctant Rebels removed identifying items from their uniforms and for a short period joined the Federal army, along with one Napoleon cannon and its Confederate gun crew against their comrades in the pitched battle that followed.

40,112 Eligible For Voting In This County

As of August 1 a total of 40,112 eligible voters were on the registration books of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

John R. Kelly, chief clerk and Democratic registrar, said the total included 22,318 Republicans, 17,475 Democrats, 309 who declined to give party affiliation, eight Socialists and two members of other parties.

Seventeen new registrations including 13 Democrats, three Republicans and one who declined to give party affiliation were placed on the books.

Some 37 persons died during the month and their names were stricken from the books. This figure included 23 Republicans and 14 Democrats.

Mr. Kelly also received reports that 29 persons have died out of state including 22 Republicans, six Democrats and one independent.

Sixty-two persons, he said, transferred from one district and precinct to another; 36 changed name or address only; and four names were removed for infamous crimes.

Four persons had their names removed by request and eight persons changed party affiliation.

Police Probe Series Of Thefts Here

Typewriter, Check Machine Are Stolen

City police yesterday began investigating a series of breaking and enterings in the Liberty Trust Company building, Goldfine's Studio and Dezen's Firestone Store.

Articles valued at some $300 were taken during the series of burglaries, most of which occurred over the weekend.

Goldfine's Studio at 117 Baltimore Street, reported yesterday that the quarters were entered some time after noon Sunday and a portable typewriter and case valued at about $130 taken.

Change in the cash register of the studio was not taken by the intruder or intruders who entered the second floor studio by inserting a metal blade back of the door stop strip to reach the latch of the lock.

Offices Entered

A third-floor office in the Liberty Trust Building was broken into, and illegal entrance to three other offices in the same building was attempted.

According to City Police Capt. James E. Van and Det. Thomas J. See, the office of the John I. Vandegrift Construction Company was entered, and a check-writing machine valued at $67.50 taken.

Authorities said that entry to the Walsh law offices on the same floor, and offices of the Tri-State Detective Agency and Beltone Hearing Service was tried unsuccessfully.

Entrance to the Vandegrift office was gained, they said, by prying open the door lock latch with a metal and wood strip.

The incident was reported to Police yesterday by Harold E. Weber, building superintendent.

Tires Are Stolen

Dezen's Firestone Store at 183 Baltimore Street reported that since Thursday afternoon two padlocks have been pried off the door of a shed in the rear of the store.

Taken, police were told, were 10 recapped tires with total value of $70.

Wheat Crop Referendum August 24

On August 24 wheat growers will vote on whether or not marketing quotas will be in effect for the 1962 wheat crop, Elizabeth Hoover, manager of the local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announces.

Quotas for the crop were proclaimed by the Secretary of Agriculture on May 12, she said, but setting of the referendum date was deferred, pending action to provide an improved wheat program from the crop.

While action has not yet been completed on a new wheat program, the date for the referendum on 1962 wheat marketing quotas is being set now in order that as many producers as possible may be appraised of the voting times.

If quotas are approved by at least two-thirds of the farmers who vote in the August 24 referendum, cooperators will be eligible for 1962 wheat price support at a level to be determined later.

If quotas are not approved by the necessary percentage of votes, there will be no limit on marketings, and price support—at 50 per cent parity—will be available to those farmers who comply with their acreage allotments.

Khrush Asks 'Honest' Talks

Titov's Flight Gives Man Ticket To Moon

Moscow Plans Hero's Welcome For Spaceman

MOSCOW (AP)—Maj. Gherman Stepanovich Titov, the newest Soviet space traveler, returned safely from a 25-hour flight around the earth, the Soviet Union announced, and this feat, in effect, gave man a flight ticket to the moon.

"I feel very well," the 26-year-old air force pilot told Premier Khrushchev by telephone. He covered roughly the distance of a trip to the moon and return in 17 orbits of the earth, the Soviets said.

Khrushchev promised Titov a hero's reception on his arrival in Moscow from somewhere in the interior.

"We shall give you a worthy welcome in Moscow, as a whole people, as a whole country," he said.

Titov returned 25 hours and 18 minutes after he blasted off on a journey of about 435,000 miles, the announcement said.

Ate, Slept Aboard Craft

He was reported to have eaten, slept, and manually operated the five-ton space craft Vostok II as he whizzed at about 300 miles a minute at an altitude ranging from 110.5 to 159.59 miles above the earth.

He was fired into orbit Sunday morning and a writer for the Soviet news agency Tass said his silver space ship looked like a "roaring fiery globe" as it shot upward.

Moscow radio said Titov came down near the landing site of the first Soviet spaceman, Maj. Yuri Gagarin. Gagarin is thought to have landed about 450 miles southeast of Moscow on his return from a single trip around the earth April 12.

There were no details and no indication whether the ship landed intact. The Russians said Gagarin's Vostok I landed without damage.

Titov told Khrushchev he had successfully completed his task, had been given a big reception on the ground, had a drink of water, and felt fine.

Party, Kremlin Hail Flight

The Soviet Communist party and government proclaimed that Titov's flight showed manned spaceships will soon "blaze space routes to the moon, Mars and Venus."

In a joint statement they praised "the new tremendous achievement of the Soviet Union, our science and technology, the entire national economy and the great advantages of the socialist social system which is the most progressive in the world."

In London, Kenneth Gatland, vice president of the British Interplanetary Society, said it was likely the Russians would put a man on the moon in 1966 or 1967, with a reconnaissance flight much sooner.

"What is so interesting about this latest Russian success," he said, "is that Vostok II had enough air and food provisions in it for a round-the-moon reconnaissance flight which would last for about five to eight days."

The flight kept much of the world on edge for a day and night. The pilot's series of radio messages—he called himself "the eagle"—were often spiced with a cool touch of bravado.

Latin America Offered U.S. Aid Program

Long-Term Loans Pledged By Dillon; Reforms Demanded

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—The United States offered Latin America Monday a half-century program of economic and social development "to demonstrate to the world that freedom and progress walk hand in hand."

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon urged the 20 nations of Latin America attending the historic Inter-American Economic and Social Conference here to dedicate themselves to "a bold and massive effort."

He made it clear the Latin Americans would have to undertake their own reform programs and organize effective plans so the money "can be put to work rapidly, wisely and well."

He also made it clear the United States would not shoulder all the financial burden. Dillon said international lending institutions as well as Japan and the countries of Europe would join in and eventually stability and organization would attract billions in the Latin Americans' own capital now invested outside their countries.

The delegates listened attentively to Dillon. At the end they rose and gave him a prolonged ovation—except for the Cuban delegation.

Almost before the applause ended, Cuba's economic czar, Ernesto Guevara, led his delegation from the room.

Alliance For Progress

Following President Kennedy's initial pledge of $1 billion a year in public assistance to the continent—three times last year's amount—Dillon launched Kennedy's Alliance for Progress to strengthen the continent against Communist penetration.

He pledged the United States to development loans on a long-term basis "running where appropriate up to 50 years."

"We also intend to make the bulk of these loans at very low or zero rates of interest," the chief U. S. delegate said. With the United States shouldering interest charges, such loans would amount in substance to 80 per cent grants and easily match or better the terms offered by the Soviet Union in its loans to backward countries.

Urgency Note Struck

The immediate U. S. objective here is to win cooperation for the 10-year multibillion-dollar Alliance for Progress to raise living and literacy standards for Latin-America's rapidly expanding population. The meeting is being held at this South Atlantic resort 120 miles from Montevideo, isolated from traditional Communist demonstration tactics aimed at breaking up inter-American meetings.

Dillon's speech aroused immediate enthusiasm among the government-level delegates acutely aware of heavy pressures from the extreme left at home.

A tone of urgency threaded through the speeches of Latin-American delegates preceeding Dillon on the flag-draped dais.

Eduardo Figueroa, Chile's finance minister, warned the hemisphere it is "fighting against time."

Finance Minister Juan Eduardo Azzini of Uruguay, chairman of the conference, opened the session with this statement: "Latin America is boiling . . . we seek the light which will illuminate our men, and we detest the fire which devours them."

Allies Embark On Buildup Job

Big 4 Ministers Achieve Berlin Strategy Unity

PARIS (AP) — The United States, Britain, France and West Germany, after three days of top level talks, set out Monday night on the difficult task of building Allied military strength in Europe while searching out means of avoiding its use in the tension-packed Berlin crisis.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk polished up a report he will make to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council Tuesday, recommending that NATO forces be brought up to full strength by addition of 75,000 to 80,000 men, weapons, equipment and transport.

Experts of the four powers went to work on ways to further impress the Soviet Union that the West is determined to preserve West Berlin, refusing to back down in the face of Communist threats, but willing to negotiate the entire Berlin and German problem if given a reasonable basis.

Asian Problems Aired

The ministers spent two days on the Berlin issue and then the three Western diplomats concluded in emergency conference at noon Monday after a discussion on South Viet Nam, Laos and other Southeast Asian problems.

Rusk told British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and France's Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville American economic and military efforts are starting to bring about an improvement in South Viet Nam's battle against Communist infiltration from the north.

The ministers went on to other global problems only after they were satisifed they had achieved unity with West Germany's Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano on how to proceed on the Berlin and Germany questions.

The Western camp was visibly elated at Von Brentano's reaffirmed declaration in the name of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer: West Germany has complete faith in her Western allies and prefers to remain outside any approach to the Soviet Union in order to avoid muddying the water. Von Brentano told the ministers the Bonn government is confident its interests will be best served by American, British and French negotiators.

Rusk To Visit Adenauer

By way of returning the compliment, Rusk decided to visit Adenauer at his vacation place on Lake Como before returning to the United States.

Conference sources said the Paris talks served two purposes on the Berlin problem:

1. All previous plans and positions were brought together for another look, a search for a hole in the Soviet armor through which the West may still drive home its main point of preserving West Berlin's 2½ million people from being gobbled up by the surrounding East German Communist regime.

2. A new round of diplomatic activity is spurred, first by assigning the standing four-power working group on Germany to new efforts, next by another Western foreign ministers meeting during the U.N. General Assembly meeting in New York in September, and perhaps after that by some recommendations for arriving at talks with the Soviet Union.

Red Spy's Plea Fails, Gets Life Term, Collapses

NEW YORK (UPI)—Leukemia-doomed Dr. Robert Soblen was sentenced Monday to life in prison for wartime spying for Russia.

He collapsed when he heard his fate.

The Lituhuanian-born psychiatrist, stricken with lymphatic leukemia, is expected to live less than a year. He was convicted July 13 on one count of conspiracy to commit espinoage and another count of actually transmitting to Russia wartime secrets, including information about the development of the atomic bomb.

Judge William B. Herlands imposed the life sentence on the espionage charge and added a concurrent 10-year sentence on the conspiracy count. The 60-year-old defendant, a naturalized citizen, could have been sentenced to death.

Before sentence was passed, the ailing Dr. Soblen made an impassioned plea for leniency in which he denied actually being a spy and asked that his age and his physical condition be taken into consideration.

Herlands, who previously had told Soblen that he considered espionage analogous to mass murder, rejected the plea. The judge said this country opened its doors and gave the defendant the chance to earn a living, to enjoy the blessings of freedom and liberty.

"In return," Herlands said, "the defendant betrayed his benefactor."

Soblen will be taken to the federal prison at Springfield, Mo., to serve his term.

When Soblen collapsed, his wife rushed to his side. Soblen's sister, Mrs. Anya Chasins of Montreal, screamed hysterically and was restrained by other members of the family.

TOUGH TALK — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is shown as he spoke over Moscow radio and television yesterday. He accused President Kennedy of meeting with threats Russian proposals on Germany. (AP Photofax via radio from Moscow)

Some Officials See Ray Of Hope In Khrush Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nikita Khrushchev's latest speech made it clear he still intends trying to force the West to deal with the East Germans by dividing Germany permanently, American officials said Monday night.

Some members of Congress saw a note of hope in the Soviet premier's address, particularly his promise not to blockade Communist - surrounded West Berlin. But other officials warned against placing too much dependence on the no-blockade pledge.

The White House, meanwhile, said President Kennedy would have no comment on the speech until he could read a U.S. translation.

Press officer Lincoln White said the State Department would not "shoot from the hip" in assessing Khrushchev's remarks.

Other officials said after a preliminary reading of the speech that it still was not clear how close to the brink of war the premier will go in trying to isolate West Berlin from the West.

These officials said privately that Khrushchev's words indicated no softening of Soviet demands and no fresh hopes for a negotiated settlement of the Berlin crisis.

The only new elements in the Khrushchev speech, according to their preliminary study, were his appeal to the neutral nations for support and his use of the new Soviet space triumph to underline his tough military talk.

Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said the Soviet leader's remarks on Berlin "are all very reassuring if he means it and if those words mean the same thing to him that they mean to me."

Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey said "it is all well for Nikita Khrushchev to tell us of his plans for war, but it is time for the West to demand that he tell of his plans for peace."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., a foreign relations member, said Khrushchev's no - blockade assurance "is a long step" for Russia. "It's about time for both sides to stop shaking missiles and start talking," he added.

Charges West Pushes World To War Brink

Nik Says He Wants Peace But May Have To Call Up Reserves

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev accused the Western powers Monday of "pushing the world to a dangerous brink" in the quarrel over Berlin and said he may have to mobilize reserves and move more Soviet divisions to the western front in Germany.

But he insisted the Soviet Union is not seeking trouble and in these words urged negotiations:

"Let's sit down around a table and negotiate in an honest way.

"Let's not create hysteria.

"Let's clear the atmosphere, let's rely on sense and not on the strength of thermonuclear weapons."

The 85-minute speech — transmitted by radio and TV over the Soviet Union and parts of Europe including Germany—was delivered in comparatively calm tones.

Khrushchev had praise for the newest Soviet conquest in space but he did not brandish it — as had been expected in some Western quarters—as an overriding power factor.

The speech was aimed mainly at President Kennedy, whose address 10 days ago to the American people on Berlin and the world situation is reported to have angered the Soviet leader.

"Dangerous Course"

Kennedy, Khrushchev said, was replying to the Khrushchev proposals for a peace treaty with Germany with threatening measures to increase war strength.

Khrushchev gave little emphasis to his plan announced nearly three years ago to change the status of Berlin by his own hand unless the West agrees to all his terms.

Appealing to the Soviet people to understand if he has to call up more men for the Soviet army, and making no reference to the American plea to let the German question rest for awhile, Khrushchev said:

"The United States is in effect carrying out measures in the nature of a mobilization, and is threatening to start a war. Its allies in the Western bloc support this dangerous course.

"When a situation like this arises, it would be impermissible for us to sit with folded hands."

But the Soviet government has examined the situation and has decided that no increased expenditure would be needed now, he went on. He said the rocket strength, other arms in being and already being manufactured, would secure the country's safety.

Troop Buildup In West Hinted

"The Western powers are now pushing the world to a dangerous brink," Khrushchev continued, "and the threat of a military attack by the imperialists on the Socialist states is not to be ruled out.

"We shall watch the developments and act according to how the situation shapes up.

"It may be that we shall have to increase in the future the numerical strength of the army of the western frontier by moving divisions from other parts of the Soviet Union. In connection with this, we may have to call up a part of the reservists so that our divisions have a full complement and are ready for any actuality."

President Kennedy showed common sense in wishing to avoid war, he said, but he added that expressions of common sense are not enough.

The Soviet Union will "strike a crushing blow at the territory of the United States" and at overseas bases and America's Allies, if war breaks out, he warned.

Western statesmen should not "play with the destinies of the world," he advised, saying "the flames of world war are threatening to ignite."

The tenor of his remarks was

Rev. Niemoeller Hurt, Wife Killed As Car Hits Tree

AABENRAA, Denmark (AP) — The wife of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller was killed and the German Evangelical leader was critically injured Monday.

His automobile spun across a road and hit a tree. Another German woman, Dorothea Schultz, died later in a hospital.

Mrs. Niemoeller was 71. Her husband was imprisoned by the Nazis for eight years. Police said the pastor, 69, may have become ill and lost control of the car.

Niemoeller and his family were reported en route to a vacation in Scandinavia.

Father And Son Indicted In Jet Plane Hijacking

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—A U.S. grand jury indicted ex-convict Leon Bearden and his 16-year-old son Cody Monday on six counts of violating the federal laws last Thursday when they hijacked a $5 million jet airliner and tried to make the pilot fly it to Cuba.

The Beardens were routed from the Continental Airlines Boeing 707 jet airliner after a seige of more than nine hours. They are in jail in lieu of bond totaling $100,000 each.

The counts the grand jury indicted them on include:

—Kidnaping and transporting in interstate commerce Byron D. Rickards, Ralph Louis Wagner and Norman Lindley Simmons. Rickards, Wagner and Lindley were pilot, first officer and second officer, respectively of the plane.

—Conspiring, beginning about July 15 in Chandler, Coolidge and Phoenix, Ariz., to kidnap the crew and transport it in interstate commerce.

—Transporting the plane in interstate commerce, knowing it was stolen.

—That Leon Bearden, 38, the father, previously convicted of a crime of violence (robbery) transported in interstate commerce a 38-caliber revolver and a 45-caliber automatic pistol.

—Obstructing commerce by robbery and the use of force in seizing control of the plane, directing Rickards to fly it to Cuba and holding the pilot, crew and passengers under armed guard from the point of seizure to El Paso.

—Obstructing commerce by extorting their transportation and seizing the plane.

Acting Atty. Gen. Bryon R. White said in Washington that maximum penalties on the charges are life imprisonment for both Bearden and his son; $27,000 in fines for the father, and $25,000 in fines for the son.

U.S., Russ Agree On Air Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Soviet Union have reached basic agreement for the start of direct passenger plane service between New York and Moscow.

A formal agreement should be signed shortly, the State Department announced Monday.

The matter of the direct air route has been under discussion here by U.S. and Soviet representatives since July 18 and only some technical details remain to be ironed out.

The agreement will provide for direct commercial flights by Soviet government-operated Aeroflot planes and by aircraft of Pan American World Airways, which has been awarded the New York-Moscow run.

U.S. officials view the agreement as a purely technical one and attach no political significance to it.

The first direct flights on the 5,000-mile run are not expected to start until next spring because of certain technical problems that must be worked out first.

Cop-Killer, Rapist Executed In Florida

RAIFORD, Fla. (UPI) — Convicted cop-killer Norman J. Mackiewicz, a World War II hero, and rapist Robert W. Davis, were electrocuted Monday.

The double execution, Florida's 30th, ended years of legal maneuvering by the two men to escape execution. Their deaths were the 186th and 187th since Florida began using the electric chair in 1924.

Ribicoff Moves For Auto Blowby Control Devices

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff served notice Monday the automobile industry must pledge by January to provide blowby control devices as standard equipment on 1964 cars or he will ask for legislation to require them.

Such devices reduce air pollution from exhaust fumes.

Ribicoff said he prefers that the effort to help solve the air pollution problem be carried out voluntarily by the manufacturers but that he will move in January to seek legislation if the industry has not announced a voluntary agreement.

The secretary, representatives of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, Inc., Detroit, and engineering representatives of the major auto manufacturers met with newsmen following a discussion of the problem.

Ribicoff explained he had been told the industry is in the process of testing blowby control devices, and that it will take until next April to finish this testing.

He said he was told the devices present engineering problems in that they would be used in diverse climates, at diverse altitudes, and under diverse conditions.

Blowby gas is just what the name implies—unburned or partially burned hydrocarbons which blow by the cylinders of an internal combustion engine—the kind in automobiles.

Such engines have a draft tube through which these gases escape into the atmosphere. The device under study captures the vapors and returns them through the combustion chamber.

Powerful Solid-Fuel Rocket Engine Tested

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A rocket engine with the potential to lift into an orbit a vehicle three times the weight of the latest Russian manned space craft was announced Monday.

Whether it will be developed to full potential still is a question.

Barnet R. Adelman, executive vice president of United Technology Corp. (UTC) said his firm on Saturday successfully test-fired a new solid-fuel rocket engine that weighed 75,000 pounds and developed 220,000 pounds of total thrust.

It is technically possible, Adelman said, to construct within a year a cluster of seven, each twice as large as the one fired, to develop approximately 3,000,000 pounds of thrust.

This, he said, would be enough to put into orbit a 30,000-pound payload—three times the weight of Soviet astronaut Gherman S. Titov's space vehicle.

East Germany's 1961 Farm Outlook Poor

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U. S. study predicts a poor 1961 farm year for East Germany and failure of the Communist regime's drive to match West Germany's agriculture by 1965.

Amid continuing reports of a mass exodus of refugees from East Germany, the State Department circulated Monday a 24-page study which was drawn up by U. S. Agriculture Department experts.

The document noted that East Germany is the only Eastern European country outside the Soviet Union to have announced complete socialization of its farm system.

Saying prospects for 1961 farm output in East Germany appear unfavorable, the study cited manpower shortages, inefficiency and too-late planting of spring grains, potatoes and sugar beets. These combined with natural handicaps including flood damage.

Met, Blaming Musicians' Demand, Cancels Season

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera, blaming "exorbitant demands" of its 90 orchestra musicians, canceled Monday its 1961-62 season and along with it the annual spring tour of America.

There have been two cancelations in recent years that never went into effect, when labor differences were patched up.

The American Federation of Musicians, Local 802, had sought a $78 a week boost for the 90 members of the Met orchestra, for 6 performances a week. The present minimum scale is $170 for seven performances.

The Met's 77th season was scheduled to open in New York Oct. 23 with Puccini's "La Fanciulla del West," starring Leontyne Price, Richard Tucker and Anselmo Colzani.

Last year the Met operated with a deficit of $840,000.

Anthony A. Bliss, president of the Metropolitan Opera Association Inc., said the musicians' demands would add more than $750,000 to the deficit in the forthcoming season, boosting it over $1.5 million.

Most of the Met's stars currently are scattered around Europe, South America and the United States. They were released a week ago from all obligations for the coming season, to enable them to contract elsewhere for their services.

The Met's repertory for the coming season was planned to include 26 operas.

Bliss announced the cancellation of the coming season and added:

"The Metropolitan delayed abandonment of the season until cancellation of principal artists' contracts made it impossible to proceed."

Bus Plunge Report Described As Hoax

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol and sheriff's officers from two counties Monday described as a hoax a telephone tip that a busload of 50 Boy Scouts Monday tumbled into Jackson Lake near the Big Pines recreation area.

"It's apparently somebody's idea of a joke," a San Dimas sheriff's station deputy said.

Emergency vehicles from San Bernardino and Los Angeles counties, as well as divers from Hermosa Beach, were dispatched to Jackson Lake when a telephone call was received by the Highway Patrol. The man, claiming he was at Big Pines, declared that a bus with 50 aboard had plunged into the lake.

Woman Killed, 7 Injured In Three-Vehicle Crash

By The Associated Press

A Hagerstown woman was killed and seven other persons were injured Monday night in an Eastern Shore collision involving two cars and a truck.

State Police identified the victim as Mrs. Rosa Ann Shanks, 61. She was pronounced dead of a fractured skull at the scene, on U.S. 50 near Salem in Dorchester County.

Admitted to Cambridge - Maryland Memorial Hospital were four others injured in the same car. Police identified them as Egbert Smith, the driver; Mrs. Frances Butts, daughter of the dead woman, and two children, Debra Moore, 10, and Gregory Hoover, 11, all of Hagerstown.

A man and woman in the other car were also admitted to the hospital. They were identified by police as Ray Douglas Thomas, 42, of Takoma Park, Md., the driver, and Elizabeth McCoy, 39, of Washington, D. C.

The truck driver, L. C. Horace, 28, of Olney, Va., was treated at the hospital for a leg injury.

State Police said Horace told them he was driving north when the southbound Thomas car veered across the road, struck his truck and then slammed into the Hagerstown car, traveling behind the truck. The truck, loaded with 450 baskets of tomatoes, overturned.

Earlier Monday, two workers died in separate accidents in Maryland, making a total of nine persons killed in the state since last Saturday.

An accident on U.S. 50 a mile north of Hebron, Md., killed Reginald Clarence Davis, 42, of Selbyville, Del., who died when the dump truck he was operating went off the highway and overturned. State Police at the Salisbury barracks said Davis apparently fell asleep at the wheel and lost control of the vehicle.

In Dorchester County, Floyd Collins, 21, of Painter, Va., an employe of the Williamsburg Canning Co., fell into a pit filled with tomato juice and apparently drowned. His body was found by a fellow worker.

Pope Unhurt In Crash

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A motorcycle policeman crashed his vehicle into Pope John's limousine Monday as the Pontiff was being driven into the Vatican. The limousine was damaged slightly but the Pope escaped injury.

The motorcyclist suffered only a foot injury. The Pope had his chauffeur stop to make sure the policeman was not hurt seriously.

Congress Votes Moon Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress Monday gave President Kennedy the money he requested for starting an urgent program to beat Russia in landing men on the moon.

Kennedy had said the project, expected to reach its objective by 1970, was the one remaining area in which the United States could jump ahead of the Russians in the space race.

The moon funds were included in $1.7 billion given the National Aeronautics and Space Agency (NASA) to step up American space efforts.

The NASA appropriation, in turn, was part of a compromise $8,862,350,000 independent offices money bill which passed both the House and Senate by voice vote. The total was $208 million below the budget request.

House and Senate conferees trimmed $77,250,000 from the extra $594 million requested by Kennedy to accelerate the space program. Officials said the cut would not hurt the moon shot.

Expressway Aids Planned

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two state agencies Monday announced plans for a study to determine ways of improving services to motorists using Maryland's new expressways.

A special committee composed of State Police and State Roads Commission representatives will be appointed to explore, among other things:

1. Numbering of expressway exits, which is done extensively on toll roads and turnpikes in New Jersey, New York and New England states.

2. Providing police patrols on expressways with equipment that will enable patrolmen to aid motorists whose cars break down.

3. Locating police and maintenance facilities at places other than interchanges along expressways.

John B. Funk, chairman of the State Roads Commission, and Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of State Police, announced the study plans in a joint statement.

The special committee, they said, would be directed to report its findings not later than Oct. 31.

Sen. Randolph 'Resents' Rep. Moore's Implication

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., Monday replied to criticism by Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr., R-W.Va., of the senator's support of a nuclear power bill.

Randolph and Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., backed an amendment to authorize $5 million for coal research. The amendment was offered by Randolph.

Randolph in a speech prepared for the Senate said Moore had been quoted as saying he was amazed that the best interest of coal miners and the coal industry were traded for peanuts on the floor of the Senate.

The senator said that if Moore was quoted correctly, West Virginia's lone Republican congressman was charging, in effect, "that I uttered a falsehood in the Senate on July 24 when I stated "that there was no barter arrangement in supporting the $95 million project at Hanford, Wash."

"Of course I resent Rep. Moore's implication that I spoke untruthfully," Randolph said. "But I believe he went beyond being accurate and unfair in charging that the best interests of coal miners and the coal industry were traded for peanuts on the floor of the U.S. Senate."

"Inasmuch as the $5 million coal research amendment was adopted by the Senate without a dissenting voice . . . , Rep. Moore's unfortunate use of the word 'trade' is equivalent to charging all senators with complicity in a conspiracy — which I am sure is a figment of the gentleman's imagination—against the coal miners and coal producers of the United States. I regret that a fellow West Virginian has instigated such a false charge."

Charges West

similar to his speech of July 8, when he spoke of negotiation but warned the Soviet Union is building up its military might.

The feat of Soviet spaceman Gherman Titov in orbiting the earth for 25 hours had been expected to be used by Khrushchev for a tougher stand. He had praise at the outset for the young air force major, but his words in the main were like those of last month.

Khrushchev said Kennedy had interpreted Soviet proposals "not as a plan to liquidate the past war but to start a new one" and had replied to them with "a resort to threats."

He mentioned Kennedy's call for a 217,000-man increase in the armed forces, said U.S. senators "were shouting for even higher appropriations" than the $3.5 billion Kennedy asked for, and "military hysteria is increasing in the United States."

As he has said before, Khrushchev insisted "we do not intend to infringe upon any lawful interests of the Western powers—any barring of access to Berlin, any blockade of West Berlin, is entirely out of the question."

But Khrushchev said access rights would have to be settled with the East German Communist regime, which the West does not recognize.

Man Held In Robbery Waives Extradition

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A man captured in Houston Saturday will be returned to West Virginia to face charges of being an accomplice in a robbery and of murder.

Patrick L. Muldrew Jr., 27, waived extradition charges Monday in a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Ralph Fowler, who sent his bond at $5,000.

Muldrew will be returned to Wheeling, W. Va., where he is wanted in connection with a grocery store robbery there. He was arrested here when a policeman recognized his car.

BERLIN (AP) — Two refugees from the East reached West Berlin during the night wearing only trunks. The two, 22-year-old mechanics, swam a lake to get here.

Financier Faces Charges In Dog's Locked Car Death

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — John Fox, former Boston publisher and financier, was charged with cruelty to animals Monday after one of two great Danes he had locked in his parked automobile died of suffocation.

Robert Malik, a Fayette County humane officer, brought the charges against Fox. Malik said the dogs were found locked in Fox's car last Saturday while it was parked in a lot here.

One of the dogs had died and the other was suffering from lack of oxygen, Malik said, even though the windows in the car had been lowered about two inches. Malik said it was a hot day and the interior of the car became very hot.

Tawes Intervenes In Electrical Strike

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes met with union officials and electrical contractors Monday night in an effort to settle a 51-day-old strike which has hampered construction work in the Baltimore metropolitan area.

Called to the governor's office for the meeting were representatives of the Maryland chapter of the National Electrical Contractors Association, which includes 28 employers, and officials of striking Local 28 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The governor asked them to get together "for the public good." He said millions of dollars of construction work is being tied up and numerous people are unemployed as well as the 1,400 members of the striking local.

Telephone saves Myers family $19.40... helps keep Little League team on the ball

The Myers' son, Hudson, calls a Little League teammate to let him know the time to meet for practice.

We recently asked Mrs. H. Hudson Myers, Jr., of Lutherville, to keep a two-week "telephone diary" of her family's telephone calls. Our reason: to find out how much time, money and travel the telephone saves them.

At the end of two weeks, the totals in Mrs. Myers' diary showed their telephone saved 20 valuable hours, 210 miles of travel and $19.40.

The Myers' ten-year-old son, Hudson, found the phone pretty handy, too. He arranges the practice sessions for his Little League baseball team—a roundup job that would take hours without the telephone. He's a big telephone fan.

What would a telephone diary show in your home? You'd probably find, too, that your telephone does far more for you . . . than the small amount it costs.

State Police Capture Labor Camp Escapees

HOOPER ISLAND, Md. (AP) — State Police Monday captured three escapees from the Poplar Hill labor camp who were hiding in an unoccupied house here.

Arrested were Joel D. Lewis, 46, of Hooper Island; Walter Shipley Jr., 41, of Westminster, Md.; and Jack R. Sproiles of Baltimore. Lewis was serving an 18-year sentence on murder charges. The other two were serving terms for robbery.

Police said the trio had walked away from the minimum security camp near Salisbury early Sunday morning. Their escape brought to seven the number of inmates who walked away from the Eastern Shore camp in the past week. All have been recaptured.

In Baltimore, the superintendent of Maryland's Department of Correction, James Curran, said there were no security measures, as such, at the camp. He said prisoners were thoroughly screened before being assigned there.

Shipley was in the State Penitentiary for 10 months before transfer to the labor camp, Curran said, and had spent more than two years at the camp on a previous confinement. Shipley had been at the camp for 3½ years under a current sentence before his escape, Curran reported.

Lewis had been at Poplar Hill only eight months, Curran said. Previously, he had served nearly 11 years of his 18-year sentence in the House of Correction.

Members of the Wicomico County legislative delegation expressed concern over the series of escapes.

Dels. James E. Caldwell, Robert P. Cannon and E. Homer White Jr. indicated they wanted to know more about how the camp was operated and whether security measures and selection of prisoners were strict enough.

"Obviously, some corrective measure is needed somewhere along the line. I'd want to look into all facets of it before commenting further," White said.

Maryland Briefs

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — A $20 fine has been imposed on last of five men charged with violating the Howard County blue laws.

Circuit Court Judge James Macgill imposed the fine on Harvey Morganstern, 32, of Baltimore, identified as president of the Boulevard Market near Waterloo. He had pleaded innocent.

Morganstern's case had been under advisement. The four other defendents, all accused of operating businesses on Sunday, April 26, received similar fines after the trial.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore Health Department official disclosed Monday that X-ray equipment of all private dentists in the city is under examination for possible radiation danger.

Dr. Huntington Williams, health commissioner, said the executive council of the city dental society invited the investigation "in the interest of the health and protection of the people."

He said the purpose was to "prevent unnecessary radiation scatter which could give trouble." There are 570 private dentists in Baltimore whose X-ray equipment will be tested, Dr. Williams said.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland restaurant owners were urged by letter Monday to drop racial discrimination policies.

The letter, mailed by the Civic Interest Group, a Baltimore organization supporting integration, urged restaurants to serve well-dressed and well-behaved Negroes.

BALTIMORE (AP) — At least 11 per cent of Baltimore's public school population will have to attend school on a half-day basis this year because of overcrowded classrooms.

The Department of Education said Monday 12,248 children will attend classes four hours each day. The total compares with 12,784 part-time pupils during the last school year.

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — A one million dollar family center for performance and teaching of the arts is being planned by the Montgomery County Arts Center, members said Monday.

The plan was outlined as the group acquired its first permanent offices at 7927 Wisconsin Ave. in Bethesda.

A site for the new facility, which members hope to have in operation by 1964, has not been chosen.

Throughout the history of the United States, the proportion of church membership in the total population has risen.

Three Negroes Fined $100 Each For Disorder

FERNDALE, Md. (AP)—Three Negro members of a Philadelphia social club each were fined $100 and costs Monday after conviction on charges of disorderly conduct and assaulting a policeman.

The incident was touched off Sunday when a restaurant operator on Ritchie Highway, in Anne Arundel County south of Baltimore, refused service to more than 50 Negroes who had stopped on their way from Philadelphia to a nearby beach.

Testimony at the hearing before Magistrate Ralph C. Boyd was that two buses containing the 50 club members stopped at the restuarant around noon and that a dispute arose when the counter man, George Geshen, refused them service.

Anne Arundel County police were summoned and the three defendants were arrested for disorderly conduct. During the course of the arrest, officers testified, the three became violent and were charged with striking an officer.

Those fined in Ferndale Police Court were Louis Williams, 40, a guard at Holmesburg Prison in Philadelphia; his wife, Adell, 42; and his stepson, Ernest J. Frederick, 28.

In imposing the sentences, which he termed lenient, Boyd said the restaurant proprietor was within his rights in refusing service.

Williams described the charges as "trumped up." He said he was trying to get the bus riders from the restaurant to avoid trouble when the police arrived and the dispute began.

Pa. Film Censor Appeal Planned

HARRISBURG (AP) — Atty. Gen. Anne X. Alpern says the state asked the U. S. Supreme Court to review a Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruling that declared the state's movie censorship law unconstitutional.

Miss Alpern said the petition for a review was made at the request of Gov. Lawrence.

The State Supreme Court issued its 4-3 decision two weeks ago. It upset the motion picture control act of 1959 which was designed to overcome previous high court objections to the state's original 1915 censorship act.

Miss Alpern said in a statement that the decision of the State Supreme Court "is in direct conflict with a recent United States Supreme Court decision" upholding a similar law in Chicago.

The 1959 law would require films to be approved by a State Board of Censors. Administrative costs of the board would be financed through licensing fees imposed on film handlers.

Members Back Union's Battle

BALTIMORE (AP) — Members of a striking Baltimore electrical union have given almost-unanimous support to their local to continue its battle with the parent group, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW).

The electricians, members of Local 28, voted to continue a 50-day old strike in defiance of orders from the IBEW to either go back to work or lose their national affiliation.

The local obtained a temporary court injunction restraining the IBEW from disenfranchising it. The parent organization had charged that the local went on strike without its permission. IBEW lawyers, in reply briefs, asked that the suit and injunction be dismissed on grounds the court had no jurisdiction in the case.

Local 28 also has charged the National Electrical Contractors Association, representing 26 contractors in the Baltimore area, with failing to bargain in good faith.

The strike against the contractors has impaired electrical contracting work on a number of industrial projects in the metropolitan area.

Volunteer firemen from Prescott and Augusta fought the blaze for some 10 hours before bringing it under control. The 60-year-old three-story, 26-room hotel was completely gutted.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined. Unofficial estimates put the damage at $125,000.

Pemco-Glidden Merger Okayed

BALTIMORE (AP) — The boards of directors of the Pemco Corp. of Baltimore and the Glidden Paint Co. of Cleveland Monday approved a merger of the two firms.

The joining will be accomplished by an exchange of stock valued by the companies at about $10 million.

Plans for the merger were announced jointly by Dwight P. Joyce, Glidden chairman and president, and Richard Turk, Pemco chairman. The transaction is subject to approval by shareholders of both companies.

Glidden is to exchange 200,000 shares of a new 4¼ per cent convertible preferred stock for 100,000 outstanding shares of Pemco common. The new Glidden issue would be convertible at any time into a total of 225,000 shares of Glidden common, at an approximate conversion price of $45 a share, Joyce reported.

Turk is to become a Glidden director and a vice president. Pemco, which produces porcelain enamel and ceramic frits and inorganic colors, would be operated as a separate unit in Glidden's chemicals group.

Pemco, which emplovs 260 at its Baltimore facilities, had sales last year of $8.4 million and net profit of $501,000.

Tobacco Allotment Bill Clears House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a bill Monday to permit tobacco growers to lease and transfer tobacco acreage allotments in the same county for 1962 and 1963.

The leases would be limited to one year but could be renewed for the 1963 crop. The bill also would restrict to five acres the amount of an allotment that could be leased and transferred to any farm.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

Demonstrations were given on how to mount and cap their own stones for jewelry. Bracelets, pendants, necklaces and earrings were made with polished stones. The stationery had feather designs.

When nature walks were cancelled, because of rain, workshops were held, at which time figurines and other Christmas decorations were made. Miss Edith Phiel of the University of Maryland conducted a food and nutrition program.

Wednesday evening three men from the Forestry Department in Garrett County showed films of the different trees and slides of the surrounding areas. A vesper service followed, led by Mrs. Douglas Smith, after which there was group singing and square dancing.

Camp closed Friday afternoon.

Residents Of Arch Street Say Repaving Unnecessary

Property owners of Arch Street told the Mayor and Council yesterday that the street does not need resurfacing and that money the city would spend for paving could be applied to install storm sewers which are of primary importance.

Appearing before council were Carl Amtower, Glenn Watson and George H. Tederick, agent for four properties on Arch.

Amtower made the storm sewers suggestion. He submitted a supplemental petition signed by 14 additional property owners which with another petitions submitted three weeks ago makes a total of 65. The group represents 107 housing units of 142 available or 75 per cent of property owners. He also pointed out that 54 per cent of the property owners are widows or retired persons .

Watson pointed out that under present plans for urban renewal, it is not known if streets as they are today will be here when a comprehensive plan is adopted and put into effect. He suggested the city move with caution in expending money for paving other streets.

Tederick asked consideration for the taxpayer in the Arch Street matter. He said it is a fact that some streets do need resurfacing. In this case, however, he said property owners do not want it and requested definite action yesterday by council.

Amtower later also demanded a decision when told that money is not yet available and council must wait until a budget is set up for this fiscal year. Amtower said then the city should defer action on Arch Street indefinitely.

"We want a commitment," he said. "We want to see council act in our presence."

But the discussion was ended without action, council holding off to discuss the storm sewer situation and to await budget talks.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said he felt council should give consideration to the storm sewers. He said there are two on Arch but 12 on Grand Avenue. He said he would object to resurfacing if water accumulating from lack of sufficient storm sewers would damage the paving. However, if it could be shown that other streets had similar circumstances and worked out all right, he would have to go along.

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder said there are still some questions which have not been answered in connection with the street's condition.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech agreed with both. He said he is not against paving the street but does fear accumulation of ice from insufficient water drainage in winter would ruin the surface. He said he wants the water condition solved.

Amtower reissued a challenge to Street Commissioner John J. Long and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum concerning the care given Arch Street and its street crossings, and the challenge was accepted by Long on behalf of himself and Nuzum. The commissioner said when council desides on what course of action it will take on Arch, he would have Amtower advised so he could be present when the proposal is considered.

Long said no recommendation would be made until the budget is set, a date of August 25 is required by law.

Amtower earlier had said four storm sewers are needed on Arch Street. A contract bid cost for the street submitted yesterday was $9,287 and Amtower said the city's share of this would pay for the sewers.

Rouen, France, is historically famous as the town where Joan of Arc was burned at the stake in 1431. The tower where she was imprisoned still stands.

City Delays Action On Port Work

The Mayor and Council delayed action yesterday on a suggestion that the Flood Control Maintence Department take over maintenance of Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Questions were raised by Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder and Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming whether the flood crew, foremaned by Roy Maphis and with City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum as head of it, could handle the work.

It was pointed out that the flood control crew has a fulltime job in maintaining the flood protection project and that Nuzum is already supervising and consultant on water, sewage, streets, and working the Municipal Planning Commission and on the Cumberland Thruway project.

Nuzum said he had no question in his mind that mowing of grass, cleaning of ditches and similar work could be done by the flood crew and its equipment. One man would be at the airport fulltime to care for hangars and maintenance. He said there was no question of neglect of any duties and that flood work and orders are carried out by the fore-man.

The city has always received good reports when the flood project was inspected by the U. S. Corps of Engineers and that he expects to receive another during the next annual inspection.

In defense of his stand, Nuzum also paid a compliment to Charles F. Heller, who retired last week as airport maintenance superintendent. He said the "city will look a long way" to get a foreman like Heller who as a brick and block man and in construction work, showed exceptional skill. He said he had checked other supervisor's records and they are mostly in supervisory capacities. As for Heller, Nuzum said he was "a rather unique man" in the field of maintenance.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming said it was his understanding flood crew was behind in its work at present and he could not see the reason for tying flood control and the airport together. He said the city has talked about the needs for more manpower for years and he could not understand how it can be pushed aside in this matter and the maintenance staff reduced to one man instead of three at the airport.

Nuzum replied that in talks with Maphis, it had been decided the city could reduce costs in this matter, that the department felt it could do the work and is willing to give it a try.

Fleming said he agreed with cutting expenses but, he said, the weeds grow just as high today as they did three years ago. Then he added: "I do not see how you can do it."

Fleming also said he could not accept the fact that both are giant city installations and that manpower is being taken away from one, making it a "parttime job."

Mrs. Roeder pointed out there will be an increase in "ground work" at the airport in the next few years and Street Commissioner John J. Long said that he, in pointing out Nuzum's various other duties, was trying to remind him he is responsible and none of the duties should be neglected.

Nuzum replied "I have no intention of neglecting any."

Vandals Damage New Rectory

City Police are still investigating acts of vandalism that caused an estimated $1,500 damage to the new rectory of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Oldtown Road.

The damage, which was reported to have been inflicted between 4 and 10 p. m. Saturday, July 29, was called to the attention of police the following Monday.

A large electrical control box in the basement of the rectory, still under construction, was the object of the vandalism.

Plumbers dope was poured over the large switch box, according to City Police Capt. James E. Van and Det. Thomas J. See, who said they were told that the equipment had to be replaced.

Also, the basement wall of the rectory was defaced with roof tar, they added.

City Requests Grant

Mayor J. Edwin Keech will enter into an agreement with the Maryland State Planning Department where the state agency will request an Urban Planning Assistance Grant from the Urban Renewal Administration.

The grant would be used for a project in the City of Cumberland.

Lonaconing Man Among Leaders For U.S. Air Force Man Of The Year

LONACONING — A native of Lonaconing, Senior Master Sgt. Winfield S. Savage, is one of the top candidates for "Airman of the Year" of the U. S. Air Force.

Sgt. Savage is a son of Mrs. P. R. Savage, 18 Allegany Street, and the late Mr. Savage. His mother is the former Miss Mae Atkinson. He is a graduate of Central High School and entered service about 20 years ago.

Currently stationed at Salem, Oregon, he is in charge of the Reserve Squadron Center there. For his work with the squadron and service record Sgt. Savage was recently named "Airman of the Year" for Oregon, Washington, Montana and Idaho. He has also been nominated to compete for the same title for entire West Coast.

If Sgt. Savage wins the West Coast title, he will be eligible for the Continental Air Command award. In the event he wins that title he could vie with other commands for "Airman of the Year." The awards are based on leadership, management, accomplishments and civic activities.

Sgt. W. S. SAVAGE

Sgt. Savage, 40, is a member of the choir of Calvary Baptist Church in Salem and has been active for years in youth programs. He has six children ranging from a 19-year-old son, a junior at Oregon State University, to a six-year-old son.

In 1958 in Germany, Sgt. Savage was selected "Father of the Year" by his Wing. Last year the Salem squadron, to which he was assigned after overseas duty, won top honors as the most outstanding unit in Oregon. For the past two years the squadron has won the title of "Air Reservist of the Year" for that sector.

"If I win the Command title," Sgt. Savage told a reporter, "my wife and I will get an all-expense trip to the Air Force Association convention in Philadelphia in September. I'd like that."

WSCS Studies Church Council

A Council of Churches was the theme of the program that was presented at the recent meeting of the Womans Society of Christian Service of First Methodist Church. Mrs. Elsie Clark, Spirit Life chairman, was devotional leader. Prayer was led by Mrs. Mayme Metz.

Mrs. Vera Metz read the Scripture. Others taking part in the program were, Mrs. Gertrude Broadwater, and Mrs. Lola Shuhart.

A business meeting followed with Mrs. Hazel Houdersheldt in charge. Reports were heard from the secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Gertrude Broadwater, chairman of the parsonage committee, reported that remodeling of the parsonage is nearly completed. Mrs. Bessie Wilkes, chairman of church activities, announced that another pie sale will be held August 24, at the church.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Houdersheldt.

Cumberland Man To Open New Store In Frostburg

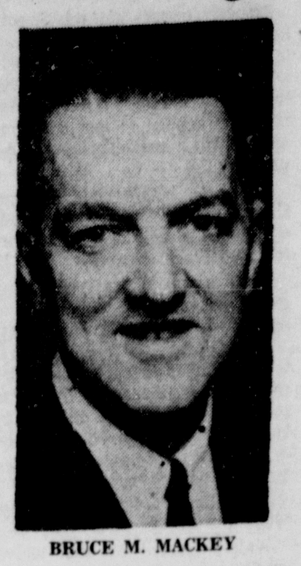

FROSTBURG—Bruce M. Mackey, of 547 Patterson Avenue, Cumberland, who has been affiliated with leading men's apparel stores in that city for 20 years, will open "Crestmont," a men's clothing store, here about August 15.

"Crestmont," which will feature distinctive men's apparel of nationally advertised brands, will be located at 7 West Main Street, the site formerly occupied by the A. Charles Stewart men's shop. Extensive renovation and modernization of the store has been underway for some weeks.

Mackey, a native of Morgantown, attended West Virginia University and came to Cumberland in 1936. In that year, he accepted a position with Kaplon's Men's Store in Cumberland and continued in that capacity until 1949 with the exception of four years in military service. Mackey was a technical sergeant with the 8th Air Force and served in the European Theatre of Operations.

In 1949, he joined the staff of The Manhattan, another of Cumberland's leading men's stores, and remained there until the spring of this year when he decided to open his own business.

A member of First Presbyterian Church, Cumberland, Mackey also has been prominently identified with sports. He was an independent basketball player and a charter member of the Rocking Chair Softball League and is a bowler and golfer.

BRUCE M. MACKEY

Mackey is also a member of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Cumberland Country Club and Elks Lodge 63. He is a past exalted ruler of the Elks and active in ritualistic work of Cumberland Lodge. He was a member of three state Elks' ritualistic championship teams and participated in two national ritualistic contests.

Mackey is married to the former Margaret Stewart and they have three children, Bruce Douglas, 14; Marsha, 11 and Brian, 6.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a practical nurse for a widower about 55. I do the light housework, the cooking, and I give him his medicine. He was in an industrial accident three months ago.

At first my patient was very pleasant but now that his health is improving he's getting too frisky. I'm 28 and happily married to a nice fellow. If he knew how this old gaffer limped after me he'd make me quit. The company my patient works for pays him full salary all the time he is recuperating. They also pay me, and I might add, they pay me well.

I love my work and this assignment is ideal because the man lives close to our apartment. I'd hate to quit, but now that he's getting stronger I don't know how much longer I can manage him. —S. L.

DEAR S. L.: Tell the old gaffer that a guy who is well enough to chase the nurse is well enough to go back to work, and if he doesn't behave himself you'll phone his boss and tell him so.

When you make your position clear he'll simmer down.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going with this fellow for two years. We get along well together. Our only problem is interference from his family. Please tell me if you think I'm being silly about this one thing:

We plan to be engaged on my birthday. Clyde wants to give me a large diamond that belongs to his mother. I don't want it. I've told him I'd prefer a small stone, or none at all. I would feel foolish wearing such a big rock, especially when it's obvious that he couldn't afford to buy such a ring. (He's 23 and still in school.)

He says his mother insists because the family has a reputation to uphold and everyone will be watching to see what kind of ring I get. All this makes me sick to my stomach. How do you feel?—F. E.

DEAR F. E.: Sick to MY stomach. By all means stick by your principles. If you cave in on this one you'll lose them all from now on.

DEAR ANN: Two weeks ago a family with two teen-age girls moved into the apartment directly above us. The radio goes on at 7:30 a. m. in one room and the record player starts in another room — about 15 minutes later. Somebody up there plays the piano, too.

The other night I was sure they must be pounding carpet tacks into the floor but my husband said they were dancing.

I hate to be a complainer but I don't know how much longer we can take it. Would it be best to go to the landlord or shall I speak to the mother of the girls? My sister had the same problem and she went to the landlord. From then on the noise was twice as bad. I'd appreciate your advice. —ASPIRIN HAPPY

DEAR ASPIRIN HAPPY: If you haven't welcomed the new family to the building by all means do so. Bring a cake. Make sure they know you are the lady DOWNSTAIRS. After a friendly visit you'll find them far more amenable to suggestion. The adage is old but it still works. . . "You can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar."

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Three of ♥

A subtle bit of false carding was employed by West to steal a game contract from his vulnerable adversary today. Our impulse is to sympathize with the poor victim, but here are the facts for the reader to judge himself.

It will be seen that on the combined holding four spades was the superior contract. Ordinarily with a holding of a four card major suit and a singleton, the responder will use the two club convention asking the opening no trumper to show a major suit. Altho this particular North-South pair were not employing the convention, a response of three diamonds by North might still have induced his partner to show the spades.

West opened the three of hearts and East's queen was permitted to hold. South won the continuation and the five diamond tricks were then run. East followed twice and then discarded the eight, two, and three of clubs, to announce possession of the ace, so that partner would not discard any hearts in an attempt to guard some club honor. On the third diamond West let go the five of clubs. He then shed the nine, followed by the queen.

Declarer was now apparently left to a spade finesse, but to him it appeared that there was a safer way to bring in the ninth trick. West appeared to be out of clubs. He is known to have had just two diamonds and evidently started with five hearts, that would leave him with three spades, one of which very likely was the queen. At any rate if he is permitted to cash his remaining four hearts he will presumably have nothing to return but a spade, so declarer exited with a heart. West ran his heart tricks at the end of which declarer triumphantly spread his hand, but to his chagrin West produced a club to return to his partner for the setting trick.

Will We Get Any Help From NATO?

Under military provisions of the North Atlantic Treaty of 1949, the Atlantic powers agreed to "maintain and develop their individual and collective capacity to resist armed attack." How to develop that capacity in this hour of maximum peril will be the subject of a meeting in Paris today of the NATO powers' permanent representatives. Secretary of State Dean Rusk asked for the session, the State Department said, so that he may "acquaint them with United States thinking and exchange views with them on Berlin."

U.S. thinking is believed to be that the 14 NATO powers had better get about the job of beefing up their military posture before the expected showdown on Berlin. Whether the allies will follow the United States lead in increasing defense efforts remains to be seen.

Britain, at least, wants to go slow on any military buildup which might contribute to a prolonged period of tension, although it is understood that extra forces would be made available quickly if a crisis develops. The go-slow rationale, as reported by the London Economist (July 29), seems to be that "if the army were to be given a massive influx of rusty soldiery (from the reserves), its energies this autumn would have to be directed to training them, not facing up to the Russians."

One report has it that Washington will ask the West Germans to rush additional divisions into being in the shortest possible time, no later than Christmas in any event. West Germany can scarcely refuse to go along, but cannot by itself be expected to fulfill the long-unmet NATO goal of 30 divisions. NATO's present strength is 23 divisions. Secretary Rusk also has a formidable task awaiting him in trying to get France to look toward Berlin rather than toward Tunisia and Algeria.

These Days

The Tip Off

As early as the Potsdam Conference (July 17, 1945) Stalin made it clear that Soviet Russia would oppose the participation of China in European and world affairs, despite the fact that China had been at war with Japan since September 1931. Had China not kept Japan occupied, it is likely that the Japanese, using Manchuria as a base, would have conquered Mongolia and parts of Siberia as far east as Lake Baikal.

As a matter of fact, Japan had been active in that region since 1917 and it was only American intervention that saved both Russian and Chinese territory. Nevertheless, Soviet Russia never went into the Far Eastern War until it was over and then came in for the spoils.

So on July 17, 1945, when Stalin, Churchill and Truman were meeting at Potsdam to discuss matters, the following colloquy occurred:

"Stalin: . . . I would like an explanation of the reason for China's participation in European affairs.

"Truman: China is one of the five members of the Security Council.

"Stalin: The decision taken at Crimea provided for quarterly conferences of the foreign secretaries. Does President Truman's suggestion supersede the Crimea proposal?

"Truman: The Crimea proposal was temporary . . .

"Churchill: . . . I think it a needless complication to bring China in. When it comes to drawing up the peace, all countries must come in. The preliminary work cannot be done by telegram. I am content that China should be admitted to drawing up the general provisions for peace but not for the day to day work. China is far from Europe and has not contributed to the European war. Do you really wish to discuss the administration of Germany with the Chinese delegation?"

So, China was pushed out of the meetings where it would have been possible for China to protect herself and her interests. In fact, Winston Churchill aided the Russians in this matter. He said:

"Until the Japanese war is over I see great difficulty in China's having a voice in the trying problems of Europe. I see no advantage in introducing China with the European settlement. They have not fought in Europe. It is possible that while the Council is sitting, the war with Japan will end. Then China can and should come into the World Peace Conference. I do not see that China could help us in settling the question of the Reich."

The next day, July 18, 1945, the China question was again raised by Russia.

"Mr. Molotov again raised the question of China but said that if the Council was to deal with other than exclusively European affairs the objections to China's participation would drop."

"Mr. Byrnes suggested that the Council be composed of five powers but that participation of China be limited to problems concerning the Far East or problems of world wide significance. . . . The other reason for including China was that China is one of the permanent members of the Security Council."

This attitude of the Russians persisted throughout the Conference, despite the fact that Soviet Russia did not participate in the Far Eastern War until it was practically over. The Russians took the same position as regards France, namely, that France should have no voice in the settlement of European affairs, because France had not participated in the armistice.

It was clearly the Russian program first to reduce the discussion to among Three Powers, the United States, Soviet Russia, and Great Britain. Undoubtedly it was the Russian plan to squeeze out Great Britain as well.

Truman was told at the July 18 luncheon that Japan had been ready to make peace. The following is significant:

"I (Churchill) imparted to the President the disclosure about the offer from the Mikado, made to me by Marshal Stalin the night before; and I told him he was quite free to talk it over with the Marshal, as I had informed him at the Marshal's expressed desire . . .

"Here I explained that Marshal Stalin had not wished to transmit this information direct to him for fear he might think the Russians were trying to influence him towards peace . . . I dwelt upon the tremendous cost in American life and, to a smaller extent, in British life which would be involved in forcing 'unconditional surrender' upon the Japanese."

It is startling to read today that American blood was spilled profusely after Japan had sought peace and that the atom bomb was hurled at Hiroshima after that.

Impatient East Germans Pressing Khrushchev For Berlin Settlement

By Drew Pearson

BERLIN—When President Kennedy conferred with Premier Khrushchev in Vienna, the latter told him that the East Germans were raising hob with him for a settlement of Berlin. Khrushchev discussed this almost as if he were explaining a political problem such as Kennedy's task of winning the Italian vote in Massachusetts. He was very clear and very firm, however, about the fact that the East Germans were pressing him, that the status of Berlin had been delayed long enough, that he had been quite patient.

The President got the definite impression that Khrushchev was being pushed and could delay no longer.

If you go to East Berlin, or if you interview some of the refugees fleeing from East Germany, you can understand exactly why Khrushchev is being pushed.

For Berlin is the one place in the world where Capitalism and Communism come cheek and jowl together; where the people of the two political systems can compare the boasts, the claims, the defeats, the accomplishments of each.

If you believe in coexistence, comparison between West German Capitalism and East Berlin Communism should not be odious. It should not cause the danger of war. But it doesn't operate that way.

For West Berlin has become Capitalism's No. 1 showplace—a thriving exhibit of commercial progress, set off with neon lights against a drab and dreary Communist city a few yards away.

And as long as West Berlin is there, flashing its neon signs, showing off its windows full of the latest styles, the latest electric gadgets, the lushest foods, East Germans are going to flock from their Communist state over to the Capitalistic state.

That's why President Ulbricht and Herr Gottwald, and Gerhard Eisler, the little Communist who escaped from the United States and is now propaganda minister for East Germany, are pressing Khrushchev. What they want is not coexistence, but the throttling of West Berlin Capitalism.

They can't afford the daily humiliation of seeing the cream of East German manhood cross the border in a steady stream of 200,000 a year. Nor have they got over the humiliation of having the blonde and beautiful Marlene Schmidt cross over to West Berlin, then to Miami to become Miss Universe. This was not the king of thing for a Communist-governed girl to do, and Allen Dulles's CIA is getting the blame for it.

To see firsthand how East German youth is being siphoned into West Germany, I went out to the big Marienfelde refugee center. In 1953 I saw the refugees housed in empty factories and sleeping on straw sacks. There are no empty factories in West Berlin today. They're all producing. But the West Berlin government has built a special housing project which can be turned into low-cost housing when and if the refugee problem passes.

Inside one of these rooms I talked to a couple, just arrived from Dresden. About 30 years old, they had children five and six. The husband was a tailor, the wife an accountant in a lumber yard. They had left home, she explained, because she got tired working overtime for the Red Chinese and the Hungarians. She didn't mind working overtime for a good cause, but not for them.

Voting With Their Feet

They were leaving that same night for Augsburg in Bavaria to take jobs already promised. This, incidentally, is one reason for the steady trek of refuees into West Berlin. West German industrialists need more labor. In some cases they are in touch with the East German refugees even before they leave home.

There's no unemployment in East Germany. Jobs are plentiful. It too has a labor shortage. But jobs are better in West Germany. So the exodus continues.

Another couple I talked to had just arrived from Leipzig. The husband, not more than 24, had worked with his father on their family farm of about 30 acres. But the farm was collectivized and the boy didn't like working under the state. Futhermore, there was talk that he might become manager. He and his wife left.

"We took are life savings with us," he told me, "and we were afraid we would be arrested at the border for having so much money. So we planned to say that we were going to West Berlin to buy a cow. We rehearsed what we were going to say very carefully.

"When we got to East Berlin, we got on the elevated train during the rush hour when the police would be busy. But out of all the crowd on the train they picked us. We thought the end had come. They examined us separately. However, my wife and I told exactly the same story and they let us go. They never did find the money."

This couple was going to the Ruhr and expected to get jobs in a textile mill.

So goes the march of East Germans from Communism to Capitalism. The East Germans have been deprived the right to vote, but they're voting with their feet. A total of 107,000 has marched into West Berlin since January 1, and the total will be around a quarter of a million before the year is over. The total since the end of the war has been over 2,000,000.

And that's one of the big reasons why Nikita Khruchchev is being pushed.

Foreign Aid Bill Passage Intact Foreseen

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

In a few days, the Senate will vote on the Kennedy administration's $4 billion-plus foreign aid bill; and unless the most reliable prophets are very wrong indeed, the bill will pass without hamstringing amendments.

The same prophets were predicting precisely the opposite outcome until only a few days ago. Long after the Berlin crisis had aroused the Congress to the dangers of the world situation, the prophets were still saying that "foreign aid would be a cliff-hanger;" and they were adding mournfully that the heroine would probably fall off the cliff.

The reversal of the prophetic trend is an important event. At this crucial moment, a Congressional repudiation of the President on the foreign aid issue would be a very grave matter. Yet students of the singular American government process will be even more interested in knowing how on earth the reversal was brought about.

The answer seems to be that even if President Kennedy has not yet found the right way to deal with Cuba, he has at least shown himself a master at the art of dealing with Congress. Foreign aid was the prime test of this mastery, because of the bold decision to include in the bill a provision long demanded by every expert and never before included for fear of Congressional hostility—the provision permitting the Executive to make five-year financing commitments for long-term foreign aid projects, instead of depending on the hazard of annual Congressional appropriations.

This provision was opposed, until quite recently, by seemingly rock-solid majorities of both the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Yet both committees have now favorably reported an intact foreign aid bill, after approving the provision for long-term aid commitments by majorities of 10-to-7 and 17-to-10 respectively.

Those votes have little connection with Berlin. They were much more closely connected with the personal meetings with all members of the two committees, which the President somehow found time for. And these White House meetings, in turn, were directly connected with—in fact resulted from—the smooth Congressional liaison system organized by the Kennedy staff.

The boss of the liaison organization is the able Lawrence O'Brien, a veteran of the Massachusetts political wars, and a longtime Kennedy staff member. On foreign aid, O'Brien was not only assisted by the President in person. He was also much helped by Vice-President Lyndon Johnson, who returned from his Asian journey imbued with downright evangelical fervor for the aid program.

But getting the foreign aid bill off the cliff where it was so desperately dangling, also required judgeships and public works and much other pork and patronage. It has been a tough operation, in fact, toughly and efficiently managed. If one could only know all the details, the result would be a small, exceedingly useful handbook of American backstairs politics, of a type that might rather shock the academic idealists.

For just this reason, this particular handbook is never likely to see print. Even so, one can also be sure that the change of trend on foreign aid has a significance extending beyond the field of foreign affairs.

By much the same methods that produced this change in trend, the largest part of the Kennedy program for this session has already been unobtrusively placed upon the statute books. Education and medical care for the aged have been the only conspicuous failures.

The bill giving Federal aid to education was imprudently drafted without due consideration for the feelings of the large bloc of Catholic voters. Hence it fell by the wayside. Another kind of bill, which may even be a much better bill, is now being prepared for the next session, with precautions which seem to be sufficient to avert sectarian controversy.

The lever needed to pass the new education bill is Federal aid to "impacted areas," meaning areas where education costs have gone up because of military bases or other Federal activities. Some 319 Congressmen are howling for "impacted area" aid. If the Administration can only keep them howling, by denying this aid at this session, as is now hoped, a major education bill will have a good chance next year.

As for medical care for the aged, the President's private poller, Louis Harris, is currently reporting to the White House that this issue everywhere generates the approximate political heat of a high-class blow-torch. The White House has not pressed for medical care this year, because it looks like such good politics to ask for the vote just before the 1962 Congressional election.

Altogether, whether or not you approve of the results, this part of the Administration's business is being carried on in a highly professional manner.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASTE IN INDUSTRY—Assistant Air Force Secretary Joseph Imirie was testifying before a House Armed Services Investigating Committee when the discussion got around to waste in government compared with waste in private industry.

Imirie, with long experience as an executive in private business, expressed the view that there was a lot of waste there, and that government had no monopoly.

Congressmen have long complained about the waste in government and the comparative efficiency in private business. One of them asked, therefore, how executives managed to avoid criticism. Imirie replied: "We in industry hide our sins. We in government can't."

MAIL HEAVY — Maybe it's the international situation or the personal attractiveness of the President, but the White House reports that Kennedy is receiving much more mail from overseas than previous Presidents.

About 5,000 letters a month to the White House are now being processed by State Department foreign language divisions. And the flow shows no signs of abating.

Topics range all over the lot, from ways of achieving peace to pleas for money or other assistance. Some are crackpot, many sincere. Recently, a prime subject was back ailments. President Kennedy got advice and suggested remedies from literally all parts of the globe on how to cure his painful affliction. He was sent prescriptions, home remedies, charms and even a "magic rope" to be worn around the waist until cured.

The White House would not say whether he utilized the rope or any of the suggestions. However, fortunately, he's over his trouble.

Hands Off!

By Theodore Flicker

John Crosby is on vacation. While he is away, his column will be conducted by guest contributors. Today's writer is the owner of the Greenwich Village coffee shop, "The Premise."

I am getting sick and tired of all these attacks on our duly elected or appointed officials by a lot of blue-nosed, un-American Know Nothings! Why, suddenly, all this outcry against bribery and pay-offs? By these irresponsible attacks on bribery we are striking at the very foundations of good government, and it must be stopped!

The time is at hand to come out in the open, and make bribery legal. The payoff is at the last bastion of rugged American individualism. It is here, in demanding and being able to get preferential treatment, that the ultimate status symbol is achieved, and unless we defend its practice with proper protective laws, it, like the great American bison, will be driven from the American scene. We must re-examine our laws against corruption. An unenforceable law is a bad law, as it leads to a disrespect for all law. We must legalize bribery!

Americans love to payoff. It is part of our nature. It can be seen from the cradle where "Eat your spinach and Mommy'll buy you a nice new ray gun" can be heard, to the latest announcement of the public school scandals in New York City. Americans fix traffic tickets, bribe headwaiters, make political contributions, and "slip 'em a sawbuck, Gus," at every opportunity. Yet it is these same people that are hounding the few hardworking city officials in New York, Boston, and other great American cities, who have dared to do these things in an outward and forthright manner. Shame on the fickle public!

Legalized bribery will eliminate the present hypocritical situation, restore efficiency to public endeavor, provide new funds for the cold war, and eliminate the unemployment problem.

Take, for instance, the police department: underpaid, shorthanded, and held in small esteem by the public. Once the bribe is legal, they can publish a price list. The burden will fall on those who actually avail themselves of the services of the department. The income per policeman will rise (the more service he renders, the more he is paid). The public will be safer. More and more ambitious and intelligent young men will seek their fortunes in police work. And, so, up, up, the spiral will continue, until, at least, crime will have been eliminated, and the police will have regained public respect.

Like drinking, bribery can get out of hand, so a federal agency must be created to regulate it. This would be the Federal Bureau of Bribery, or, FBB. Thus would public interest be served, say, in the case of school construction. The bribe from the contractor to the Board of Education would be registered with the FBB who would see to it that, while the contractor had the advantage of getting the contract, he would nevertheless be compelled by the FBB to make the school in question safe for children. The very creation of these new advantages in public service, not to mention the vast size of the FBB, should be just enough to absorb the mass of the unemployed.

The greatest advantage of the legal bribe will be in securing funds to fight the cold war and eliminate the national debt. The taxes on all of the legal bribes, which of course now will have to be reported income, and on the salaries of all the now employed persons, should swell the national coffers. But, there is even a greater saving: the huge increase in the personal income of the higher officials, such as Commissioners, Mayors, Senators, and the like, will enable the government to eliminate their regular salaries. Why, I can envision the day when politicians will have to submit sealed bids for the candidacies for public office. All of this additional income will swell the Treasury, which will allow the government to spend the money on vast public works, such as parks, sports stadiums, free movies, beaches, and free vacation resorts, in a vast effort to bribe the "little man" who is too poor to bribe his way to fame and fortune, from caring about it.

And you know what? It will work, too.

Cleanliness, Care Prevent Food Poisoning

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Cleanliness and refrigeration lessen the chances of food poisoning. The longer food stands and the more hands it goes through, the greater the possibility for contamination. Micro-organisms multiply in a warm environment and some varieties produce poisonous toxins.

Ordinary refrigeration does not kill these germs; they hibernate like bears when chilled and come to life on removal from the refrigerator. Heat kills them but temperatures near the boiling point are needed to inactivate their toxins.

Certain foods are preferred by bacteria, consequently special care must be used in handling cream or custard-filled pastries, meat and potato salads, leftover poultry, dressings, dairy products, cold egg mixtures, creamed dishes, and cold meats.

These simple facts are the crux of the food poisoning problems at picnics, restaurants, and camps. When the disease occurs, someone goofed in handling or processing the foods responsible.

We do not live in a germless world. They are on our hands, in the respiratory passageways, and in the surrounding air. This means that all food, milk, and water contain a few bacteria but this is not serious because the body can contend with a reasonable number. We get into trouble when a few colonies of micro-organisms are allowed to multiply or form toxins because the meal stood too long in a warm kitchen or picnic basket.

When the food handler has a cold or an infected finger or works with dirty hands, contamination steps up considerably. The food is polluted with a million times more bacteria than might occur in nature. Furthermore, if the handler is a carrier of amebic dysentery or typhoid, the consumers are likely to get a super food poisoning.

TOMORROW: Barbiturate poisoning.

SMALL MEALS

B. R. writes: Is it better to eat a small breakfast or a small lunch when there is a weight problem?

REPLY

Both. Some of my reducing friends drink a glass of Metrecal for breakfast and lunch and eat a well balanced dinner.

HYPERTENSION

G. S. writes: What is the cause of high blood pressure?

REPLY

In the most common form of hypertension, the larger arteries go into spasm and the heart must pump harder to force blood through the narrowed passageways. Tension may be responsible for arterial spasm but the basic cause is not known. Many physicians believe a hormone produced in the kidneys is responsible. Our leaflet on high blood pressure goes into the subject more thoroughly. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this leaflet.

TENDER NODULES

S. B. writes: For several years I have had lumps on both legs. After a recent biopsy I was told I have erythema nodosa. Please tell me something about this disease.

REPLY

These red, tender, tumor-like swellings develop in persons afflicted with certain infections such as tuberculosis, rheumatic fever, or coccidioidomycosis. They disappear when the causative disorder goes away.

BREAST CANCER

L. N. writes: Has the cause of cancer of the breast been discovered as yet?

REPLY

No, but disturbances in the glandular system may play a role because the growth of breast cancer cells is speeded up by administering female sex hormones and retarded by male sex hormones.

NOT THE ANSWER

H. P. writes: If a woman with a severe emotional disorder is getting better, would having a baby help?

REPLY

Pregnancy and caring for a baby usually increase responsibility. Hence motherhood is not recommended as a solution to any emotional disturbance.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

In the same show, Wynn was operating a pretzel stand when a cop told him, "Hey, mister, you can't sell those pretzels here without a license." Wynn answered, "I knew there must be some reason I couldn't sell them. Thanks for telling me what it was."

Concrete Walk To Valley High Is Requested

Residents Oppose Crushed Rock Plan

Mayor Virgil Alexander of Lonaconing, at a meeting of the town council last night, outlined a series of letters and complaints he has received regarding the sidewalk and improvement being made by the State Roads Commission between Valley High School and Lonaconing.

Mayor Alexander explained that the state has a project designated as "widening and draining" the section of Route 36 between the town and the school, and that the project includes a sidewalk made of crushed gravel or stone, over which the children are to walk en route to and from school.

Residents have complained about the walk of crushed stone and are insisting, the mayor said, that a concrete walk be placed along this thoroughfare. The state agreed to the walk, after it was cited over a period of several years, that it is dangerous for pedestrians, especially school children to travel along the route.

Mayor Alexander told the council he has been in communication with John Funk, chairman of the SRC, and that a meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday, at which time this proposal will be considered. He said he agrees, and council concurred, that the new sidewalk should be of a hard surface.

The town attorney, James S. Getty, was instructed by the town council to prepare for immediate pasage, an ordinance which will require all residents and property owners in the future, to repair and replace sidewalks, using concrete and no other material. It was decided that uniformity should be the goal. Some sidewalks have been blacktopped, some have been patched, some are made of brick, and the result is no uniformity.

Everett Spiker was granted a permit to install gasoline tanks and gasoline pumps at a place of business at East Main Street. Council voted permission over the objection of one resident, on condition that the installation conform completely with an existing ordinance on the subject.

A lengthy discussion resulted on a problem of financial liability for a section of worn out curbing at Main and Church streets. With the mayor dissenting, council voted to pay to have this curbing replaced or repaired. The Mayor argued that the property owner should pay for new curbing.

An ice cream vendor who has been peddling his wares several times a week from a truck in the community, was the subject of another discussion. Council decided that he will be notified to obtain a hucksters license at $25 per year, if he expects to continue to market his wares in the community.

Several sewerage problems were discussed and council adopted a policy pertaining to line extensions and taps. It was agreed that the town will pay for 150 feet of sewer line between a residence tap and the nearest trunk or main line. Under no circumstances, it was explained, can the town pay for more than 150 feet of extended lines.

The next meeting of the Lonaconing council will be held August 21 at 7:30 p. m.

Md. Pollution

from the State Planning Department which would streamline and reorganize functions of agencies under the Board of Natural Resources if Gov. Tawes and the Legislature approve.

The Water Pollution Control Commission would be renamed the Department of Water Resources and be given additional control over inland water resources, including supervision of well drilling, now vested in the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources.

The commission discussed the recommendations, submitted to the governor earlier this year, but decided to take no action on them until legislation is proposed and the views of departments are sought.

Generally, members appeared receptive to taking on the added responsibility.

Safeguard your hands and nails with a set of tools!

Secrets Of Charm

Every Woman Deserves A "Hand" — With A Tool Kit

Those "pale hands" men love seem to be things of the past in these days of super-skilled, do-it-yourself damsels. Today's busy hands are trademarked by what I call "camper's cuticle" — and an unsightly condition it is! A woman doesn't have to be a camper to catch it, either. It's her hands that are "roughing it," even in the most comfortable and convenient homes.

Care is the ONLY cure for "camper's cuticle." It's time to give those nimble fingers and nice nails some protection . . . and a parole from all the tasks they've taken on that were never intended for them.

Hands, fingers and fingernails were never meant to be heavy work tools. Prying, pulling, pushing, pounding, squeezing, tweezing, digging, scratching and poking can be accomplished far more easily—and safely—by hands that hold the proper tools to do these jobs. And I mean gloved hands, too . . . whenever the work involves sharp objects, grease or oil, chemicals, garden dirt, or long immersion in water and detergent.

On real camping trips, there may be unexpected emergencies that will turn your hands into tools. But there's no excuse for this at home. Not with all the inexpensive tools and kitchen gadgets on the market to give a helping hand to a housewife's hands.

I believe that every woman, married or single, deserves a tool kit all her own, for housekeeping, gardening and simple paint-and-fix-it projects. She shouldn't have to borrow what she needs from a landlord, a neighbor . . . or her husband, either. (In fact, dipping into a husband's tool collection can be downright dangerous to family peace.)

Most women are glad to use the right tool . . . if it's handy. After all, they're just like everybody else; they can't always afford the time and effort to go hunting in garages and basements—their own or other people's. Rather than waste time or to put off a job (perhaps permanently), they'll improvise with the tools at hand. Usually their hands. Or perhaps with their kitchen cutlery.

A kitchen tool kit, with implements weighted and scaled to the size a woman can handle most efficiently—is a good investment in beautiful hands and nails, and in jobs well done and done immediately.

And, especially for the sake of those split and ragged nails, make sure the kit contains plenty of the tiny tools good housekeeping cries for—small pliers, slender screwdrivers, long tweezers and little wrenches.

Regular beauty care for hard-working hands can be

Berra Hits 332nd Homer As Yankees Take 3-Game Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — A surprise bunt by slugger Roger Maris and a tie-breaking home run by Yogi Berra backed the six-hit pitching of Bud Daley Monday night as the New York Yankees came from behind for a 4-1 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

It was the Yanks' fifth straight success and produced a three-game bulge — their largest lead of the season — over idle Detroit in the American League race. It also marked the return to action of Yankee Manager Ralph Houk, who had been serving out a five-day suspension for a run-in with Umpire Ed Hurley.

Berra's homer, a belt into the lower right field seats on a 3-2 pitch, led off the sixth inning and beat the Angels' top winner, Ken McBride (9-8). It was Yogi's 14th home run of the season and No. 332 for his career, breaking a tie with Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg for 14th place on the all-time list.

The Yankees had tied it 1-all in the third when Bobby Richardson scored on Maris' two-out bunt down the third base line. Richardson had doubled and then moved to third on an infield out.

Daley, (9-15), a southpaw who had lost five in a row, lost a shut-out in the second inning. The Angels, now 0-6 at Yankee Stadium, scored on a walk, a single by Joe Koppe and an infield hit by Rocky Bridges.

Braves And Phillies Bag Series Openers In Dapper Dan Loop

The Braves edged the Cardinals, 3-2, at Penn Avenue Field, and the Phillies downed the Indians, 9-8, at Constitution Park yesterday as the playoffs got under way in the Dapper Dan Little League.

Jim Brannon decisioned "Butch" Fuller to give Manager Bert Lawler's Braves the opener of their best-of-three series with the Cardinals.

Brannon pitched shutout ball until the final frame when Dave Coffman's single and Kenny Green's homes averted a shutout for the Cardinals. Brannon struck out eight while Fuller fanned seven.

Pat McClean's sacrifice fly scored what proved to be the deciding run in the third inning after Jim Brannon walked and advanced to third on Tom Beyer's two-base belt.

Green of the Cardinals and Steven Friend of the Braves had two hits each.

The second game of the series is set for Wednesday at 6 p. m., at Constitution Park.

Trailing 8-7 as the result of a 5-run explosion in the top of the final inning, the Phillies pulled the game out of the fire in the bottom of the 6th when Jim Bennett's double sent Terry Deremer and Steve Walters home with the tying and winning runs.

Four bases on balls by Terry Deremer, coupled with Leasure's two-run single and a double by Weisenmiller featured the Indians' 5-run rally in the final stanza.

Ralph Leasure batted in three of the Indians' runs with a two-bagger and two singles. Jim Hillebrecht, losing pitcher, and Jerry Weisenmiller had two hits each. Terry Deremer, winning hurler, belted a triple and two singles while Jim Bennett and Gary Knowlton rapped two doubles each for the Phillies.

The teams clash again Wednesday at 6 p. m., at Penn Avenue Field. Scores:

Bosox Beat Twins, 5-4

Fornieles Stars On Mound, At Bat

BOSTON (UPI) — Mike Fornieles pitched and batted the Boston Red Sox to a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader Monday night at Fenway Park.

Fornieles pitched five innings of shutout ball as he relieved Ike Delock to receive credit for his sixth win of the season. The veteran Cuba-born righthander started Boston's game-winning rally in the ninth inning.

With one out and the score tied 4-4, Fornieles doubled off the left field wall. After Chuck Schilling popped out, Gary Geiger was handed an intentional walk. Carl Yastrzemski made this strategy look bad by singling to center to score Fornieles with the winning run.

Don Lee went all the way for Minnesota and was tagged with his third setback of the year against three wins.

Cincy Jolted By Cards, 5-1

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Stan Musial and Carl Sawatski smashed home runs to lead the St. Louis Cardinals and Larry Jackson to a 5-1 win over the Cincinnati Redlegs, who fell six percentage points behind first-place Los Angeles Monday night.

It was the veteran righthander's fifth consecutive win, as well as the Cardinals'. He gave up seven hits.

The Redbirds jumped off to a 4-0 margin on a three-run circuit clout by Musial in the sixth inning.

Jackson struck out seven Redlegs and did not allow a walk in bringing his record to 8-8. He pitched out of a jam in the sixth inning when he fanned Vada Pinson and got Frank Robinson to bounce back to the mound with runners on first and second and one out.

Sawatski's homer came in the second inning.

Stars In Relief, Gentile Hits 31st, Sets Club Record

By GORDON BEARD

BALTIMORE (AP) — Relief pitcher Billy Hoeft squelched a budding Kansas City rally in the ninth inning Monday night to preserve a 5-4 victory for the Baltimore Orioles over the last-place Athletics.

Summoned to the mound with two on and one out, Hoeft struck out Norm Siebern and got pinch hitter Ossie Virgil to hit into a game-ending force play.

Trailing 5-1 after seven innings, the Athletics scored three runs in the eighth off Jack Fisher, the second Oriole pitcher. A walk, a bunt single by Jerry Lumpe and a double by Wayne Causey scored one. Two more came across on infield outs.

The winning pitcher was Chuck Estrada (9-6), who benefited from homers by Jackie Brandt and Jim Gentile before Fisher replaced him with the bases loaded and one out in the seventh.

Brandt knocked in three runs with a fifth inning single and a two-run homer, his ninth, in the seventh inning. Gentile hit his 31st homer, a club record, in the second.

The other Baltimore run scored in the fourth when pinch hitter Dave Philley hit into a force play with the bases loaded. It was Philley's 18th RBI as a pinch hitter this season.

Art Ditmar (2-7), the losing pitcher, gave up the first three Oriole runs. Ed Rakow yielded the homer to Brandt.

Tigers Will Pay $50,000 Bonus To Negro Sandlotter

DETROIT (AP)—Willie Horton, 18, a burly sandlot catching star, has agreed to sign a Detroit Tiger bonus contract for $50,000 — the largest ever offered a Negro prospect, the Detroit News reported Monday.

Horton is an Arnold, Va., native who slugged his way to stardom on the Detroit sandlots and drew the attention of at least seven other major league teams. He reportedly rejected a $50,000 contract from the Red Sox.

Optimists Defeat Lions In 8th, 9-6

Rick Merrill outpitched Dave Price to give the Rotary Club an 8-3 decision over the B.P.O. Elks last night in a Hot Stove Baseball League game at Penn Avenue Field.

The win gave the Rotarians a 12-7 record and tied them with the Bedford Road Optimists for second place, five games behind the pace-setting Cumberland Optimists (18-3) who defeated the Lions Club in an eight-inning battle yesterday at Mason Road Field by the score of 9-6.

Merrill turned back the Elks with five hits, struck out an even dozen and aided his cause with three hits. Greg Skidmore smashed a three-run triple in the fourth inning and also had three singles to his credit.

Dave Price, Elks' ace, gave up nine hits, and fired the third strike past 14 batsmen.

Foley banged a pair of doubles and Bowers also had a two-base wallop for the Elks who suffered their ninth loss against 11 victories.

Howard Reynolds was the batting star in the Optimists' triumph. He belted a homer over the fence in left-center to knot the count at 6-6 in the 7th and in the extra inning he won the game with a two-run triple scored on Gene Zais' three-base clout.

Zais, Reynolds and Jimmy Twigg had two hits each for the Optimists and the latter starred at first base. Wagoner collected three doubles while Bill Van Ormer and Whiteman had two hits each for the Rotary Club. Whiteman and Wagner also excelled afield.

The win went to Bill Lueck (6-3) the last of three hurlers used by Manager Lou Marrale. Wagoner was the loser.

Buccos Hand Phils Tenth Loss In Row

Bob Friend Hurls 4-Hitter, Notches 11th Victory, 3-1

By RUSS GREEN
United Press International

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —Pittsburgh handed Philadelphia its 10th loss in a row Monday when Bob Friend allowed only four hits, pitching the Pirates to a 3-1 victory over the Phillies.

Friend (11-13) fanned five and gave up no walks, with the loser's only run coming in the sixth when Ruben Amaro sliced a drive over first base which rolled into the right field bullpen for a triple. The shortstop scored when Johnny Callison hit a sacrifice fly.

John Buzhardt, losing his 12th against three victories, gave up singles to Don Hoak, Bob Skinner and Roberto Clemente for one Pirate run in the first, and a single to Bill Mazeroski, a sacrifice by Friend, and a single by Bill Virdon for another in the second.

Doubles by Virdon and Skinner added the Pirates' final run in the seventh.

The loss marked the second time this year the Phils dropped 10 straight, and the game marked the first sales of beer in Connie Mack Stadium, the result of a recent law passed by the Pennsylvania State legislature.

The beverage is sold in paper cup containers. Fans are forbidden to bring bottled and canned drinks into the park, thus doing away with the beer-can showers of players and umpires which marked several Phillies' games in recent years.

Miss Supertest III Successfully Defends Harmsworth Trophy

PICTON, Ont. (AP) — Zooming Miss Supertest III successfully defended the Harmsworth trophy for Canada Monday and became the first power boat to win the race three times with a crushing victory over the United States' Miss Detroit.

Bob Hayward shot Miss Supertest ahead at the starting gun and quickly pulled into a commanding lead over the American challenger.

Supertest, for the second straight year on the 45-mile Bay of Quinte course, needed only two heats to win the best of three Harmsworth. The ancient trophy, first offered in 1903, was brought to Canada for the first time two years ago by Supertest in a three-heat victory on the Detroit River.

Engine trouble again bothered Chuck Thompson's Miss Detroit, which failed to finish Saturday's first race when an oil fitting split loose.

Miss Supertest's average speed for the 25th Harmsworth — in many years no challenge has been made—was about 98 miles an hour. Her clocking in the first heat Saturday was 100.334 m.p.h. and Monday she slowed down to 96.102. Miss Detroit, slowed by dirt filtering into the water intake, was clocked at 86.367.

The goldfish originated in China.

Market Closes Mixed As Volume Contracts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks closed mixed Monday as profit-taking in blue chips and other pivotals offset strength in defense, utility and miscellaneous issues.

Volume for the day contracted to 3,560,000 shares from 3,710,000 on Friday although tickers ran late at the closing bell when quality issues made a partial recovery.

The market broadened slightly with 1,285 issues traded—20 more than last Friday and three more than a week ago. Declines exceeded advances 551 to 523, but 60 stocks hit highs for the year against eight new lows.

Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Index dropped only 0.01 from the record high hit at last week's close while the Dow-Jones Industrial Average dipped 1.11 to 719.58, indicating the failure of key issues to match the performance of the general list.

Highlights within the Dow industrial group were a 2¾ point loss for Du Pont and a 2⅞ point rise in United Aircraft which announced major progress in the development of heavier rocket engines.

Dow-Jones rails closed at 139.72 off 0.65 while 15 utilities climbed to another post-1929 peak of 119.15, gaining 1.37 largely on a 4½ point jump in Houston Lighting which is considered within stock split range and a 3⅞ point advance for People's Gas which boosted its dividend and proposed a 2-for-1 split.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends, relatives and neighbors, the pallbearers, those who donated cars, Pastor Russell E. Fink, and all those who were so kind and generous to us during our recent bereavement at the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Dora Pittman.

Mrs. Virginia Scaturro
Mrs. Betty Harper
Mrs. Patricia Taschenberger
Mr. Henry Pittman

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Marshall C. Skidmore who passed away 6 years ago August 8, 1955.

Days of sadness are still with us
Tears in silence often flow
Memory keeps you ever near us
Though you left six years ago.
You are gone, but not forgotten
And our hearts ache for you still
Forgotten perhaps by others
But by us you never will.

Sadly missed by wife Catherine, daughter Edith, son Paul and grandchildren.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

Two choices remain open to the President to pay for next year's budget: raise taxes or cut non-essential expenditures. He must do one or the other for the deficit for fiscal year '62 (in the wake of the decision to begin an arms build-up) will be at least $5 billion and could go as high as $10 billion. The President pledged himself to such fiscal responsibility in his State of the Union message when he said:

"This administration will not distort the value of the dollar in any fashion, and this is a commitment. In short, whatever is required to be done will be done to back up all our efforts abroad, and to make certain that, in the future as in the past, the dollar is as sound as a dollar."

He could not have been any plainer nor could he have bound himself any more securely to a course of responsible spending. Perhaps it will be necessary at some future time to raise taxes, although I certainly hope not. Taxes today are at an all-time high and approach the level where they stifle initiative and enterprise. If the President does not see fit to raise taxes—and next year is an election year—then he must eliminate non-defense, non-essential programs from his budget. And there are certainly golden opportunities to do so in the '62 budget.

It has been estimated that nearly $4 billion of the deficit for '62 is derived from non-defense spending. Here is a challenge to the President to put aside some of the programs for which he has fought so hard but which should not be given priority in the current crisis.

The President will also have to exert the utmost pressure to keep the employe growth of the government to a minimum. During the first four months of this administration, net civilian employes added to the federal payroll amounted to over 33,000. And now the Defense Department has estimated that between 25,000 and 50,000 additional civilian employes will be hired following the announced arms build-up.

The President has promised to submit a balanced budget next January. But why wait? Why not work today to balance the budget by reducing non-essential spending? If the nation is to tighten its belt in the years ahead to meet the challenges of the Soviet thrust, then it seems only fair that the Administration go on a bureaucratic diet and eliminate from its menu expendable, non-defense programs and projects.

Craftsmen Back On Job

The approximately 210 craftsmen from the Cumberland area employed on the Mack Trucks, Inc., plant at Hagerstown where operations shut down Tuesday over a wage dispute went back to work yesterday.

A wage increase offer made by the contractor, Fridinger Contractors Company, was accepted Sunday by the members of Hagerstown Local 769, Plumbers and Steamfitters Union.

The plumbers and steamfitters walked off the job when their contract expired August 1. The local wanted a 25-cent raise this year and 25-cent hike the following year. Other unions did not cross the picket line this past week.

Saturday, the members voted to accept 25 cents an hour this year and 17 cents in 1962, upping the hourly scale from $3.50 an hour to $3.92.

Four members of Cumberland Local 489, Plumbers and Steamfitters, are at work on the job, but Cumberland Local 307, Electrical Workers Union, which has jurisdiction over the project, has 100 electricians working in Hagerstown.

Cumberland Local 568, Iron Workers Union, which also covers the Hagerstown area, has approximately 60 men on the project, and Local 37-B, Operating Engineers Union, of here, has about 15 members on the job. In addition there are 30 sheet metalsmiths from here working there.

The meeting will be open to non-members of the society but reservations should be made with C.W. Dickinson at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, telephone RE 8-900.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Nancy Kwan and the man in her life, Maxmillian Schell, who are seldom apart, will be separated very soon. Nancy goes to England to make a picture titled "Tamashine" for Associated British, on a loan-out from Ray Stark. Of course, it's an oriental role, but Nancy will be more British than oriental. She'll wear blue contact lenses and Sidney Guilaroff will design a different coiffure.

Anthony Asquith, one of Britain's better directors, will direct Nancy who plays the only girl brought up in a boys' school headed by her father. David Niven is the actor most wanted for the professor role, and of course, it's a comedy.

There's a trip to Europe for youthful actress Brigid Bazlen and her attractive mother, Chicago columnist Maggie Daly, after Brigid attends the opening of "Honeymoon Machine" in her native Chicago Aug. 16.

I had a letter from Maggie saying "Brigid and I will visit the Nicholas Rays in Rome, and Edouard Cournand has arranged for Brigid to meet young Bernard Lanvin in Paris. This is really the truth, writes Maggie, "when Christopher Sergal asked for Brigid for Maureen Daly's 'Seventeenth Summer,' neither he nor the Paramount brass knew that Maureen is her aunt."

One of America's foremost trial lawyers, and an old friend of mine Jake Ehrlich, will have his legal experiences as the subject of a new TV series.

The title "333 Montgomery" is taken from the address of Jake's business office in San Francisco, and will be based on the colorful attorney's experiences in and out of the courtroom during his 40 years of practice in the Bay City.

Robert Weitman, vice president in charge of TV production at MTM, will film the series with the advice and counsel of Ehrlich.

It was a three-way conversation among Ginger Rogers, Bill Marsha., and myself from Nyack, N.Y., where Ginger and Bill have been playing for a week with "Bell, Book and Candle." Ginger said the house had been sold out from the second day, and that now they were selling SRO tickets.

"In Laconia, New Jersey," interrupted Bill, "the manager of the theatre went home and got some chairs out of his house to take care of the overflow."

Ginger and Bill leave Sunday for Baltimore to open there and after a couple of other stops will head for home.

"I am not going to act in 'The Actor'," Bill told me. "I am only directing and producing with Niven Busch, who is re-writing the script so that the wife's role, which Ginger will play, will be more important."

I must say the two of them sounded very happy.

A few weeks ago Australian critics were blasted by Vivien Leigh for the cool reception they gave her and John Merivale when they opened in "Duel of Angels."

Vivien's mother, Gertrude Hartley, London beauty specialist, sails from England to join her in Hong Kong. This, of course, revives rumors that when Vivien and Merivale reach Hong Kong, that they will be married. But there's no confirmation of this, and when Vivien was here, she denied they had any marital plans.

Street Selected For Paving Test

Cumberland Contracting Company will pave School Street with a new-type smooth-seal as a test street so the city can observe what the material will do and give a definite picture of its texture.

The city, in asking bids recently for certain streets, had asked for contract prices on both asphalt and the smooth-seal. The contracting company submitted the only bids but only on blacktop.

The offer to use the test material at no cost to the city was submitted in a letter to Street Commissioner John J. Long by E. C. Robertson, secretary-treasurer of the company.

Council accepted the offer at yesterday's meeting.

Cumberland Contracting Company submitted the only bid for the blacktop surfacing of five streets yesterday, the total amount being $31,339. The streets include Arch Street, from Oldtown Road to Fifth Street, $9,287; Washington Street from Kiefer Avenue to Fayette Street, $4,863; Greenway Avenue from Williams Street to Brookfield Avenue, $8,817; Brookfield Avenue from Greenway to Kent Avenue, $1,258, and Camden Avenue from Fayette to Highland Avenue, $7,114.

Bids were referred to Commissioner Long.

Council also accepted the company's bid of $3,136 for resurfacing Sedgwick Street.

Church Poor Box Contents Stolen

The "poor box" at St. Patrick's Catholic Church was broken into and cash contents stolen sometime Saturday night, City Police reported yesterday.

Access to the box, used by parishioners for contributions to needy persons, was obtained by entering the church building through a basement window, according to Det. Thomas J. See and Officer Frank A Shober, who investigated.

Locks on the container were removed and haven't been located, they said.

The amount of money taken is not known.

Dental Unit Plans Fall Meeting

The fall meeting of the Maryland State Dental Association will be held at the Chestnut Ridge Country Club, Falls Road, Baltimore, September 17 through 19.

This session will be sponsored by the Baltimore County Dental Association.

Dr. William P. S. Fridinger, local dentist, is the president-elect of the state association and will assume office in May.

On the board of governors for the state body is Dr. George L. Fogtman of here.

Pilot Loses Way

VIENNA (UPI) — A Czech jet fighter pilot who landed here last Friday after losing his way returned to Communist Czechoslovakia Sunday — by car.

The Czech airforce command sent another pilot to Vienna Sunday who flew the Mig jet fighter plane back to Czechoslovakia, Austrian police announced.

Air Lt. Ludwig Zlamal, 30, landed at Vienna's Aspern Airfield because of a failure of his radio and compass equipment.

Two Injured By Automobile Near Station

Brakes Defective On Vehicle

Two young men were injured, one being hospitalized yesterday evening when they were hit by a car near a service station on Henderson Avenue. Police said the car had faulty brakes.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital was James Brant, 18, of 346 Bedford Street, who was reported in "fair" condition last night.

Attaches said he sustained a puncture wound in his left side, a laceration of his scalp, multiple abrasions of his elbow, forearm, body, hip and knee.

A companion, William Hook, 21 of 103 Independence Street, complained of a pain in his ankle, was examined by a doctor and released from the hospital.

Another companion, Paul Brant, about 21, a brother of James, was uninjured in the accident about 7:45 p. m.

The driver of the car was John Vanetta, 805 Maryland Avenue, who was operating a car down Bedford Street toward the boulevard.

When he learned his brakes were not operating properly he turned onto the lot of the Sponaugle Service Station where the three young men were walking toward downtown.

Vanetta said he did not see the three young men as he turned onto the lot. His brakes were checked by a mechanic at the service station and were found defective.

No charges were placed against the driver. The young men were taken to the hospital in the police wagon. Officer Joseph Harvey investigated.

County Library Board Re-Elects All Officers

Dr. Adam Baer of Frostburg was re-elected president of the Allegany County Library Board last night at a meeting held in the county court house.

Also re-elected to one-year terms are John T. Mason, Cresaptown, vice president; Mrs. Richard M. Johnson, LaVale, secretary, and James Alfred Avirett, city, treasurer. George Henderson, city, was reappointed legal advisor to the trustees and Miss Mary Walsh was reappointed librarian.

Other members of the board of library trustees are Okey Michael, Westernport, and F. Allan Weatherholt and W. Wallace McKaig, city.

The board acted upon several budget, administrative and policy questions and authorized Mr. Mason to contact the auditor who does the county and county departmental audits, to complete the annual audit of the library board and to set up a budget for the fiscal year's operation.

It was reported that furniture for the new library branch at Frostburg has been purchased, and that a survey has been made of all branches pertaining to reference materials and other basic needs.

The board authorized the immediate purchase of reference books and other materials needed by high school children and adults, to be placed in the libraries at Westernport, Frostburg and LaVale.

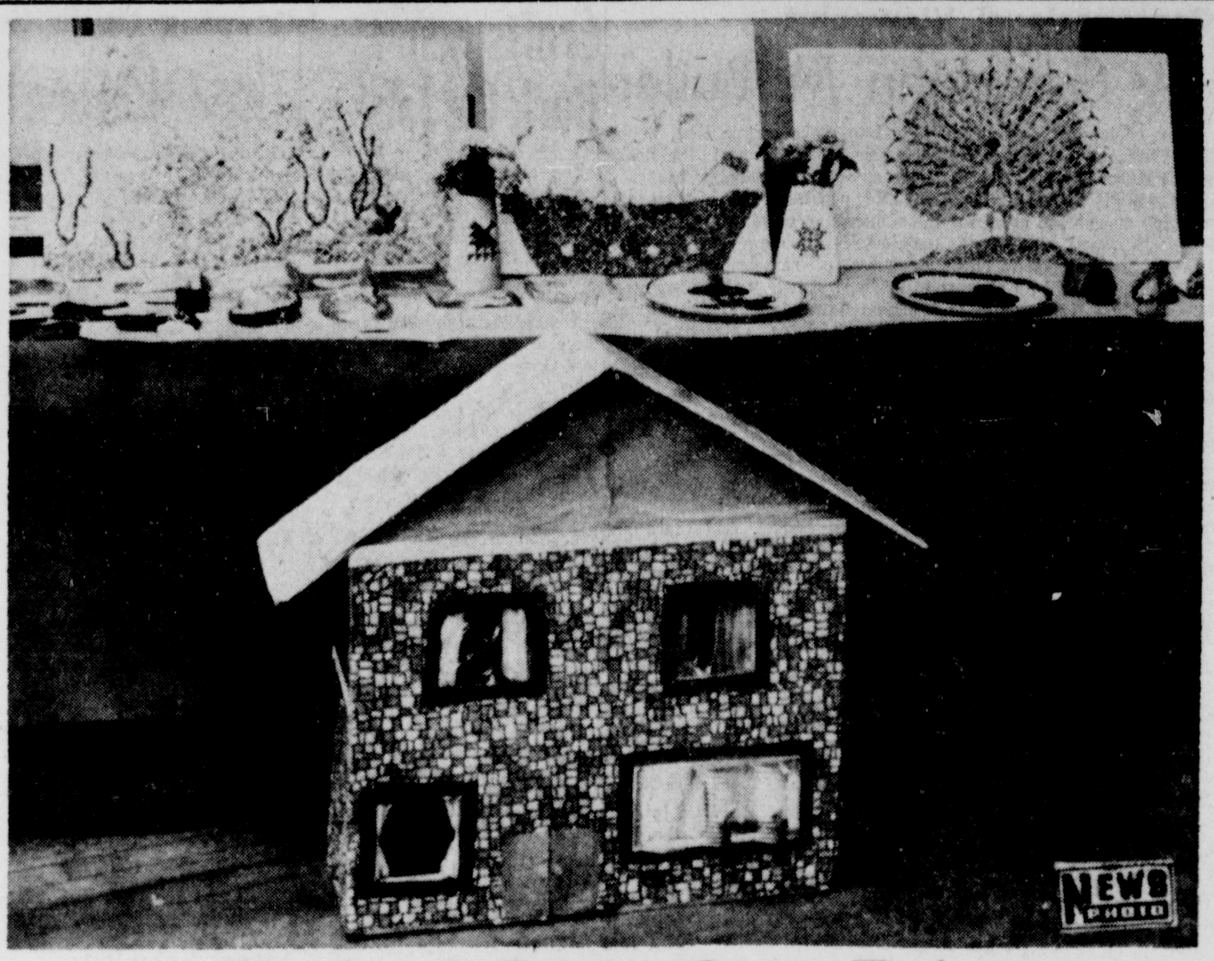

Repairs to the county-owned library annex were discussed and Mr. Mason said these are to be readvertised for bids. Members of the board were in agreement that a dangerous condition exists particularly on the porch of the annex. The board recommended to the county commissioners four months ago that the porch be removed and that it be replaced with concrete steps and a modern entrance.

Miss Walsh reported that remodeling and improvements made by the board to the interior of the main library have increased the efficiency to a great degree and have improved the appearance of the library as well as the convenience of patrons and library personnel.

The next meeting of the board will be September 18 at 7:30 p. m.

Handicraft Exhibit Opens Today

These articles are among the many featured at the annual Handicraft Exhibit which will open today at 65 North Centre Street, opposite City Hall. Exhibits prepared by all 14 city playgrounds will be on display today through Thursday from 1 to 5 p. m. The exhibit is sponsored by the City Recreation Department to show the scope of the program offered here.

Md. Pollution Unit May Curb Developers

Opinion Cites Silt Problem

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Water Pollution Control Commission was advised Monday it has authority to take steps against developers who cause pollution of streams with silt from denuded countryside.

The attorney general's office advised the commission it can draw up "reasonable" regulations against such practices and enforce them under the same powers it has for regulating industrial wastes.

The same authority apparently would apply to farmers who strip lands of wooded protection and cause erosion and stream pollution from storm water runoffs.

Asked For Authority

The commission had asked the attorney general whether it had authority to act in such cases. The request originated with commission member Royal H. Carlock.

The affirmative reply caused some immediate concern about the agency's abilities to cope with so vast a problem with its present limited facilities.

"I'm perturbed about this new added burden that is placed on our shoulders," said chairman Maurice Siegel. "It's going to tax us severely."

The department is now concerned primarily with industrial pollution.

Department director Paul W. McKee was instructed to gather any information he can as a basis for further commission action.

McKee said he is planning to review with the counties any ordinances they have to control silting and erosion. He has already surveyed other states which might have such programs and said the State of Washington appears to be the only one with a comprehensive program.

It was indicated the commission will not attempt to move positively into the field until after the next session of the legislature.

The legal opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert C. Murphy, said:

"Land developers who unreasonably, through lack of diligence in conducting their operations, or from other like inactivity, create and permit to exist conditions conducive to silt discharge into the waters of the state through storm water runoff, are subject to control by your commission."

He said the commission has authority to issue "special orders" to such developers to "compel compliance with the established standards" for water purity.

Reasonable Regulations

If special regulations are necessary to control the problem, said Murphy, the commission can make "reasonable regulations defining and establishing such requirements."

Also at its monthly meeting, the commission discussed a report

Continentals To Be Cited For Battle Participation

The Continentals, local reactivated Union Civil War Infantry Company, will be issued a citation for their performance and participation in the Fisher's Hill battle re-enactment held Saturday at Fisher's Hill, Va., according to word received here by Major Fritz Haselberger.

A contingent of the Continentals were supposed to have been a small part of the Union forces that were to attack and rout the Confederate forces as it happened approximately 100 years ago.

But the Continentals were the only Union force to appear on the field to face the Confederate Army, (approximately 80 men), composed of Company K, 5th Virginia Infantry, Winchester, Va.; Warren Rifles, Company B, 17th Virginia Infantry, Front Royal, Va.; Company E, 33rd Virginia Infantry, New Market, Va.; Company G, 17th Virginia Infantry, Staunton, Va., and one section (two 12 pound Napoleon cannons, each weighing approximately 2,300 pounds) of the Newtown Artillery.

Since wide publicity had been given the event and about 8,000 people were on hand to see the re-enactment, the troop commanders decided to carry on with the planned skirmish, modified to meet the existing conditions.

Volunteers were called for from the Confederate regiments to form the 7th Regiment, New York Infantry, a famous gray-clad Union infantry regiment to help bolster the small Union force. Approximately 30 reluctant Rebels removed identifying items from their uniforms and for a short period joined the Federal army, along with one Napoleon cannon and its Confederate gun crew against their comrades in the pitched battle that followed.

Police Probe Series Of Thefts Here

Typewriter, Check Machine Are Stolen

City police yesterday began investigating a series of breaking and enterings in the Liberty Trust Company building, Goldfine's Studio and Dezen's Firestone Store.

Articles valued at some $300 were taken during the series of burglaries, most of which occurred over the weekend.

Goldfine's Studio at 117 Baltimore Street, reported yesterday that the quarters were entered some time after noon Sunday and a portable typewriter and case valued at about $130 taken.

Change in the cash register of the studio was not taken by the intruder or intruders who entered the second floor studio by inserting a metal blade back of the door stop strip to reach the latch of the lock.

Offices Entered

A third-floor office in the Liberty Trust Building was broken into, and illegal entrance to three other offices in the same building was attempted.

According to City Police Capt. James E. Van and Det. Thomas J. See, the office of the John I. Vandegrift Construction Company was entered, and a check-writing machine valued at $67.50 taken.

Authorities said that entry to the Walsh law offices on the same floor, and offices of the Tri-State Detective Agency and Beltone Hearing Service was tried unsuccessfully.

Entrance to the Vandegrift office was gained, they said, by prying open the door lock latch with a metal and wood strip.

The incident was reported to Police yesterday by Harold E. Weber, building superintendent.

Tires Are Stolen

Dezen's Firestone Store at 183 Baltimore Street reported that since Thursday afternoon two padlocks have been pried off the door of a shed in the rear of the store.

Taken, police were told, were 10 recapped tires with total value of $70.

301 Employes Donate Blood At ABL Plant

Two Persons Join Two-Gallon Club

Employes of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory yesterday gave 301 pints of blood when the Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit from Johnstown, Pa. visited the Hercules Powder Company-owned, Navy-operated facility at Rocket Center, W. Va.

Mrs. John Lohnas, blood recruitment chairman for Cumberland, said 449 persons were scheduled to give a pint of blood, 299 of whom kept their appointment.

She pointed out that 22 persons "walked in" and donated a pint of blood. There were 20 rejections which is considered a rather low percentage, she said.

Junior E. Yacenech, 629 Shade's Lane, and Wallace J. Sherman, of Moorefield, W. Va., joined the two-gallon club.

Dick Lewis, Frostburg, Robert C. Mattingly, 324 Cumberland Street, Shelden H. Harris Jr., LaVale, William A. Taylor, 214 Utah Avenue, Dewey D. Thompson, Bowling Green, John E. Mellin, LaVale, Gordon Sutherland, Bowling Green and Bernard R. Warren, 627 McMullen Highway.

Physicians on duty were Dr. Blaine Schindler and Dr. Harold Allen.

Mrs. Lohnas pointed out that earlier this year when the bloodmobile unit visited ABL, some 153 employes gave a pint of blood.

Yesterday's visit will be the only time the unit will be in the county this month according to Mrs. Lohnas who said it will be at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company on September 11 and in Piedmont, W. Va., the following day.

Wheat Crop Referendum August 24

On August 24 wheat growers will vote on whether or not marketing quotas will be in effect for the 1962 wheat crop, Elizabeth Hoover, manager of the local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announces.

Quotas for the crop were proclaimed by the Secretary of Agriculture on May 12, she said, but setting of the referendum date was deferred, pending action to provide an improved wheat program from the crop.

While action has not yet been completed on a new wheat program, the date for the referendum on 1962 wheat marketing quotas is being set now in order that as many producers as possible may be appraised of the voting times.

If quotas are approved by at least two-thirds of the farmers who vote in the August 24 referendum, cooperators will be eligible for 1962 wheat price support at a level to be determined later.

If quotas are not approved by the necessary percentage of votes, there will be no limit on marketings, and price support—at 50 per cent parity—will be available to those farmers who comply with their acreage allotments.

Intra-City Event Slated Thursday

The Intra-City Stunt Night will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Constitution Park amphitheater under the sponsorship of the City Recreation Department.

Each of the city's 14 playgrounds will present a stunt, which may be original or otherwise, speaking or in pantomime, according to Mrs. Eva Hogan, general playground supervisor.

The purpose of the stunt night is to entertain parents and friends of the playground children. It is not a competitive event, since each playground has prepared only one stunt.

Judges will be Mrs. Francis Kenney, teacher of Parkside School in LaVale, and Mrs. Valletta Gross, special education teacher at Pennsylvania Avenue School here.

Awards will be in the form of games or equipment, which will be used on the winning playgrounds, Mrs. Hogan said.

Truck, Sweeper Bids Will Be Asked By City

The Mayor and Council yesterday authorized John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, to advertise for bids for four pieces of equipment for the Street Department.

Included was one heavy duty dump truck, a one-ton, four-wheel drive truck, a street sweeper and a salt spreader.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light was authorized to purchase equipment, at a cost of not more than $700, to use in controlling the water level of the Fort Hill reservoir and tank.

The equipment would allow crews at the Lake Gordon filter plant to keep track of the water level in the reservoir by telephone. At present, the maintenance man at the reservoir phones in reports to the dam at two-hour intervals from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Referred to the Recreation Department and Planning and Zoning Commission was a suggestion of Charles F. Heller that vacant lots at Cumberland and Chase streets be used for a small playground.

A resolution expressing thanks of the city for Mr. Heller's services was adopted.

The Police Department reported 1,203 arrests were made and $2,606 of fines collected during July. The Fire Department said it answered 35 calls which resulted in minor damage.

Parking meter revenues for the week ending July 30 totaled $792.47, a decrease of $7.33 from the previous week.

The building was formerly used as an appliance store.
